Principal's Reception in Grant Hall is traditionally the rallying point for returning alumni of every faculty and year. In recent years, many faculty members have also attended to visit with former students, and Chancellor and Mrs. Michener have joined Principal and Mrs. Watts at this happy gathering held on Friday evening.

Reunion: wet but wonderful week-end

Not even inclement weather could put a damper on the festivities for Reunion Weekend October 13-15.

The alumni came back in record numbers; in the memory of the Oldest Inhabitant there had never been a larger turnout. From the time the registration began in the John Deutsch University Centre on Friday until the University Church Service on Sunday there was something going on all the time, either organized or generated by spontaneous combustion.

There were bus tours, walking tours, teas, receptions, parades, a football game (the Golden Gaels defeated Carleton Ravens 26-3 on a cold, wet, blustery day), coffee and doughnuts, dinners, dances, cocktail parties. Many of the Reunion classes held special gatherings of their own. And the students got into the act with dances, a date bureau, the Medical Formal, and a pancake breakfast.

Very much in evidence at all the major events were the Chancellor and Mrs. Roland Michener and Principal and Mrs. R. L. Watts. They were on hand to greet the alumni who jammed Grant Hall for the Principal's Reception, to welcome the senior graduates at the dinner in the University Centre, and at many of the other activities.

Special events included the official opening of the Franklin Bracken Health Sciences Library in Botterell Hall; the Science Faculty Reception for engineering graduates; the School of Business Reunion, the highlights of which were an address by Dr. D. I. Peters, Com. '63 (Ph.D., Pennsylvania), vice-president and chief economist of the Toronto Dominion Bank, the presentation of the clock in the University Centre in tribute to Vice-Principal (Resources) R. Hand, former Dean of the School of Business, and a reception.

Exhibitions at the Agnes Etherington Art Centre attracted the attention of many graduates. These included Robin Bell sculptures, J. F. Cockburn watercolours, Surrealism in Canadian Art, prepared by Natalie Luckyj; and a selection of etchings, lithographs and woodcuts from the Munch Museum, Oslo.

All the crazy things we did, kids still do today."

Down Memory Lane

The Journal took a lively interest in the graduates.

In an interview, Marion Hogg, Arts '28, commented that she found "family feeling" among the students still prevails. Strong loyalty to the school was predominant.

Grace Morrison, Arts '18, remembered that "we rode down University Avenue in a horse and buggy." As she recalled it was a bumpy ride along the snow-filled streets. She said that the war halted all social activities, as most Queen's men were overseas. Many of the women spent their evenings rolling bandages.

An Arts '22 grad referred to the social evenings in Grant Hall. Many name orchestras visited Kingston for formals in those days, and "quite a few of the students wore their fathers' ill-fitting suits."....Queen's was known as a poor man's university and the co-eds were glad "we had to wear robes to class as many of us only had a few outfits."

A frequent comment: Although the University has changed radically from a few scattered buildings to a sprawling campus, the students remain the same, year after year. "All the crazy things that we used to do, kids still do today," one said.

One member of Science '48-1/2 said: "We never missed a Gael football game back in my time. The team was better then, and the girls were prettier."

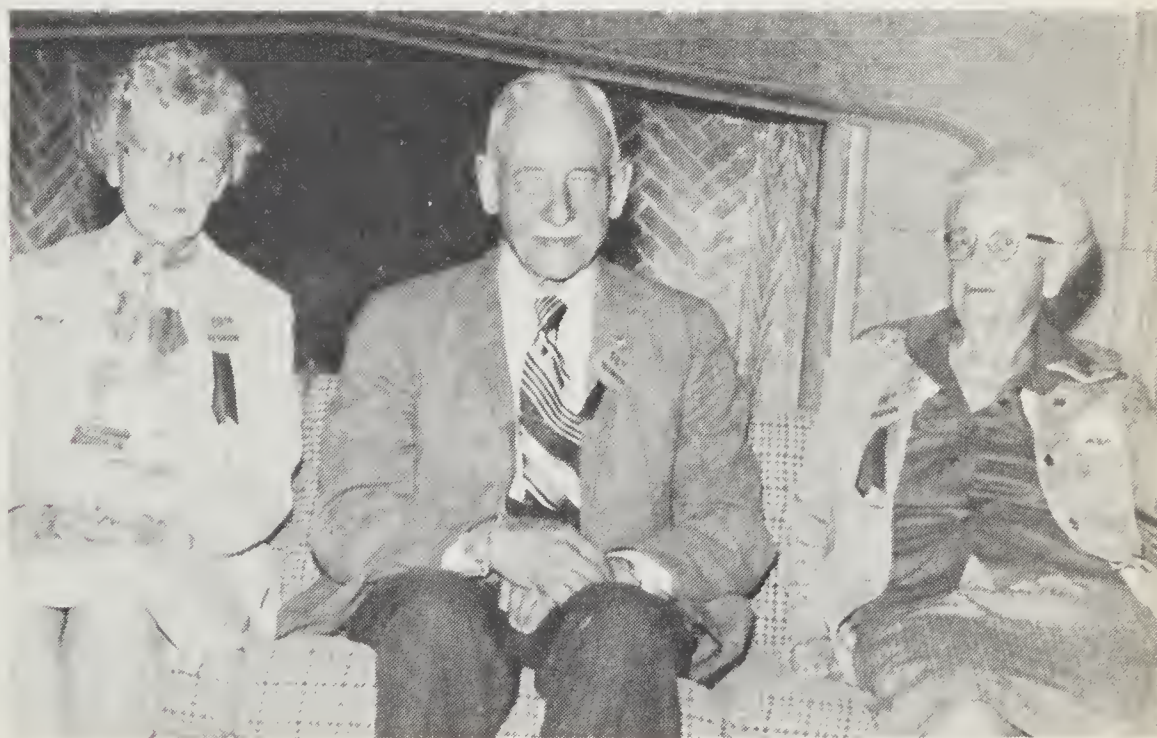

"It was a disappointing experience when I had to graduate from Queen's," said a member of Commerce '47, "I had to become civilized."

And, as the Journal writer observed, in some wonderment: "Even in '68, there was no pub on campus. The Manor was the place to go."

He Was Charmed by the Co-Eds

The "blind date" bureau introduced by the students last year as a feature of Reunion Weekend was repeated in 1978 and received a most enthusiastic reception.

Under this system any graduate, married or single, can sign up for an escort to a cocktail party prior to the Reunion Dinners. Many married couples split up for the occasion and for the opportunity to meet and converse with students of the present day. The oldsters can satisfy their curiosity about current life styles and the youngsters can learn about life in "the good old days." It makes for a mutually satisfying and informative and enjoyable experience.

One graduate, Willie Hefferman,

Arts '36, wrote the Queen's Journal: "I guess I was the only Arts '36 graduate at the reunion. I stayed at the John Deutsch University Centre. Friday evening I met Philip Engs and Valerie McDonald and they insisted that I be their guest at the arena dance. At Phil's table there was Roy, Sam, Val, Michele, Brenda, Janet, Karen and Barb. I was amidst many more charming co-eds who asked me to dance. The University never had more charming co-eds. At the students' pub my blind date was fantastic and later Saturday night at the same pub it was the same friendliness.

"The students sure made my homecoming perfect and words cannot describe my admiration of our fine students."

CHALLENGES AHEAD

The second annual State of the University Address, delivered by Principal Ronald L. Watts on Oct. 16, 1978, to commemorate University Day

It has been said that a university takes pride in her age and observes anniversaries as soon and as often as possible. Be that as it may, I think there is some value on such an occasion in recognizing the historical roots from which the University has developed, taking stock of the current situation and looking ahead to the prospects facing us. The timing is perhaps all the more appropriate because we have just completed a homecoming alumni reunion weekend when larger numbers of graduates than ever returned to revisit their alma mater, and when the AMS has organized for the next three days, beginning tomorrow, a series of events, and particularly panel discussions, for the discussion of the role and functions of the University. I would like to review briefly some of the features that have made Queen's the very distinctive university that it is, and to relate this tradition to the challenges that now face us.

I think this is an appropriate occasion on which to recognize the historical roots from which the distinctive character of this University are derived. Some months ago I had the opportunity to read in typescript form the first volume of the History of Queen's University, commissioned by the Board of Trustees, a volume which will be published by the McGill-Queen's Press before the end of this year. The volume, largely written by Hilda Neatby before her death, partially edited by Roger Graham and completed by Fred Gibson, covers the first 77 years of the history of Queen's, from 1841 to 1918. The history is not only a fascinating but an inspiring one. Readers of that first volume will be struck by how this University during that period was beset by misfortune after misfortune and yet, through the sheer determination of its supporters, surmounted them all to emerge by the end of the nineteenth century as one of Canada's great national universities. In the words of Leonard Brockington, "The story of Queen's is the story of a fire that would not be quenched."

The history of Queen's in the nineteenth century could be described as an experiment in survival. There were repeated financial crises, such as those occasioned at the very beginning by the failure of the hoped-for endowments from the government and from the Scottish Church to materialize, by the double blow in the 1860s of the ending of the annual government grants which had been received during the preceding two decades and the collapse of the Commercial Bank which held all the University's endowment, and by the repeated threats of bankruptcy which made necessary frequent financial campaigns for support from benefactors and graduates. Only a few years after the birth of the new University had been materially assisted by the Union of Synods of the Scottish Church, there was a sharp and complete division among Canadian Presbyterians following the "Great Disruption" in the Scottish Church in 1843, and this weakened the support the fledgling university had expected from that quarter. Furthermore, throughout the nineteenth century there was the repeated revival of what was called "the university question" in Ontario politics and the resulting pressures to concentrate secular higher education in Toronto. As if that were not enough, there were also some occasions of severe internal conflict and controversy, among them a number centering on the medical school, and a period of particular turmoil in the early 1860s which led to protracted legal proceedings over the dismissal of a professor. Yet, Queen's not only survived these crises but grew from its humble beginning when, after the award of the Royal Charter, two professors and fifteen students gathered in March 1842 in temporary quarters, and developed by late in the nineteenth century into a national institution.

During that period the distinctive character of Queen's was shaped. A characteristic which marked Queen's from the beginning from other universities in Canada was an emphasis derived from the individualistic tradition of Scotland, upon intimate relations between professors and students, and upon flexible curricula tailored to individuals. With this went a belief in the importance of student self-government derived from the conviction that the only cure for the abuse of liberty was more liberty. Another feature of the history of that period was the insistence of the supporters of Queen's, firmly rooted in the Scottish tradition of dispersed centres of education, upon maintaining a separate and independent life for this University in opposition to repeated political pressures for the concentration of higher education in one central university in Ontario. Furthermore, from its early days when students were drawn not just from Kingston but far afield from Canada West, Montreal and the Maritimes, Queen's also aspired to reach out across Canada. This urge reached fruition in the latter part of the nineteenth century under Principal Grant, who was convinced that there was a special and unique contribution for Queen's to make to the life of the new nation. He saw Canada as a growing nation and the task of Queen's that of sending out graduates dedicated to building the country. As a result, by the first decade of the twentieth century the national outreach of Queen's was reflected in the substantial number of students drawn from the four western provinces and by its development of widespread extension studies reaching right across Canada.

"I am convinced that no other university in Ontario is in as strong a position as Queen's to meet those challenges successfully."

Another feature of the history of Queen's during that period which stands out is the frequency of quotations from contemporary observers pointing to the outstanding calibre of the scholars at Queen's. Scholars and teachers such as Williamson, Dupuis and Goodwin in the sciences, Watson in philosophy, Cappon in English and Shortt in politics and economics led one commentator to compare the teachers at Queen's favourably with those at Edinburgh and led the President of the University of Toronto to say of Queen's on one occasion, "No other Canadian university has ever had at any one time a group of greater teachers in the humanities."

A particularly noteworthy characteristic of Queen's which emerges from the forthcoming history is the pioneering role which this University has occupied in higher education in Canada. Although it does not possess the oldest charter (that of the University of Toronto preceded it), Queen's was the first university in what is now Ontario to enrol students; indeed it was the first English-speaking university west of the Maritimes to enrol students in Arts; it was the first to initiate willingly university education for women and indeed for a period 1884-1894, established a special Women's Medical College; it was the first Canadian university, after the establishment of the Alma Mater

Society as long ago as 1859, to give students the freedom to discipline themselves; it pioneered the development in the 1880s and 1890s of extension studies reaching out across Canada and as part of this effort established in 1893 the Queen's Quarterly, the first publication of its kind in Canada; Queen's established the first lectureship in politics and economics in 1889 when Shortt was appointed to the post, and was also the first English-speaking university to teach Canadian History as a specific subject, just as it was later to become the first university in Canada and the second in the British Empire to establish a program in Commerce. With the establishment in 1889 of doctoral degrees in the humanities and sciences Queen's also pioneered in serious postgraduate studies in Canada. The creation of the affiliated Kingston School of Mining in 1891 and its subsequent merging with the Faculty of Applied Science in 1915 marked also the prominent role which Queen's played in the development of engineering education. Occasionally, Queen's did overreach itself — two pioneering efforts, the Faculty of Law, 1861-3, and the Faculty of Education, 1907-17, failed to survive and were not revived until quite recently, in 1957 and 1968.

I have devoted a considerable portion of my remarks to the history of Queen's during its first 77 years up to 1918 not only because it gives us some insight into what has made this University a singularly distinctive one on the Canadian scene, but because it also provides us with inspiration for the spirit in which we might face the contemporary problems which face universities today. It is clear from Hilda Neatby's history that the development of Queen's owed much to the professors, staff, students, trustees, graduates and lay supporters who, despite misfortune after misfortune, by their sheer determination not only ensured its survival but, even more important, saw these crises not just as problems but as opportunities for the University to make a distinctive contribution to Canada, and so laid the foundations of Queen's today.

OCUA suggestions: close, merge, convert

As we look at the present state of Queen's and the decade ahead, it is quite clear that the challenges ahead are going to be equally difficult and demanding as were those which faced this University in the nineteenth century, but I am also convinced that no other university in Ontario is in as strong a position as Queen's to meet those challenges successfully.

In a special report entitled The Ontario System: Statement of Issues, the Ontario Council on University Affairs, the independent advisory body which advises the Ontario Government on financing of universities, has attempted to examine the impact which changing enrolment trends and the constraints in public funding will have upon universities in Ontario and identifies as a major issue the importance of maintaining the quality of higher education available within Canada. I draw attention to that report because it will be the basis of public discussion over the next six months or more concerning the future direction which our universities should take and will certainly be the basis for the discussion with OCUA at our annual hearing with that body in the spring. I will just briefly allude to the major points which it makes.

- The difficulties which will face the universities in the decade ahead are the result of the combined effect of changes in the pattern of enrolment and the stated desire of the Government of Ontario to balance its budget through expenditure restraint.

- The major feature of the expected enrolment pattern is a severe decline in undergraduate enrolment during the 1980s to a level possibly 25 per cent below current levels, reflecting the end of the post-war baby boom. The situation in Ontario appears to be further accentuated by the onset of a decline which began last year in the "participation rate", that is the proportion of the 18-24 age group which goes to university. The reasons for the declining participation rate are complex, but among them are the growth of the community colleges, the declining economy, the high degree of unemployment and the media publicity which have affected the attitudes of our society towards university education and particularly towards programs not directed specifically to job training. It is interesting to note that much of this publicity seems to have ignored Statistics Canada figures which indicate that in terms of educational qualifications unemployment is lower among university graduates than any other category, including graduates of community colleges. Nevertheless, the fact that aggregate undergraduate enrolment in Ontario universities this September dropped about 3 per cent, the second year in which aggregate enrolment has declined, makes it clear that the period of overall declining enrolment has begun.

- In addition to this overall decline, there appears this autumn to have been a sharp shift across the province towards professional programs, especially in commerce and engineering and away from arts and science. For example, among the Ontario universities there was a drop of some 12 per cent in the applications for September 1978 for arts and science programs. If this current trend continues, it could have a serious impact within the universities upon the arts and science programs, which have traditionally been regarded as a major core of their activities. It appears that the period ahead may be one in which there will be considerable shifts in the demands for different programs, requiring adjustments in the internal balance with universities.

- The decline in undergraduate enrolments is in turn likely to have a double impact upon graduate studies: the reduced academic employment opportunities for those with advanced graduate degrees and the shrinking pool of those graduating from undergraduate programmes and eligible to undertake graduate studies may affect the viability of some graduate programs, bringing even stronger pressures to reduce duplication among universities. What is of particular concern is that these pressures come just at a time when it is becoming increasingly apparent that it will be essential for Canada to maintain her capacity for research and development in order to compete effectively in an international economy.

"Severe restrictions...include a reduction across the province by 1981-82 of possibly some 1300 faculty positions."

- The second major factor identified by OCUA as a source of difficulty for the universities is that stated desire of the Ontario Government to balance its budget through expenditure restraint. While this policy of constraint is not limited to universities, but applies to the whole range of social services including hospitals and schools, for the universities it comes on top of a period between 1970/71 and 1977/78 in which net real revenues per student had already declined by about 11 per cent. Now, on top of this comes the Ontario Government's decision to limit public funding over the next three years in a way that is likely to produce a further shortfall in real revenues per student of 12 per cent by 1981/82. When to this is added the impact of the devaluation of the dollar upon the cost of imported library books and scientific equipment, and the built-in increasing average staff costs as the average seniority of faculty and staff increases in a period of nonexpansion, you will understand why OCUA itself has concluded that severe expenditure restrictions will be unavoidable in the universities during the years ahead, including a reduction across the province by 1981-2 of possibly some 1,300 faculty positions, along with a corresponding reduction in expenditure upon support staff.

- Because of the seriousness of the situation imposed upon the universities by the convergence of the two pressures of declining enrolment and constraint in public funding, the OCUA report suggests consideration of various means by which, through inter-university co-operation in Ontario, the university system might be rationalized. Among those suggested are the closure of some of the satellite campuses, the merging of programs of institutions which are in close geographical proximity to each other, the conversion of a few universities into polytechnics on the Ryerson model, and a much greater degree of role differentiation generally among the universities.

The Implications Here

What are the implications for Queen's? To begin with, in relation to enrolment trends, Queen's is in one of the strongest positions in the country. We are still attracting larger numbers of excellent undergraduate students than we have space for. Last year, once again, we had the highest proportion of incoming Ontario scholars of any university in Ontario. This September, by contrast with an average decline in enrolment of 3 per cent across Ontario, our enrolment has remained level, right on target, in all Faculties including Arts and Science, the only exception being the Faculty of Education, and the drop in enrolment there is less than the provincial average. It would appear that our reputation remains strong and that Queen's remains attractive to applicants as a university which is large enough to maintain a wide range of programs, while at the same time being small enough to retain a personal character. We continue to draw many more students from every other province across Canada than any other university of our size and also to draw students from abroad. Indeed, because 90 per cent of our students are living away from home while they are at Queen's rather than commuting as occurs in the large city universities, student life here continues to have a distinctive character which contributes to the total educational experience of the students.

In terms of admissions to Graduate Studies it appears that this fall we have continued to hold our own.

A continued feature of Queen's strength is the allocation of our resources in relation to priorities. Comparative data indicates that among the universities of Ontario we continue to spend less proportionately of the operating budget upon administrative and non-academic support services, to spend more on instruction and academic support services, and to maintain, despite inevitable erosion due to financial pressures, one of the lowest overall student-staff ratios.

Historically one of the features that has distinguished Queen's from other universities has been the degree of commitment to the University of its faculty, staff, students and alumni. The continued marked faith and commitment of the faculty, staff and students have been strongly evidenced during this past year by their incomparable support of the financial campaign Queen's Quest, a support far larger than that internally given at the much larger neighbouring institutions of Toronto and McGill in their current campaigns. This has in turn encouraged strong external contributions to the campaign which, in pledges, has already exceeded 7.5 million dollars. This encourages us to believe that we may be able to exceed the 10-million-dollar target by a substantial margin. Here the support of the Queen's alumni, famous for their loyalty and enthusiasm, who turned out in such large numbers this past weekend for the reunion, has also been a major factor.

In short, I believe we should take confidence in the fact that Queen's has unique and enormous strengths upon which we can draw as we tackle the problems and meet the challenges of the years ahead.

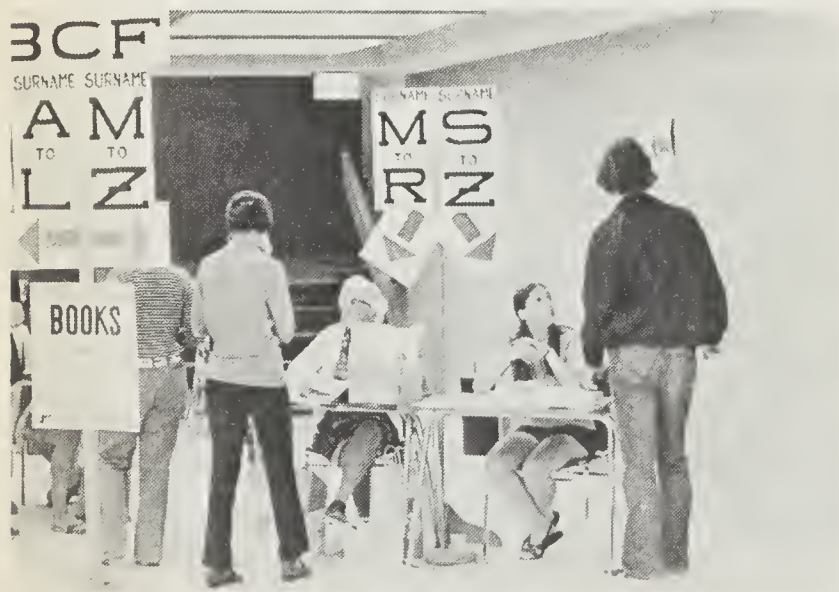

Clearly there are problems to be overcome. We must complete the redevelopment of our health sciences facilities, the completion this year of the first phase of Botterell Hall being but a step on that path; we must make provision to overcome the constrained space available to the Law Faculty; we must carry forward the reorganization and strengthening of the Library which was begun last year; and we must plan for the further modernization of our academic computing facilities. As the Queen's Quest campaign progresses we shall be applying those funds to the purposes of that campaign: library development, equipment renewal, modernization and adaptation of buildings, academic development, research support, and scholarships and bursaries.

But in addition we must also be able to cope with the two basic fundamental problems identified by OCUA: shifting enrolment demands for different fields and the constraint in public funding.

We must be prepared to deal with significant shifts in enrolment, such as the dramatic decline occurring now in all faculties of education, and with potential significant changes in arts and science and in graduate programs, and further ahead in some professional fields.

Just Barely in Balance

On the financial front the pressures will be particularly severe. Although our prospects for the future are better than for most universities, at the present time the revenues and expenditures of the university are just barely in balance. But the salary levels which we were forced to adopt for this year in order to keep revenues and expenditures in balance were clearly inadequate in relation to the current inflation levels. The fact that they were largely accepted by the faculty and staff is a tribute to their commitment to the University. But I believe we must not allow their disparity to continue over the long run if we are to maintain that spirit of commitment and dedication. Furthermore, the uncertain financial prospects are bound to raise among some faculty and staff concerns over the future security of their positions. When more than 80 per cent of our operating budget comes from government sources and the Ontario Government will make no financial commitment beyond the current year, it is very difficult for the University to give long-run guaranteed assurances. I would like to emphasize, however, that it has always been one of the traditions of Queen's, a tradition which carried this University through declining enrolments of the 1930s, that the University would stand by its staff in every way possible. I fully support that tradition, believing that we can only expect a full commitment of our faculty and staff if the University in turn is fully committed to them.

Strategy in Four Dimensions

In conclusion may I suggest that there are four important dimensions to the strategy which I believe Queen's should adopt for the next decade.

*First, we must maintain and reinforce our reputation for quality and distinctiveness. Only then will we continue to draw the best students and give them the quality of education they deserve. This means we must preserve the traditional strengths of Queen's: the quality of its faculty, low student/staff ratios, a vigorous graduate program, and the spirit of collegiality which has been basic to the morale of the institution. But this alone is not enough. We face serious problems in terms of the revenue-expenditure gap, shifts in fields demanded, and our relations with other institutions. A mere defence of the status quo will, therefore, be inadequate. We must be ready to recognize that circumstances are changing, and we must anticipate and respond to those changes.

*Secondly, at a time of increasing constraint in public funding we must do all we can to reinforce the financial support of the University from the private sector. That is why the Queen's Quest campaign to raise 10 million dollars over the period 1978 to 1983 is so important. The success of the campaign so far is encouraging because it indicates both the commitment of the supporters of Queen's and the high regard in which this University is held by the public generally.

*The third important dimension of our strategy must be to identify our priorities in order to focus our attention and our limited resources upon them. Queen's, with its wide and balanced range of strengths, will undoubtedly emerge within any provincial plan for differentiated roles among universities as a leading full-service institution. But some selectivity within each field within the University will be required if we are to apply our diminishing resources so as to use them most effectively. In this context, the work of the individual faculties during this past year in developing specific plans in relation to the objectives of the University is important. Currently a sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Academic Development is reviewing these Faculty plans in order to integrate them.

*The fourth and, to my mind, most important part of any strategy is the need for us to maintain a positive and constructive attitude towards the task of overcoming the problems ahead. I began by pointing out that Queen's is what it is today because in its early existence it always met challenges and adversities by converting them into opportunities for constructive development. If we can maintain that kind of spirit rather than merely reacting defensively and negatively then I am confident that Queen's will meet and surmount the challenges of the coming year and of the next decade.

What can the alumni do to reinforce the goals of their university? Hugh Dodd, External Affairs Commissioner of the Alma Mater Society, gives a student view of the threatened decline in the quality of university education on the following pages.

EXHIBIT A

"The further development of Canadian educational policy is therefore approaching a danger zone, in which more is at risk than simply the quantity of finance available. The virtues of an essentially pragmatic educational policy will be tested to the extreme. If those responsible for educational policy are not promptly able to base the development of school and education on a firm goal-oriented footing, then they risk being pushed to the side in the general political competition for resources."

— Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), Review of National Policies for Education (Canada), Paris, 1976

In the late 1960s, William Davis, then Ontario's Minister of Education, stated that education is the best investment that can be made for the future.

More recently, the Symons Report on Canadian Studies (To Know Ourselves) points out that universities serve "as cultural and intellectual centres, as bases for research into economic and social problems relevant to Canada, as sources of expertise, as storehouses of information (and) as training and educational centres."

In 1976 the Council of Ontario Universities stated: "Research and scholarship provide the essential bases for training skilled manpower, mounting important national missions, and the furtherance of the cultural, intellectual and scientific development of the country as a whole."

Queen's Senate Committee on Academic Development in its 8th annual report (October 1977) acknowledged that for the past decade, accessibility to post-secondary education has been the major public policy advocated by both provincial and federal governments.

Ten years ago, the Ontario Government concurred with these views. Ontario led the provinces in funding for post-secondary education (including both universities and community colleges). What happened? The provincial government has left the role of higher education relatively undefined. As York President Ian Macdonald puts it, "I still believe that we are fundamentally lacking a position on the basic educational philosophy and purposes of universities in today's society." (The University on the Road to 1984)

As a result, in the financially stringent '70s, funding for universities and colleges is getting lost in the budgetary shuffle. During this decade, the rest of Canada has overtaken and passed Ontario in this area of such critical importance to the well-being of the nation.

Between 1967 and 1977, Ontario's proportion of the Gross National Product increased by 2%. However, allocation of funds in Ontario (as a percentage of Canada-wide expenditures on post-secondary education) decreased during that time by more than 3% (from 39.5% to 36.3%). Thus, Ontario has become a richer province, in relative terms, but is now spending less of that wealth on universities.

The Threat to the A Student's

On a per capita basis, spending for post-secondary education has slipped as well. In 1967, Ontario spent the most of any province, per capita, on post-secondary education — 12% above the national average. Using expenditure per student as a basis, Ontario ranked first in 1967-68 in providing operating grants to full-time and full-time equivalent university students. By 1975-76, Ontario had fallen to eighth place, $418 below the national average. (See table.)

One can also notice a decline in the importance attached to the Ministry of Colleges and Universities (MCU) by examining the percentage of the provincial budget allocated to MCU. This percentage decreased from 11.3% in 1972-73 to 9.4% in 1977-78. (1972-73 is a base year, as it brought the freeze on capital expenditures for universities.)

...As Dr. Watts has pointed out, there has been more restraint in public funding, a reality which arises from pressure to limit an increase in the tax burden. The fiscal constraints for the future are worse than the past. In Queen's official brief to the Ontario Council on University Affairs (OCUA) in March 1978, the Principal stated:

"This is a drastic prospect in terms of sustaining the quality of what we are doing, and we shall have to depend heavily on support from private sources to maintain minimum standards in vital areas of academic support, such as the library and scientific equipment."

Yes, the financial constraints being placed on Queen's and other institutions seriously threaten the maintenance of quality in the Ontario university system. A decline in the quality of education will adversely affect the important contributions universities could be making to our country.

However, as Dr. Watts points out, we should not allow financial problems to cause us to neglect new inspirations. Queen's students and alumni may look upon this time as an opportunity to explore new approaches to meeting the needs of Canadian society.

What can be done by the alumni of Queen's

It is important to have an overall societal perspective in mind when one petitions the provincial government. Given the important role that universities play, we should marshal public support for high-quality, accessible education.

Queen's students appreciate the monetary contributions being made by alumni through the Annual "Given the present economic climate both in the private and public sectors, I regret it is already apparent that we will be unable to provide the level of (university) support as recommended... This is not to be taken as a reflection of the validity or the appropriateness of (OCUA's) costing exercise. It merely reflects the limits on the province's financial ability to meet demands in every area of service totally while achieving the government's objective of balancing the provincial budget by 1981."

Alumni Fund and through Queen's Quest. The generosity of these donations shows the keen desire among the Queen's family to ensure that our institution maintains the quality and excellence for which it is renowned.

Future Queen's graduates and, more importantly, society as a whole will benefit from a healthy university system. Private monetary contributions play an important role in helping maintain the system. Queen's alumni may also make just as significant a contribution by embarking on an "informational campaign". Here are a few suggestions:

1. Write letters — to Mr. William Davis, Premier of Ontario; to Mr. Frank Miller, Treasurer and Minister of Economic Affairs; and to Dr. Bette Stephenson, Minister of Education. The address for all of them is Queen's Park, Toronto, Ont.

Can you imagine the impact of 35,000 individual letters of concern from a group as influential as the Queen's alumni?

2. Raise the issues in your local newspapers, or the major Toronto dailies, through letters to the editor.

3. Make university funding a topic of conversation with your friends, co-workers, club members, etc.

In March, Hugh Dodd will be part of a student delegation to Queen's Park to present the AMS-documented case for Queen's to MLA's of all parties.

NUMBER ONE! Gaels co-captains Randy Edgeworth (59) and Jim D'Andrea hoist the Vanier Cup to cheers from 10,000 Queen's fans. It was Queen's second win since the College Bowl began in 1965.

By Herb Hamilton

Queen's Golden Gaels are Canadian university football champions.

They earned this supremacy with ten straight victories in an undefeated season climaxed by a 16-3 decision over the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds in the College Bowl in Toronto on Nov. 18. Upwards of 19,000 fans, half of them noisy and enthusiastic Queen's supporters, were on hand to watch the Gaels win the Vanier Cup, their second since the series started in 1965. The game was televised by CBC, giving that famous Queen's spirit its most public display to date.

The game with the Thunderbirds was a tight defensive struggle. The score was only 6-3 in favour of Queen's until late in the fourth quarter, when a B.C. fumble paved the way for a touchdown by Dave Marinucci. The Thunderbirds were impressive in stopping the Gaels' usually potent passing attack.

The turnovers were many. Quarterback Jim Rutka had three forward passes intercepted in the first quarter; the Thunderbirds had four fumbles and the Gaels recovered all of them. Queen's enjoyed a wide margin in the play of the specialty teams — the punt coverage and returning units. Rookie Tom Macartney set a Bowl record with his broken field running. His best of a 159-yard total return was a 41-yard run which set up the first of three field goals by Blaine Shore, also a Bowl record.

In the Atlantic Bowl at Halifax the week before, the Gaels triumphed 32-10 over the St.

Francis Xavier X-Men, who had the top-rated defence in the country. Behind 10-3 early in the first quarter, the Gaels stormed back to lead 21-10 at the half. The highlights were many, the most spectacular being a Jim Rutka to Tony Manastersky pass-and-run play good for 74 yards. Another big play was Blaine Shore's tackle on Marty Legein at the Queen's 34-yard line when Shore was the last defender.

To qualify for the Bowl games, the Gaels first had to get out of the Eastern grouping of the OQIFC, and that proved no easy task. In fact, it took 20 minutes of overtime for Queen's to overcome Carleton Ravens in the quarter-finals. Queen's had to come from behind twice in regulation time to earn a tie and force the game into overtime.

In the finals Queen's knocked off McGill 23-1 in a display that strengthened the hopes of their supporters. It was one of the better efforts of the Gaels, who scored touchdowns by Tom Macartney and Bob O'Doherty and a field goal by Shore.

And on the way to an unblemished record the Gaels had their hands full with the Bishop's Gaiters, squeaking by 15-14 on the strength of Tim Wardrop's 41-yard punt single with no time remaining on the clock.

The season's complete record was as follows:

 Queen's 52, Concordia Stingers 0
 Queen's 27, McGill Redmen 17
 Queen's 26, Ottawa Gee-Gees 16
 Queen's 26, Carleton Ravens 3
 Queen's 15, Bishop's Gaiters 14
 Queen's 17, Carleton 13
 Queen's 23, McGill 1
 Queen's 32, St. F.X. 10
 Queen's 16, U.B.C. Thunderbirds 3.

The unbroken skein of victories was maintained despite a rash of injuries that kept Head Coach Doug Hargreaves busy shuffling his lineups and his strategy. Queen's was without the services of Quarterback Jim Rutka for four games and Blaine Shore for three games in mid-season. The Gaels were fortunate to have a back-up quarterback of the ability of Bob Mullen to step into the breach. The defensive squad came up with a strong effort all season.

Honours accrued along the way included the selection of Dick Bakker to the All-Canadian team for the second year. Bakker was one of four — along with Rutka, O'Doherty and John Vernon — picked to play in the Can-Am Bowl in Miami in January. Doug Hargreaves was named to the Can-Am coaching staff.

The Gaels placed nine players on the OQIFC (E) Division: OFFENCE — centre, Pat Pliska; guard, Randy Edgeworth; fullback, Dave Marinucci; slotback, Bob O'Doherty. DEFENCE — line, Dick Bakker; linebackers, Ed Andrew and John Vernon; backs, Jim D'Andrea and Ted Tyczka. For Edgeworth, Bakker and Vernon the selection was their third year in a row. For O'Doherty it was the second; in addition, he was named the Most Valuable Player (MVP) in the Division and won the Canadian Football League Tom Pate Memorial Award for being a top student and having the potential to perform well in the CFL.

In the Atlantic Bowl Jim Rutka was selected as the MVP. Ed Andrew was the MVP in the College Bowl.

Congratulations are due to the coaching staff headed by Doug Hargreaves and his assistants John Thompson, the defensive coach, Bill Miklas, Doug Smith, Hart Cantelon, and Bill Sparrow. Since Hargreaves took over in 1976, Queen's has been to both the Atlantic Bowl (twice) and the College Bowl.

Badge Mystery Solved

I was interested to read (Review, November-December) that the Queen's Contingent, COTC, is to have a display of its memorabilia. In addition I am glad to see that the history of the University's contribution to the Canadian Armed Forces has been researched and recorded by K.M. Bindon in Queen's Men, Canada's Men.

With regard to the question about the badge of the 253rd Infantry Battalion, C.E.F. (Queen's University Overseas Highland Battalion), there is little doubt that it is a collar badge. In the C.E.F. badge collection at Old Fort Henry, there is a cap badge for the 253rd which measures about 2-5/8 inches high.

Attention: Queen's Engineers

Publication of the Engineering Directory has been delayed for several reasons, including a major computer changeover in Queen's Computing Centre.

The Engineering Directory should be available by the end of March.

The Faculty of Applied Science regrets the delay and would appreciate your patience and understanding.

Angry Alumna Writes to MPP

When the Review (September-October) arrived, I was utterly dismayed to see the small news item about the halt in construction to Botterell Hall. I promised myself to write my Member of Parliament about it...and thought you might be interested in seeing what I said. Perhaps other Review readers might follow suit and our voices may be heard!

BRENDA (MAYBEE) ZANIN, Arts '70.
Ottawa, Ont.

(The following is from Mrs. Zanin's letter to Mr. Sid Handleman, who represents Ottawa-Carleton in the Ontario Government.)

In the spring of 1976 a huge steam-shovel scraped the hard ground open on the site of Queen's University's long-awaited basic sciences section of the Health Sciences Complex. I was there to photograph the event as a member of Queen's News Department and had observed first-hand the difficulties of the medical education faculty, which this new facility would finally alleviate.

Now I learn (having left the campus two years ago) in my alumni Review that the project has been shelved, the construction management team disbanded, and that a shell of six stories is to remain for an indefinite period! The reason, I am told, is that the Government of Ontario has decided to defer financing.

This makes me very angry. Having worked with many of the medical professors to bring to public attention reports of their research efforts, despite the obsolete working conditions, I know how keenly they must feel this disappointment. I have seen offices the size of broom closets, filing cabinets and cases standing in hallways, and dingy laboratories so poorly ventilated that students were known to faint in the heat during classes.

These conditions are hardly conducive to preparing young people to push back the frontiers of medical science in an age where such advances are extremely vital. And, despite the problems of their physical environment, Queen's medical personnel have already made some significant advances which I am sure the University would be proud to outline for you.

I ask you, therefore, as my Member of the Ontario Government, to examine this unfortunate decision on my behalf and to urge those responsible to reconsider their move. Surely there are less vital areas where funds could be saved. Queen's has long been a place where spending is done with extreme care and efficiency. I for one do not feel it fair to make her wait again for a facility which was overdue even when construction first began.

A Stimulus of Students

The installation of Dr. James Ham, D.Sc. '74, as President of the University of Toronto last fall was marked by a fanfare from engineering students in the justly famed Lady Godiva Memorial Band, culminating in the firing of a cannon which nearly deafened the audience and which filled Convocation Hall with a cloud of dense smoke.

Said Dr. Ham, in acknowledgement: "I salute what I perceive to be a stimulus of students, a prickle of professors, a dither of deans and a panic of presidents."

Two distinguished scholars saluted --- and a great-grandmother graduated

In 1913 Helen Richards Campbell promised her mother that she would, one day, obtain a university education. Sixty-five years later she proved she had indeed achieved that status when she received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Fall Convocation on October 28.

At 81 years of age she became the oldest person to be granted a degree at Queen's. It took a lot of hard work, but she applied herself diligently, received plenty of encouragement, prayed often, and obtained some very good grades. She laughs as she recalls one of her setbacks, a failing mark on an essay about Louis Riel, according to Sheldon MacNeill in an interview published in the Whig-Standard. "When I was in school he was a murderer," she said. "And today, he's a hero."

She tells another story about a paper she wrote for a philosophy class. It had to do with there being no God. Mrs. Campbell told her class marker she couldn't write something she didn't believe.

"He asked me if I had ever seen God," she said. "I said, 'No, I haven't seen the wind either, but I know there is power there.'"

Among those present at the graduating ceremony were May Penwarden, Arts '08, aged 92, who taught high-school English to the graduating grandmother — she has 13 grandchildren and 18 grandchildren.

Honorary Degrees

An honorary Doctor of Science degree was given to James MacDonald Richardson Beveridge, former president of Acadia University, and an honorary Doctor of Laws degree to James Russell

Mallory, R.B. Angus Professor of Economics and Political Science at McGill.

Volume in Tribute to Glen Shortliffe

The collection of articles, Images of the Commune/ Images de la Commune, dedicated to the memory of Glen Shortliffe, one of Queen's outstanding teachers, has been published by McGill-Queen's Press. Contributions from many of Glen Shortliffe's former students and colleagues, along with subsidies from the Canada Council and Queen's University, have made possible a very handsome publication, designed by Peter Dorn of Queen's Graphic Design Unit. The frontispiece is a reproduction of the portrait of Glen Shortliffe by Elizabeth Harrison. Arthur Lower, Professor Emeritus of History, has written a moving dedication to his former colleague and close friend.

Glen Shortliffe was keenly interested in the Paris Commune, and was helping to plan a conference to mark the centenary of the uprising when he died. The jacket, endpapers, and cloth cover feature a symbolic representation by the sculptor Moreau-Vauthier of the Wall of the Fédérés in the Père-Lachaise cemetery where many leading Communards were shot by the French army during the bloody suppression of the uprising in May 1871.

The theme of the collection is how this upheaval, often considered the first really modern revolution because of the role of the workers, has been seen from various viewpoints. Eighteen scholars from seven countries, writing in either English or French, analyse how myths about the Commune have been exploited in Germany, the Soviet Union, and Communist China. Some unusual essays examine the images of the event conveyed in songs, poems, plays, novels and more than a hundred caricatures edited by James Leith of the Queen's History Department.

Former students and colleagues of Glen Shortliffe wishing to purchase this tribute to him can obtain a copy for $22.50 from the Campus Bookstore, the Book Merchant in the John Deutsch Centre, Kingston bookshops, or the Order Department, University of Toronto Press, 5201 Dufferin Street, Downsview, Ontario, M3H 5T8.

Ottawa Rang the Bell!

Despite a fire one evening and a blizzard another, the Ottawa Branch's telethon team completed all its calls ahead of schedule. Organizers Ernie Hurlbut of Queen's and John Oliver of Ottawa pronounced the response FANTASTIC in terms of both volunteer effort and actual money pledged to Queen's Quest. As of Dec. 1, $50,000 had been pledged by 3,067 alumni in the Ottawa area and 2,080 parents. Cha Gheill!

Thanks again to Bell Canada — especially Andy McMahon — for nightly use of Bell's Elgin St. facilities and to Metropolitan Life for daytime office space.

Wrapping Up More Than Gifts

December was an extra-busy Questing time for many volunteers. George Speal and his team wrapped up their list of Kingston area businesses. John Corbett hustled through Brockville, Morrisburg and Prescott. Professor Russ Kennedy made a second appeal to faculty and staff at the end of Year One.

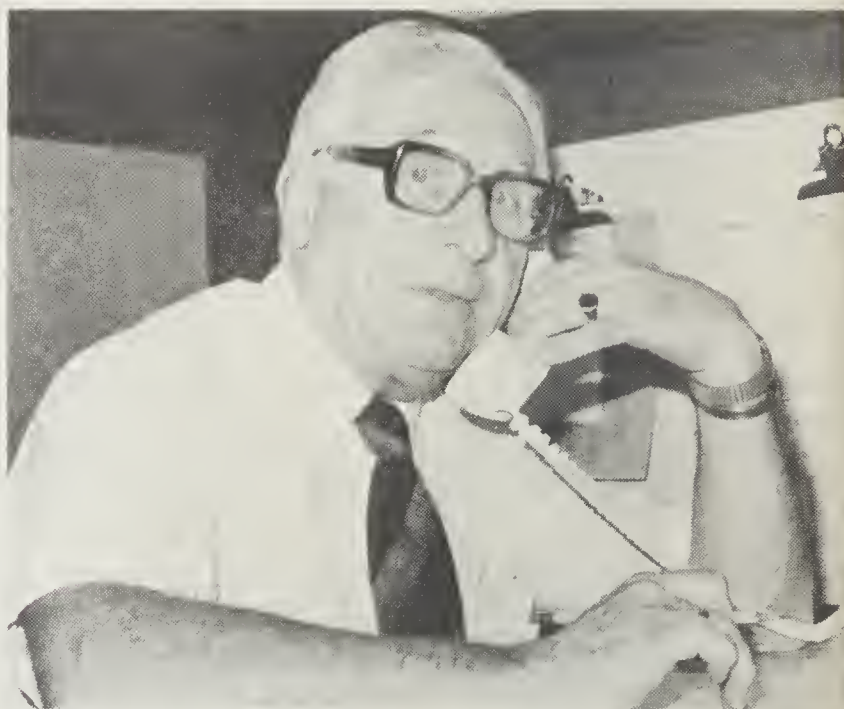

Also on campus, the Staff Association held another arts and crafts bazaar in time for Christmas shoppers. It was the second such sale in support of Queen's Quest, and proceeds will be added to the $1,300 already raised by QUSA.

Pro in Shirt-Sleeves: Jim Courtright, Vice-Principal (Development and Information) and a key organizer of Queen's Quest at the national level, turned out with other Kingston alumni to work on the telethon for Eastern Ontario.

Where Will 'Telethon Gaels' Ring Next?

As we go to press, a telephone canvass of previous non-donors is set for Montreal and Eastern Quebec. Jim Dunlop, President of the Montreal Branch, plans to have his team in operation early this new year, with a success story to report by the end of February.

Working Late: Gordon Eligh, a deputy chairman of the national Alumni Division and manager of Simpsons-Sears in Kingston, volunteered his own services as a caller, along with his company's catalogue sales area. About 125 volunteers called 2400 homes in Kingston and New York State, raising a further $42,900 in support of Queen's.

Miss Margaret Brown: Multi-talented Missionary

United Church missionary, teacher, editor, author, Margaret Helen Brown, B.A. '12, M.A. '35, B. Paed (Toronto), died in Toronto, Ont., Nov. 14, 1978.

Miss Brown spent most of her professional life in the Far East. She opened two schools — one for children and one for young married women — in Hwaiking (Tsinyang), China. Driven out of North Honan because of Communist fighting, she went to Shanghai where she founded Happy Childhood magazine and a magazine for those newly literate, both in Chinese. She travelled extensively in Vietnam for the Christian Literature Society.

Later, in Hong Kong she helped to organize the Council on Christian Literature for Overseas Chinese and became Secretary for Literature for Women and Children, as well as being active in assistance for refugees. She served on many church and educational boards, edited magazines, and wrote 36 stories in Chinese. She also wrote an English novel, Heaven Knows, which was translated into four languages, and a biography, MacGillivray of Shanghai, as well as many short stories.

Since retirement she had been living in Toronto.

Student Athlete, Devoted Pastor, Wise in Councils

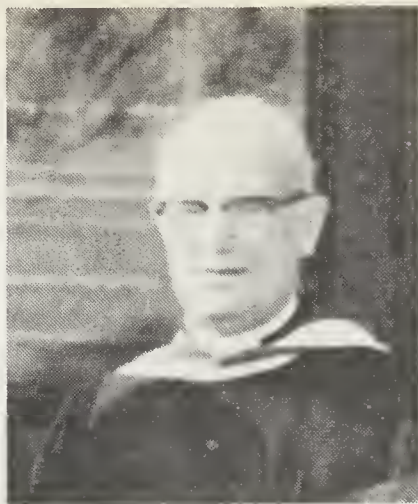

Those of us who knew Rev. Dan D. Gaynor, D.D., during his student days at Queen's or later when he served as a minister of the United Church, were shocked and saddened at his sudden death on October 17, 1978, in Napanee, Ont., where he had gone with his wife Irene to be near their daughter Mary and her family.

Born in Rodney, Ont., 72 years ago, he graduated from Queen's in Arts and Theology in 1930. While a student, he played football when Queen's teams were perennial champions.

He spent most of his active pastorate in London Conference of the United Church. The first ten years were in rural charges, but in 1940 he was called to Chalmers Church, Woodstock, where he spent 10 happy, productive years. Later he spent 10 years at Park St. Church, Chatham, and another six years at Wall St. Church, Brockville. Throughout his career he was a forceful preacher and he endeared himself to many by his knack of visitation.

In the wider sphere he served a term as president of London Conference; for eight years was chairman of the Conference settlement committee, and for a time was chairman of the church's Board of Education, Colleges and Students. In 1961, after serving as a director of the Queen's Theological College board, he was honoured with an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree.

When he retired in 1971 he returned

Rev. Dr. D.D. Gaynor

When he received an honorary D.D. degree from Queen's in 1961 his citation read, in part: "...who for more than thirty years has served devotedly in successive parishes and has been wise in the councils of the church."

to Woodstock and to Chalmers where he eventually was named one of its ministers emeritus. For nine months in 1976 while Chalmers sought a new minister, he shared pastoral duties with Rev. C. H. Dickinson, a former associate and once manager of the United Church Publishing House. The funeral in Napanee was taken by Rev. Gordon Gillingham, of Chalmers, assisted by Rev. Elias Andrews, Principal of Queen's Theological College. Dr. Dickinson spoke at a memorial service in Chalmers a few days later. — W. S. Lavell

Belva Day: A Queen's Matriarch Who 'Kept in Touch'

Mrs. David John Day (Belva Inez Halliday), B.A. '22, died in Kingston on Nov. 17, 1978. Belva remained a quiet but enthusiastic member of the Queen's community, keeping in touch with her classmates, a number of whom were welcomed at her home on their visits to Kingston.

Belva came to Queen's from Chatham, Ont., having won two gold medals in her senior matriculation years, as well as a scholarship for general proficiency. She retained these standards at Queen's and after graduation was asked by one of her professors to take on students for special tutoring in mathematics.

It was not long before Belva, already busy as a wife and mother of three sons, was deeply involved in this activity. She acclaimed achievement with reservation, playing down any lack of success as only temporary, to be resolved by hard work. She is remembered by her students for her sympathy for lack of attainment, striving to allow them to develop their full potential. One of her favorite quotations was from Sir William Osler:

"To have striven, to have made an effort, to have been true to certain ideals — this alone is worth the struggle."

She continued to tutor well into the 1970s, keeping abreast of the times and adapting readily to the new math and changes in the teaching of the math sciences.

Belva Day was predeceased in 1959 by her husband, D.J. 'Jack' Day, Arts '23, Canadian Intercollegiate boxing champion while he was at Queen's and later a well-known Kingston businessman.

Her three sons and two of her daughters-in-law are Queen's alumni: David J. Day, Arts '49, Branch Manager of Sun Life of Canada in Kingston, and his wife, June Stuart, Arts '49; Dr. James H. Day, Arts '53 (M.D., McGill), Associate Professor of Medicine at Queen's and head of the Division of Allergy and Immunology, and his wife, Dr. Maureen Briscoe, Med. '59; and Richard F. Day, Sc. '54 (RMC '53), President of Tricil Ltd.

Special Group Offer on

THE new ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA a revolutionary new Home Learning Centre

You and your family are invited to sample the most readable, most understandable encyclopaedia ever created.

An important announcement for Members of the Alumni Association

ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA offer to members an opportunity to obtain the new ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA at a reduced price, a substantial saving on the price available to any individual.

The new ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA — now expanded to 30 volumes — is not just a new edition . . . but a completely new encyclopedia which outmodes all other encyclopedias. Never before has so much knowledge, so readily accessible, so easily understood — been made available as a complete home library.

The new edition of Britannica is reorganized to better serve the three basic needs for an encyclopedia. First, the need to “LOOK IT UP” is handled by the Ready Reference and the Index. These ten volumes are a complete index to everything in the set. At the same time, they serve as a 2-million word short entry encyclopedia that is helpful to look up accurate information quickly.

Second, the need for “KNOWLEDGE IN DEPTH” is fulfilled by the main text, a 28-million word, 19 volume collection of articles arranged logically which provide full and authoritative information for the student, for research in business, or for new insights into new fields of knowledge.

Third, the need for “SELF EDUCATION” is met by the Outline of Knowledge and Guide to Britannica, a unique volume which acts as a giant study guide, more comprehensive and more detailed than a college course outline.

The new ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA is more useful in more ways to more people.

Members who would like to receive further details on this exciting Group Offer are invited to fill out and mail the postage paid reply card.

This offer is available for a limited time only, and may be withdrawn without further notice.

If the card is detached, please write to Britannica Special Group Offer, 2 Bloor Street West, Suite 1100 Toronto, Ontario M4W 3J1

Britannica 3 ~ more useful in more ways to more people.

An elegant shape is very often
a reflection of quality.

The main image features a large, clear glass bottle of Carrington Canadian Whisky in the foreground. The bottle has a gold-colored cap and a label with a crest and the text "Carrington CANADIAN WHISKY CANADIEN". Below the main label, it says "250Z (710 ml) 40% alc./vol." and "CARRINGTON DISTILLERS LIMITED, CANADA". In front of the bottle are two glasses filled with whisky and ice cubes. The background shows a man and a woman in white and blue clothing standing on a wooden dock next to a dark, sleek motorboat. The boat is on a calm lake with a forested shoreline in the distance. A smaller inset photo in the bottom right corner shows a group of people sitting on a wooden deck, enjoying the view of the water and a small boat in the distance.

Queen's Quest

Annual Alumni Fund...Queen's Quest ...What's the Difference?

The short answer: For the period 1978-83, it's all one. In other words, all contributions to the Annual Alumni Fund during the 1978-83 period of Queen's Quest will be directed to the purposes of Queen's Quest.

What's the score to date?

With a separate goal of $2.25 million, alumni have already raised more than $1 million for Queen's Quest through various mailings and telethons. Most of this money has been given without restriction on its use. Some has been earmarked for a specific category of the six major objectives of Queen's Quest:

- Library services
- Lab equipment
- Building renovations
- Academic development
- Research support
- Fellowships, scholarships and bursaries.

Queen's Quest is NOT a campaign for new buildings or for operating funds.

E.E. 'Ernie' Hurlbut, Alumni Fund Director, points out that in addition to the support of the Alumni Fund and Queen's Quest, there is a substantial amount given to Queen's each year by alumni through bequests and through special gifts for specific purposes outside the broad objectives of the Quest.

"During the period of Queen's Quest," he says, 'we're encouraging the many grads who give regularly to increase their annual contributions to the University, and we're hoping that the Quest goals will stimulate first-time gifts from alumni who haven't yet supported Queen's in a financial way.'

From Sea to Sea — the Personal Touch

Phones are continuing to ring for Queen's Quest. By the time this Review reaches its readers, "telethons", or phone canvasses, will have moved from Ontario east to Quebec and the Maritimes, and west to Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver. All alumni and parents in Eastern Canada and Newfoundland who have not yet contributed will be called by members of the Montreal Branch. Winnipeg Branch members and parents will be phoning Queen's friends all over Manitoba, Saskatchewan and the American Midwest. Calgary callers will contact fellow Albertans, plus Yukon and N.W.T. alumni. Vancouver will be the calling centre for all B.C. grads and those in the Pacific Northwest of the U.S.

Before the end of 1978, telethons in Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto and London, Ont., raised more than $200,000 from alumni and parents of current students.

With a Little Help from Our Friends

Queen's Bands and the Choral Ensemble have more in common than music. This year both groups received financial help from the Friends of Queen's University, Inc. This friendly foundation, set up 30 years ago and based in New York City, makes grants to Queen's University for specific purposes such as libraries, research support, the arts, student aid, scientific and technical equipment and academic prizes. Alumni and other friends of the University living in the United States make their donations to this foundation. In 1978, more than $250,000 came to Queen's projects via this route. Recipients included the Debating Union, the departments of Surgery, Drama, Chemistry and Chemical Engineering, the Bracken Library, the Agnes Etherington Art Centre, the Theological College and the computerization program in the library system.

A Fan Letter from Florida

On Saturday, Jan. 6, my wife and I were part of the crowd of 11,000 that attended the Can-Am college football game in Tampa, Florida.

The game itself was a great disappointment, but it was a beautiful day and was greatly enhanced by the Queen's Highland Band, Scottish dancers and...cheerleaders. The pipers and the dancers as they marched onto the field at half-time under the Canadian flag and the Ontario Ensign made many of us choke up with emotion.

The whole stadium of American and Canadian fans were completely won over by the contagious enthusiasm, joie de vivre and bubbly enthusiasm of the fantastic group of young people of the cheerleader squad and their band. They never paused in their entertainment under an extremely hot sun; their enthusiasm and rhythm were so contagious that they even had the American groups joining them.

Our sincerest congratulations must be conveyed to them. They made us very proud to be fellow Canadians.

Treasure Island, Fla.

Rugby 'Old Boys' Tour Set

As announced in the Review a year ago, Queen's 'Old Boys' Rugby Club will be touring the South Pacific this coming summer. The itinerary has now been fixed and — hoping that we will be meeting Queen's alumni en route — here it is:

We will be in Honolulu July 27-31, and then off to Sydney, Australia, on Aug. 1. We then head across to New Zealand on Aug. 9. There we will be in Christchurch Aug. 9, Wellington Aug. 13, and Auckland on Aug. 16. Then, leaving Auckland on Aug. 20, we will fly to Suva, Fiji, where the tour will end on Aug. 25.

The tour party has now been officially established with approximately 50 members. There is even a waiting list of 10 anxious alumni! The players span a period from 1965 to the present Rugby Gaels of 1978. (Coincidentally, both of these teams won championships.)

Needless to say, this group of former Gaels is getting somewhat worked up at the prospect of playing in these rugby-mad and somewhat exotic places. The replies received so far from future opponents lead the Old Boys to believe that they will be royally received, both on and off the playing field. Hopefully we will be able to extend the reputation of Queen's and Queen's rugby to this far corner of the globe and forge some permanent links for future liaison.

Now that the itinerary has been set and all other arrangements made, the budget has been set at $80,000! Most of the costs will be borne by the tour members. To offset some of the costs, the club is producing a comprehensive tour programme. The programme will feature an itinerary, team profiles and photographs, a history of Queen's, anecdotal material and a club history. The Old Boys will be taking the programme with them for distribution, and also will be issuing copies to rugby clubs and players across Canada.

The programme has space allotted for advertising, and the Old Boys would appreciate hearing from alumni in the business world in this regard. For details, please contact Peter Taylor (address following).

This programme also has a "well wisher" section. In it, any person so motivated may, for a mere $5, place a 10-word message. Interested alumni please send message, money and graduation year to Peter Taylor, Com. '70, 886 Masson St., Oshawa, Ont. L1G 5A9. You will receive, in turn, a copy of the programme and the thanks of Queen's Old Boys Rugby Club!

RON EASTEAL, M.Sc. '71,
Anatomy Department, Queen's University.

* Any donation of more than $10 is tax-deductible. Please make cheques payable to QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY and designate them for the use of "Old Boys Rugby Football Club".

Even more challenging, more demanding, than the first"

Principal Watts appointed to second term

The reappointment of Ronald L. Watts as Principal and Vice-Chancellor for a second five-year term beginning Oct. 1, 1979, was announced by Robert W. Southam, Chairman of Queen's Board of Trustees, following the Board's December meeting.

The Trustees accepted the unanimous recommendation of a joint committee of the Senate and Board which had been appointed to advise them on this matter. In making the announcement, Dr. Southam acknowledged the outstanding contribution of the Principal during his first term and expressed the sincere appreciation of the Board for his willingness to serve a second term, which undoubtedly will be even more challenging and demanding than the first.

Dr. Watts first joined Queen's in 1955 as a lecturer in political philosophy. He became a full professor in Political Studies in 1965 and was Dean of Arts and Science from 1969 to 1974, when he succeeded Dr. John J. Deutsch to become Queen's 15th Principal.

Dr. Watts has maintained an active interest in teaching, research and administration throughout his career at Queen's and even now continues to teach in the Department of Political Studies and is participating in a research project in the Institute of Intergovernmental Relations.

Upon joining Queen's, he served as don and warden of the first men's residence and was a member of the men's residence planning committee. He was active on the executive of the Faculty Association and the University Senate, particularly its committee on structure and procedures (1966-67) and the special Committee on Grievance, Discipline and Related Matters, which he chaired, 1971-72.

He is a graduate in philosophy and history from the University of Toronto (B.A. '52) and holds an M.A. and D.Phil. in politics from Oxford, where he was a Rhodes Scholar. Dr. Watts has received Canada Council fellowships on four occasions; was Canadian Commonwealth Exchange Scholar to Australia and Visiting Fellow at the Australian National University in 1968; and was the Ford Foundation Visiting Professor at the Institute of Administration of the University of Ife, Nigeria, in spring 1969.

Recognized as an authority on the study of federal systems, Dr. Watts was appointed by Prime Minister Trudeau to the Task Force on Canadian Unity in February 1978. He brought to this assignment a background in consulting work for several foreign governments (recently, Papua-New Guinea) and special studies for the governments of Ontario and Canada.

He has also been active in university affairs at both the provincial and national levels. He is currently Vice-Chairman of the Council of Ontario Universities and has been a director of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada.

A keen and successful yachtsman, the Principal was a member of the organizing committee of the 1976 Sailing Olympics at Kingston, for which he served as Chief Class Officer.

Following his reappointment, Principal Watts thanked all members of staff at Queen's, the alumni and benefactors for their efforts on behalf of Queen's, adding his hope "that I can continue to count on your encouragement and support in the months ahead."

PEOPLE AND POWER

From the National Film Board production "Propaganda Message"

You've heard of 'the wired city'? The wired university was a natural corollary, and it came to Kingston in January in the form of People and Power, a 25-part videotaped introduction to Canadian politics. In the project, political analysts from Queen's combine their expertise with the skills of the National Film Board to bring cablevision subscribers a re-creation and analysis of political events, institutions, and processes in our country.

"We hope to give the general viewer a good sense not just of how important, but how intriguing and how much fun politics can be in this country." That comment comes from Dr. John Meisel, Queen's internationally known political scientist, who acts as 'home room professor' of the TV series.

Cartoons, historic re-enactments, award-winning documentaries, actual parliamentary debates, and panel discussions are all used in the project.

Cablevision subscribers are being encouraged to do more than watch. Queen's provides a package of materials, including course outlines and supplementary readings, and those who qualify can even enrol for a university credit. The People and Power series runs parallel to one of the Political Studies Department's regular courses and, by following a specially designed syllabus, a viewer could get credit for a full university course.

People and Power began on the Kingston Cablevision System on Jan. 16, with one-hour programs following every Sunday afternoon and Tuesday evening. Showings on other Canadian cablevision systems are now being scheduled.

Those responsible for this pilot project are John Spotton of the National Film Board (producer), Patrick Vallyely (director), and Dr. Edwin R. Black and Roy Bonazza of Queen's (academic production).

"The Queen's-NFB project is quite different from previous television attempts," says Dr. Black, Professor of Political Studies and former director of the School

"Welcome to Smiths Falls", with Mayor Fred Aboud

Campaigning: Scene from "Encounter with Saul Alinsky"

f Public Administration. "In nearly all of those attempted in this area, professors tried to recreate their lecture rooms on television. While it does have its uses, this 'talking head' concept can produce the most boring television possible. We had to avoid that.

"What we've tried to do is use the extraordinary resources of the National Film Board — probably the world's premiere source of documentary production skills — and build a good program, one that would be both fascinating to watch and academically valid."

Films used in the series include Flora: Scenes from a (P.C.) Leadership Convention, The Art of the Possible (Premier Davis and the Ontario Cabinet), Some People Have to Suffer (local action in Surrey, B.C.) and I Hate to Lose (on the campaign trail in Quebec). Others show community action in Bridgewater, N.S., Prairie reactions to a dramatic re-enactment of the Riel rebellion, the problems of poverty and public welfare administration, the roles of MPs and, of course, various dimensions of the Canadian unity question.

Dr. Meisel and other professors appearing on the series take these NFB films as a starting point, analyze them to see what they tell us about Canadian politics, and then examine carefully what the mass media do not and cannot show us about the workings of political processes and institutions.

How objective can any participant in politics be? Or even any observer? Dr. Meisel and his Queen's colleagues try to deal with these questions. Not only politicians and reporters but professors and TV cameramen have their biases, too, he points out.

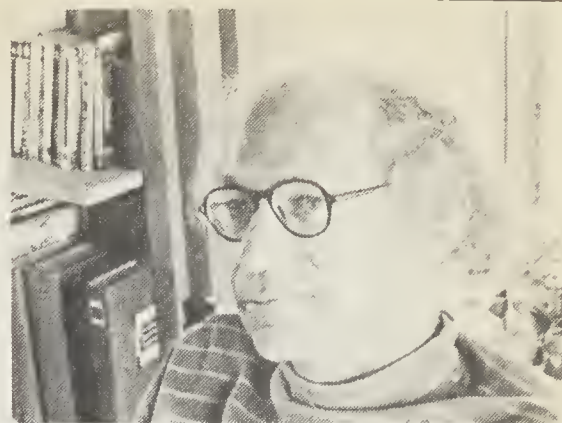

"One of the things we're trying to do," he says, "is to help people learn how to read film, how to watch television critically — how, in short, to acquire a type of film and TV literacy that we all badly need."

(For more information, contact Dr. Ed Black at Queen's, 547-3000.)

Queen's one of archives for NFB films

The National Film Board (NFB) has selected Queen's as one of the Canadian archives for films withdrawn from general distribution.

Already 500 films of varying length and content — from three-minute trailers to full-length features — have arrived in the Film Studies Department, where they are being catalogued for permanent housing.

In September Prof. Peter Morris began using the collection to teach a course called "The Forgotten Years" — a look at the NFB's output in the immediate postwar period. Professor Morris, who made the arrangements between Queen's and the Film Board, says the collection is both representative and comprehensive, offering a portrait of Canadian society over 40 years. "It is an invaluable teaching and research tool for the University and for Eastern Ontario," he adds, and commends it to teachers of history, sociology and political science, as well as film buffs.

Chemist Saul Wolfe new Chown Professor

In November Prof. Saul Wolfe, one of the world's most respected organic chemists at 45, delivered his inaugural lecture as Chown Research Professor at Queen's.

Dr. Wolfe is a graduate of Toronto and Ottawa universities and was a researcher at Bristol Laboratories in Syracuse before joining Queen's Chemistry Department in 1961. Author or co-author of more than 100 research papers, he is now primarily concerned with the chemistry of penicillins and related antibiotics. As Chown Professor, he devotes most of his time to research, but remains available to counsel graduate and undergraduate students.

Dr. Wolfe's inaugural lecture was entitled 'The Nature of Scientific Research' and featured examples from his own work of how ideas originate and are then developed, tested and communicated.

The Chown Professorship was established in 1919 by a gift from George Y. Chown, then Registrar and Treasurer of Queen's, and has since been held by physicists A.L. Hughes and J.A. Gray and chemist J.K.N. Jones.

Harvard economist visiting lecturer

The annual W.A. Mackintosh Lecture was delivered on Jan. 8 by Harvard Professor Martin S. Feldstein. His topic: 'Domestic Saving and International Capital Flows.' The lectureship, named in memory of Queen's distinguished economist and 12th Principal, is presented by the Department of Economics.

Bracken Library replaces Old Arts facility

Named in honour of Dr. Franklin Bracken, Med. 11, West Cornwall, Conn., the Bracken Library in the new health sciences complex was officially opened by Chancellor Michener on Oct. 14. Many medical alumni and faculty were in attendance.

The health sciences library occupies the basement and ground floor of the 11-storey Botterell Hall. The new 25,500-sq.-ft. facility replaces cramped unsuitable space in the Old Arts Building. It contains 75,000 volumes, with a capacity for 150,000 periodicals, a circulation desk, reference department, offices, four student lounges, 100 study carrels, 300 spaces for reading, and a computer terminal linked with MEDLINE (the National Library of Medicine, Maryland.)

Dr. Bracken said that the reason is simple for his "significant" contribution toward the cost of furnishing the library: "I appreciate what the University did for me."

Dr. Bracken also created a trust fund for the purchase of medical periodicals. His wife gave money to landscape an outdoor patio beside the building, and her donation was matched by her former employer, Mobil Oil. Since the opening, three bronze sculptures on marble pedestals, donated by Dr. Bracken, have been placed in the library.

After graduation Dr. Bracken went to New York for specialized training in nose and throat. For 27 years he and his associate, Dr. Arnold Knapp, a leading eye surgeon, worked together in ophthalmological surgery at Columbia University. In the 1930s he was personally instrumental in the general modernization of cataract surgery and in particular for the advancement of the cataract or round pupil operation. He retired in the early '60s after being active in eye surgery for 50 years. He continued in private practice until 1970.

Spotlight on Campus Lifestyles: Capers and Candlelight

Moe Chochla, Sc. '74, Law '78, resigned as Rector of the University after two years of his three-year term and has been succeeded by Hugh Christie, Arts '78, Law '81. Hugh, former AMS President, is the fifth student in Queen's history to be elected to the post. .... Despite sexist controversy over Candlelighting in recent years, 800 candles flickering in the darkness of Grant Hall on Oct. 18 marked the 90th anniversary of the ceremony. Guest speaker was Patrice Merrin, Arts '71, special assistant to the Hon. Marc Lalonde. She advised Queen's women to be physically fit, actively involved in university life, and politically motivated. ....

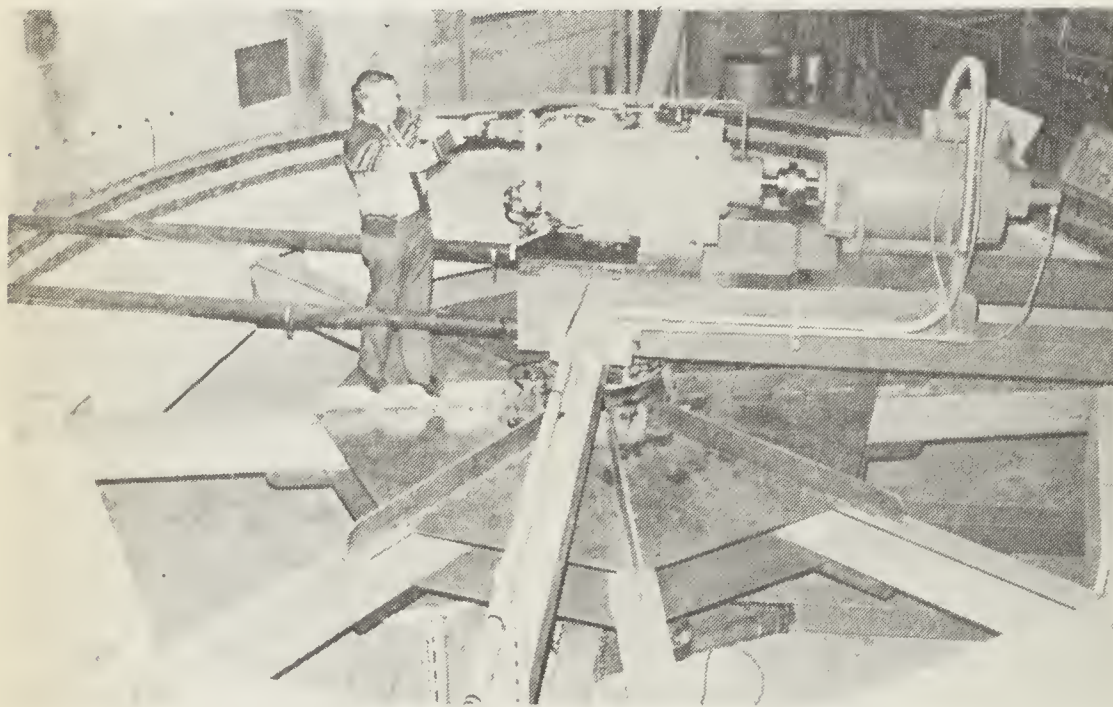

Ten students were convicted of bootlegging in Provincial Court this fall, charged as a result of police raids on two parties held during Orientation Week. The fines totalled $4,700. .... Shades of days gone by: 60 RMC cadets conducted a panty raid on Victoria Hall early one November night. A call to the police resulted in 12 men being held at headquarters until the Directors of Cadets bailed them out. The affair ended with apologies from cadet spokesmen and official letters of apology. .... The annual Sunday evening Carol Service, sponsored by the Engineering Society on Dec. 3, was the most 'successful' in the 33-year history of this fine tradition. Grant Hall was packed and overflowing. Lessons were read by 10 students, Queen's Choral Ensemble sang four anthems, and the Brass Ensemble accompanied the carollers. .... A strictly non-academic visitor to campus last term was Natalie Stelmach, Canadian women's snooker champion since 1976 and reportedly the first woman in the world to have a century break — consecutive accumulation of 100 points in one turn of play. In a four-game demonstration in the refurbished games room of the John Deutsch University Centre, Ms Stelmach successfully 'snookered' a professor, a student, a staff member and an alumnus.

Prof. David Atherton, the physicist who heads the MAGLEV project, is dwarfed by the size of the test facility which, he says, "has confirmed the predictions of our analysis." Next step: development of lightweight super magnets.

Levitated train still on track as study wraps up

Queen's is nearing the engineering and development stage on a 10-year research project to develop a lightweight magnetically levitated vehicle for high-speed urban transit. Prof. David Atherton, a member of the Queen's Physics Department and head of the project, says it will be another two months before an economic study is completed.

"If the outcome of the study is favorable than we shall progress to the engineering development of the critical items," he told the Whig-Standard, "most particularly the development of very light-weight super-conductor magnets."

The vehicle, designed to travel about six inches above a stationary ground guideway system, is initially proposed to carry passengers along a route between Toronto and Montreal with a stop in Ottawa.

The benefits of the system include comparatively low costs, high speed, lack of pollutants and relative noiselessness. Prof. Atherton says that the goal is 300 miles an hour, and even faster.

The vehicle is being developed in co-operation with other universities, Queen's Physics Department, and several engineering departments, under the Canadian Institute of Guided Ground Transport, Maglev Test Facility at Queen's.

As pioneers in magnetic levitation, Dr. Atherton and his colleague, Prof. A.R. Eastham, were recently invited to a symposium in Japan. A test vehicle there set a new world record of 347 km/hr, with levitation just a few centimeters above the guideway. The Canadian team found international interest in an advanced technique of sealed magnet operation now being tested in Queen's Physics Department.

Pathology Dept. has new cancer research labs

The Cancer Research Laboratories of the Department of Pathology in the new Botterell Hall building were officially opened on Oct. 21, with Chancellor Michener presiding.

Participating were Principal and Vice-Chancellor R.L. Watts, Dr. N. Kaufman, head of the Department of Pathology, Dr. T. J. Boag, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, Dr. R. A. Macbeth, executive director of the National Cancer Institute of Canada, G. Irvine, president Ontario Division, Canadian Cancer Society, and Rev. Dr. A. M. Lavery, University Chaplain. The guests were taken on a tour of the labs afterwards.

The inscription on the plaque commemorating the event reads:

These Cancer Research Laboratories were constructed by the citizens of Ontario through their generous financial support of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Cancer Society. October 21, 1978.

More scholars-in-residence

Gail Ward Stewart, Arts '54 (M.Sc., London), an Ottawa economist, returned to her alma mater last October as Scholar-in-Residence. For two weeks she was available for consultation and discussion with students and members of the university community. Ms Stewart, who has been a member of the Economic Council of Canada and executive director of the Consumers Association of Canada, launched three public gatherings to consider the question: 'New Canada — An idea whose me has come?

She was followed in November by Dr. Olive J. Brose, an author whose field is English history, with a specialty in the 19th century Anglican Church.

The Scholar-in-Residence program was established by the Office of the Dean of Women to provide students with opportunities to meet and learn from women of distinction in a variety of fields, outside the ordinary classroom situation.

Journalists study Law on St. Laurent Fellowships

When journalists Brenda Large and Margot Gibb-Clark next report a court case, it is unlikely that they'll be either dumbfounded or impressed by the high-falutin legal language bandied about.

Recipients of the Louis St. Laurent Fellowship in legal journalism, Ms Large of the Globe &

Mail and Ms Gibb-Clark of the Montreal Star are studying law this year at Queen's.

Funded by the Donner Foundation and administered by the Canadian Bar Association, the fellowship pays transportation costs, tuition, and a salary equivalent to the journalist's last job, up to $18,000. Two fellowships are awarded each year with English-speakers studying at Queen's and French-speakers at Laval.

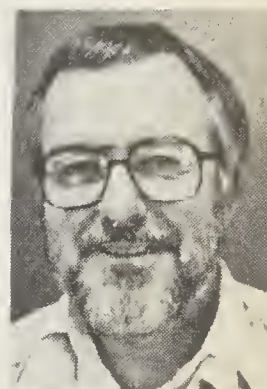

The fellowship allows recipients to choose whichever Law courses they wish.

Ms Large, who has chosen property law, public law, criminal law and computers and the law, expects that after these courses it will be harder just to toss off a story without thinking. "I think that this experience will make me a little more careful and precise in the use of English and in this respect I will be a better writer — possibly slower but more thoughtful and thorough."

delegation. The ITU is a UN agency.

....Dr. Diego Bastianutti of the Spanish and Italian Department has been appointed the Italian Government's Vice-Consul for the Kingston region. Italian-born Dr. Bastianutti, a Ph.D. graduate of Toronto, has been on faculty at Queen's since 1970 and has made significant contributions to computerized language-teaching programs and the University's summer programs in Venice. As Vice-Consul he will assist Italian residents and students with bureaucratic problems, immigrant families recently arrived, and anyone who plans to travel to Italy.

....Prof. F.A. MacLachlan recently travelled to the Dominican Republic with a team of four Canadians to inspect two vintage WWII corvettes — Louisburg II and La Chute. Kingston's Marine Museum is one of two sites being considered for the corvettes, since 15 of them were built in Kingston shipyards in the '40s. Prof. MacLachlan, a naval architect now with the Department of Civil Engineering, pronounced the two old ships damaged by salt water corrosion but very little altered in external appearance.

....The Padre has received his second one-year post-retirement appointment. The Rev. Dr. A.M. Lavery has been Queen's chaplain for more than 31 years, and in announcing his reappointment, the Principal noted the deep respect he has earned from students, staff, faculty, parents and alumni.

....Dr. G.J.S. Wilde, a Psychology professor who has made a research specialty of drivers and highway safety, has been invited home to the Netherlands to help draft a five-year research project on road safety for the Dutch and German governments combined. While in Europe for eight months, Prof. Wilde will also lecture in Finland and participate in a Paris workshop on pedestrian safety.

...Prof. Dennys Roberts died on Jan. 23 after a short illness. When the British scientist came to Queen's Physics Dept. in 1947, he brought a keen interest in medical physics. Besides lecturing, he was a radiation physicist at the Cancer Clinic and did extensive research into lead poisoning. His organizational ability, energy and cheerfulness are sorely missed.

Library is the 'hot spot' on campus this season

Attendance at the Douglas Library has increased drastically this year, according to Queen's Journal reporter Andrea Gordon, Arts '81.

In October alone, circulation in this central library increased 24% over the same month in 1977. During Christmas exam week, as many as 4,000 people a day used this library, compared with the usual 2,000-3,000 in other Decembers. The Art History branch and the Education library on the West Campus also are experiencing much larger usage this year.

Vickie Steele of Commerce '79, a student member of the Senate Library Committee, says, "Perhaps there has been a change in the attitude of Queen's students. Rising academic standards may have impelled a larger percentage of students towards more consistent study habits."

Library administrators have been reorganizing various departments to provide more study area, since many students find they are unable to concentrate on their work at home or in residence. The opening last fall of a new Health Sciences library has provided students with another attractive study area and resulted in "sky-rocketing" attendance from students in Biology and Psychology, as well as Medicine and Nursing.

Library familiarization tours remain popular, putting extra pressure on reduced staff, but students have been assured that the hours of operation of the Douglas Library will be the last thing to be affected by constraints.

Keeping in touch with the working world

Advisory Council Invited

Queen's School of Business is concerned with what employers want — so concerned that the School's new Dean, Dr. John R.M. Gordon, has convinced a group of leading Canadian businessmen to sit on a six-man advisory council.

Within three years the council should expand to 15 or 16 members, meeting quarterly. Advisers will serve three-year terms — without remuneration of any kind from the University.

The six original members, who are scheduled to meet for the first time this month (March 15) in Montreal, are Rod J. Anderson, partner in Clarkson, Gordon and Co.; William R.C. Blundell, Vice-President and division executive, Canadian General Electric Co.; Guy P. French, President and CEO, American Can of Canada Ltd.; H. Stewart Ladd, Vice-President (Personnel), Alcan Aluminium Ltd.; David Lakie, Vice-President, Molson Companies Ltd.; and Don C. Lowe, President and CEO, Pratt and Whitney Aircraft of Canada Ltd.

"We're looking for a council we can really use to keep the School in touch with the needs of the business community," says Dean Gordon. Stronger links between the School and business, he adds, will ensure that Queen's students graduating into the working world will have the right balance of skills. (For 28 years the Faculty of Applied Science has had the benefit of a similar body — the Advisory Council on Engineering, instituted by the University Council.)

The business advisers will also be a source of research material for faculty members and may provide leads for contract research. When the new advisory council reaches its ultimate size, Dean Gordon envisions it as a national body representing industry, the public and private sectors, women, the various professions and the unions.

For more information, contact Dean John Gordon at the School of Business (547-3230).

Accounting Professor Due

Accounting Professor Coming
One of Canada's largest firms of chartered accountants is helping Queen's establish a professorship in accounting. The new teaching post will be financed in part by an annual grant for at least five years from the Clarkson, Gordon Foundation, a charitable organization supported largely by donations from partners and retired partners of Clarkson, Gordon and Co.

Dean Gordon of the School of Business, in commenting on this welcome support from the private sector, points out that "under today's conditions of financial stringency, both the universities and the constituencies they serve can benefit from a partnership. Particularly in accounting, Canadian universities have been suffering from a severe shortage of qualified teachers. This support will help Queen's fill the gap."

The new professor of accounting is expected to be on staff during the academic year 1979-80.

Ross Skinner, President of the Foundation, says: "We are concerned about the difficulties universities face in maintaining standards of teaching and research in accounting when budgets are frozen in spite of the fact that demand for accounting graduates continues strong. We are pleased that this first accounting professorship will be at Queen's because of the university's long and distinguished association with the accounting profession." He adds that universities all across Canada need help and hopes this professorship at Queen's will be a model.

Bill Bennett at Dunning Hall

Executive-in-Residence

Along with the Centre for Resource Studies, the School of Business co-hosted Queen's first Executive-in-Residence during last October and November: William J. Bennett, well known Canadian businessman and former civil servant.

As executive assistant to the Hon. C.D. Howe, Mr. Bennett aided in the creation of Air Canada and the CBC and in the postwar industrialization of Canada. He was later president of Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., and the Iron Ore Company of Canada, the last of which he served from 1965 till his retirement in 1977.

On campus as Executive-in-Residence, he took part in classes, lectures and informal student gatherings, making himself available to offer advice and insights into both the public and private sectors.

Students now have voice in tenure deliberations

After a year's deadlock and as the result of a close vote (21-20) at the January Senate meeting, Queen's students now have a voice on committees considering academic tenure.

Among the students' supporters was Bernie Adell, Dean of Law. "Tenure is a decision far too important to be left to individual departments," he argued. "My experience with students on committees has shown me that they have a valuable contribution to make." Students have already participated on committees to select the Principal and Deans.

Some opposed student membership for tenure committees on the grounds that their presence would inhibit frank and open discussion among faculty members about the calibre of their peers' work.

Alcohol banned at stadium

Alcohol will be banned at football games and other sports events next year. In a letter to AMS President David Brown, Vice-Principal H.M. Love said, "I cannot condone any breaking of the law at the stadium or elsewhere. If we do not ourselves remedy the situation, the consequences may range from denial of insurance protection to police intervention."

A TOAST — IN TEA — TO NATHAN DUPUIS. While their ancestor, Dr. Nathan Dupuis, LL.D. '11, watches from his portrait, Mrs. Jeane Hamel (left) and her nephew, Larry Tayler, show a china tea set once owned by Prof. Dupuis to Vice-Principal J.M. Courtright and Mrs. Helen Mathers, Director of the Ban Righ Foundation. Mr. Tayler, a Queen's alumnus who teaches in Picton, Ont., says the family decided to give the china to Queen's because of Prof. Dupuis' "strong connections with the University". Born in Portland Twnp. in 1836, Nathan Dupuis attended Queen's after working in Kingston as a clock-maker and school teacher. After graduation (B.A. '66, M.A. '68), he was hired by the university to teach — among other subjects — Chemistry and Mathematics, and became the first Dean of Science. On campus he is memorialized by Dupuis Hall and the Grant Hall tower clock, designed by him and built by his students in a university workshop. The elegant Dupuis tea set is now located at the Ban Righ Foundation, a resource centre for women returning to university studies.

ELECTIONS

For the first time, alumni are being invited to elect their representatives to the Board of Trustees and the University Council by means of a ballot and return envelope enclosed in the Queen's Review. In previous years, votes were solicited through separate mailings. It is hoped that this new procedure will increase alumni participation, while saving the University thousands of dollars on printing and postage.

On the following pages you will find biographical sketches of candidates who were duly nominated according to notices published in the Review of September-October 1978. The ballot appears on page 19. Voting procedures are outlined on page 18. For married graduates, a 'spouse ballot' is provided. All successful candidates will assume office on May 1, 1979.

April 15 is the deadline for receipt of ballots.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

In accordance with the by-laws of the University Council, two members of the Board of Trustees are now to be elected by the graduates for three-year terms of office ending April 30, 1982. The five candidates presented on the following page have each received at least five nominations from fellow graduates.

The 38-member Board of Trustees handles the University's financial matters — capital expenditures, building programs and property purchases, investments, allocation of bequests and other private support, fee structure, pensions, etc., appoints the Principal, Vice-Principals and certain senior staff, and enacts rules and ordinances.

THE UNIVERSITY COUNCIL

Sixteen members of the University Council to hold office until April 30, 1985, are now to be elected by the graduates. The 33 candidates presented on the following pages have been nominated in accordance with Council by-laws.

The University Council was provided for in the Statute of 1874 to guarantee graduates a voice in how Queen's is run. It consists of all members of the Board of Trustees, members of the University Senate, plus a number of elected alumni equal to the number of Senators and Trustees combined. There are usually about 96 such elective members. The Council is represented on the Board of Trustees by six of its own members, two of whom are elected at each annual meeting for three-year terms.

The Council's function is to oversee the University's well-being and prosperity, to monitor policies, and to devise the by-laws of internal government. Councillors meet in plenary session on campus once a year, with the Chancellor presiding.

Alumni Candidates for Board of Trustees — 1979-82

Alumni may elect two of the following five candidates [Ballot on page 19]

James F. Dinning

J. Gordon Fleming

Wilda B. Parkinson

William R. Robbins

Richard G. Stackhouse

James F. Dinning
B.Com. '74, M.P.A. '77

He was born in Edmonton in 1952 and resided in Calgary from 1955 until 1970, when he entered Commerce at Queen's. As an undergraduate he represented Commerce on the Outer Council of the AMS (1971-2), the University Senate (1972-4), and various Senate Committees. During the latter period he served as Chairman of the Committee of Student Senators. Completing his studies in 1974, he travelled and studied in Western Europe. Afterwards, Mr. Dinning resided in Montreal where he was assistant to the president of the Institute for Research on Public Policy. He returned to Queen's in 1976, completed a Master's degree in Public Administration, and now resides in Edmonton, where he is with the Executive Council of the Government of Alberta. He is married and has one daughter.

John Gordon Fleming
B.Com. (Hon.) '53

He joined the Canada Life Assurance Co. upon graduation and is now Financial Vice-President in Toronto. He is a member of the Toronto Society of Financial Analysts, past-chairman of the Securities Investment Committee of the Canadian Life Insurance Association, and currently convener of curling at the Granite Club in Toronto. For the past 15 years he has been a member of the Investment Committee advising Queen's University Board of Trustees. He is married, with one daughter.

Wilda Baker Parkinson
B.A. '43

While an undergraduate, she was president of Levana and a member of the AMS executive. A graduate of State Teachers' College, Albany, N.Y., she taught history in the city of Oneonta, N.Y., until her marriage to K.B. Parkinson, Com. '47, Sc. '51. She is the mother of three children. Wilda is past-president of both the Queen's University Alumnae Association (international) and its Ottawa Branch, and is also a former member of the board of directors, Protestant Children's Village, Ottawa. Currently she is a member of the University Council, president of the Alumni Association of Queen's University, and an ex officio member of the Board of Trustees.

William Miller Robbins
B.Sc. (Eng.) '63, M.B.A. '68
(B.A., SGWU)

He was active as an undergraduate on his year executive, the Engineering Society executive, and the Men's Residence Council and Board. In 1963 he joined IBM, Montreal, as a computer systems specialist. He returned to Queen's in 1966, served as a residence Don, and completed the two-year M.B.A. program, winning scholarships from both Queen's and the Cdn. Institute of Chartered Accountants. In 1968 he joined Kates, Peat, Marwick & Co. as a management consultant, finance and information systems. Since 1971 he has worked for the Ontario Government in various positions and is currently executive director of Ontario's Rent Review Program. Mr. Robbins is registered in the Assn. of Professional Engineers of Ontario and the Corp. of Engineers of Quebec; has served on the Toronto Region Board, Institute of Public Administration; is president of the Etobicoke French Immersion Parents Association; and has been on Queen's University Council since 1973.

VOTE FOR 16

PROCEDURES FOR VOTING

The candidates whose names appear on the ballots have been nominated by Queen's graduates in accordance with the by-laws of the University Council.

Sixteen candidates of the 33 nominated for the University Council are now to be elected by alumni for six-year terms ending on May 1, 1985. The 16 successful candidates will be introduced to their fellow Councillors at the annual meeting, May 31 - June 1, 1979.

Two candidates of the five nominated for the Board of Trustees are now to be elected by the alumni for a three-year term of office ending on May 1, 1982.

BALLOTS

A Ballot and a Spouse Ballot are provided on the following page. The Spouse Ballot is provided for use in cases where the Review is mailed jointly to husband and wife. Please check your address label to see if this applies to you.

To be valid, each Spouse Ballot should contain the eight-digit number from your Review mailing label. Please write it in the space provided. Failure to include this number will invalidate the spouse ballot. Photocopies of ballots will not be accepted.

VOTING

Place an X in the box following the name of each person for whom you wish to vote. To be valid, your ballot should contain no more than two (2) votes for Trustees and no more than sixteen (16) for Councillors. You may vote for fewer, if you wish.

TO RETURN BALLOT(S)

1. Cut off your ballot(s), enclose it (them) in the envelope attached inside the cover of this magazine, stamp and mail the envelope.
2. Spouse Ballots should be cut apart from regular ballots, although both may be mailed in the same envelope.
3. All ballots must be received by the University Secretary on or before April 15. Those received later will not be counted.
4. Since the ballots will be held until April 16 for opening and counting, please do not enclose any other material in the return envelope.

JOHN W. BANNISTER,
Secretary of the University

At the Branches

Visits Bermuda Branch

Harvey I. Marshall, Sc. '41, was the guest of honour at the meeting of the Bermuda branch held on October 21 at Bermuda College. With Mr. Marshall was his wife, formerly Josephine Losee, Arts '41.

Hostess for the evening was the president of the branch, Dr. Iris Marsh, Arts '57 (Ph.D., Toronto), who introduced Mr. Marshall to the gathering. A member of the Queen's Board of Trustees and the University's consultant on patents, Mr. Marshall showed a new film on life at Queen's. He also spoke briefly on the state of the University today and of the prospects for the future. A vote of thanks was moved by Hon. J.M.S. Patton, Sc. '39 (LL.B., Dalhousie).

Sarnia Executive Appointed

Joanne Petrie, Arts '64, is the President of the Sarnia Branch, which has been revived after a lapse of many years.

Also appointed are: vice-president, Bruce Wilson, Sc. '71, Ph.D. '77; secretary, Marsha Lampman, Arts '74; treasurer, Ross Brown, Com. '77; publicity, Al Cameron, Arts '41.

Come Out to Lunch in Toronto

The Toronto alumni are enjoying a series of excellent luncheon meetings this year in the Royal York Hotel. To date: November 3 speaker, Gordon Cowperthwaite, senior partner of Peat, Marwick and Mitchell, and current President, Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants; November 10 speaker, Douglas Gordon, President, Ontario Hydro; February 9 speaker, Dr. R.L. Watts, Principal, Queen's University, and

TO HONOUR D. L. RIGSBY

D. L. Rigsby, a member of the Class of Science '40, will receive the Montreal Medal at a ceremony to be held on April 28.

The award is for "meritorious contribution to the honour of Queen's" and recognizes more than 35 years of service. A past president of the Alumni Association and of the Alumni Fund, Mr. Rigsby is a member of the Board of Trustees and is currently chairman of the Board's Building Committee.

member of the Task Force on Canadian Unity. On March 16 the speaker will be Rosalie Abella, Judge, Family Court Division, Ontario Provincial Court. Next, on May 4, is Arthur Maloney, QC, Ontario's first ombudsman, a prominent litigation lawyer, and member of Queen's Parents Association.

Holiday Bash in Hamilton

Branch President Sandra Black reports that Hamilton's yuletide party had "something extra" to offer the 60 Queen's people who turned out: a chance to visit with former football hero Frank 'Pep' Leadlay and retired diplomat 'Bubs' Britton, with Mrs. Britton. The party was at the Burlington home of Hal Taylor, Sc. '51, and his wife Anne (Boyle), Arts '51.

Lots of Activity in London

The Bavarian Social Club was the locale for the Fall Dinner of the London and District Alumni Branch. Guest speaker was the Rev. Dr. A.M. Lavery, University Chaplain, who brought news of the university and of plans for the future. In the chair was Damon Card, Arts '64.

A pot luck supper was held in December at the home of Ms Mary Joyce Gillin, Arts '41.

Under the guidance of Dr. Jean Zarfaz, Med. '52, the annual bridge tournament was so successful that a waiting list had to be established.

Chairperson for the wine and cheese party on Feb. 10 was Al Ingram, Law '76. It was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Kertesz.

The Pool Party is set for mid-June, and you can inquire for more details from Tom Janson, Sc. '71.

Variety is the Life of Branches

These are some of the events — both traditional and innovative — held by our branches over the past few months. Maybe there's an idea that could be borrowed or adapted by other branches.

Montreal — Wine and cheese party at La Maison Secrestat.

Ottawa — Canal skating party, with a hot buffet supper at the National Arts Centre; Football Stag at the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club,

Colin Campbell: Soldier, miner, curler, benefactor

A member of the Class of Science '22, Brig. General Colin A. Campbell, D.S.O., O.B.E., died in Toronto, Ont., on Dec. 25, 1978.

As a mining engineer, Colin Campbell was closely associated with gold mining in Ontario. From underground work at Hollinger in the early '20s, he surfaced to manage a succession of operating properties during the '30s and eventually established a consulting practice which he continued until his death. He held directorships in a number of mining companies.

In 1934 he was elected to represent Frontenac-Addington in Ottawa and was re-elected in 1935. In 1937 he was acclaimed in the provincial constituency of Sault Ste. Marie and joined the Liberal Government of Mitchell Hepburn as Minister of Public Works for Ontario.

During World War II, he formed and commanded No. 1 Canadian Tunnelling Company and utilized Canadian hardrock mining expertise to improve fortifications and services within the Rock of Gibraltar. Subsequently, he served in Italy and N.W. Europe, rising to the rank of Brigadier as Chief Engineer, 1st Canadian Corps. He was awarded an O.B.E., D.S.O., and the U.S. Legion of Merit. He maintained his military interests after the war and was given the rank of Brigadier-General in 1968, at which time he was Honorary Colonel of the 2nd Field Engineer Regiment, R.C.E.

Colin Campbell's many years in curling as a player and builder culminated in his election to the Curling

H. Greville Smith: The adopted Canadian who in turn adopted Queen's

Despite the scope of his benefactions to Queen's, the name H. Greville Smith is not widely known among alumni. However, he might justifiably share that epitaph written for himself by the late, great W.E. McNeill: I'm not a Queen's man born, nor a Queen's man bred, yet when I die there's a Queen's man dead.

When Mr. Smith died in Montreal in 1974, he bequeathed to this university a portion of his estate that has since amounted to almost $400,000. Other major benefactions — to McGill and Bishop's universities, Royal Victoria Hospital and the Salvation Army, for example — reflected the diverse interests and affections of this busy bachelor executive.

Who was H. Greville Smith? Most notably, he was President of CIL from 1951 till his retirement in 1958. A native of Sheffield, England, he was a graduate of Oxford and a Professor of Chemistry there. He joined ICI in 1925 and came to Canada with CIL in 1932.

His long-time colleague and friend, Herbert Lank, retired President of DuPont of Canada, recalls that Greville Smith liked Canada so well that he lost all desire to return to England. Certainly he became involved.

By 1939, at the age of 37, he was already a Vice-President of CIL and manager of munitions production (DIL). For his wartime efforts, he was made a CBE in 1944. He sat on the Board of Governors of both McGill and Bishop's and was elected to many directorships, including the Bank of Montreal, Royal Trust, the British Newfoundland Corp., Canadian Pacific, the Royal Victoria Hospital and the YMCA.

Mr. Lank remembers him as "a man of the highest integrity" who "never forgot the small personal courtesies." During his lifetime he was "personally very generous, usually in an anonymous way."

He gave substantial support to several of Queen's campaigns for endowment funds, and was a contributor to the establishment of the University's Donald Gordon Centre for Continuing Education. In death he remained generous. The bulk of his bequest to Queen's — $354,000 — went in 1975 into the campaign that helped build Mackintosh-Corry Hall, the Bruce Wing and the John Deutsch University Centre. The remainder is now supporting the (non-building) goals of Queen's Quest — books, scientific equipment and other research support, student aid, etc.

A Dream — A Reality

By Rick Wood, PHE '78

Everyone dreams of doing something exquisitely unique in their lives. Graduating from Queen's last spring in physical education and being friends with a graduate in Canadian history gave me the opportunity that so few people can achieve. Starting from Rocky Mountain House in Alberta on May 26, 1978, Cam Thomson and I retraced the old North West Company fur trade route to Montreal.

In 121 days, we paddled our 18-ft. fibreglass canoe down the Saskatchewan River, across Lake Winnipeg and up the Winnipeg River to Kenora, Ont. Our route traversed Lake-of-the-Woods to the Rainy River, where it wound along the Ontario-Minnesota border through a multitude of small lakes and rivers to Lake Superior. Travelling along Superior's north shore brought us to Sault Ste. Marie and Lake Huron's North Channel. Leaving Lake Huron at the mouth of the French River and paddling upstream, we crossed Lake Nipissing to North Bay. The height of land between the Lake Huron drainage system and the Ottawa River drainage had to be crossed here, taking us to the Mattawa River, which flows into the Ottawa, and eventually to Lachine.

When we landed at Montreal, our voyage had covered 5,019 kilometres, and the three packs carrying our 200 kilograms of equipment had been sweated across approximately 75 portages, ranging in length from 10 metres to 14 kilometres. The physical demands of the trip were strenuous, but not extreme. The mental capacity required to spend four months living in an 18-ft. canoe and a 5 ft. by 7 ft. tent with only one other person seemed insurmountable at times. Surviving these fatiguing demands depended primarily on perseverance, a sense of humour, and people, great people, encouraging us every step of the way.

Our whole perspective on Canada has broadened. The land and its people are exciting, and our intrinsic differences must be preserved as such!

The Volkswagen Rabbit with the optional diesel engine is the only car in Canada that can make this statement. Mainly because it's the only car in Canada that can make this trip, in this kind of style, for this kind of money.

This remarkable automobile has been rewriting record books, setting new standards and generally turning dieseldom upside down ever since we introduced it in 1977.

The Rabbit Diesel started out by setting a standard for automobile fuel economy that had never been heard of before, and still has not been equalled. (It has the best Transport Canada comparative fuel consumption rating at 5.1 litres per 100 kilometres.)

In a gruelling 50,000 kilometres test, the Rabbit Diesel set an astounding 31 world records for a 1500 cc diesel-powered car. Speed records were among the most noteworthy. From a standing start, it can reach 80 km/hr in 12.3 seconds. Its top speed will be frowned upon by the local constabulary. And it has the fortitude to perform like this all day long.

And since the diesel engine is on a different principle than a gas engine, it can do without things like spark plugs, ignition coil, distributor points, condenser and carburetor.

Another nice thing about the diesel engine is, it comes wrapped up in an extraordinary automobile. The Volkswagen Rabbit.

Besides being an inspiration to other car manufacturers, the Rabbit has proven to be a joy to the few who own one. You can expect first class treatment no matter how long the trip you take.

er. First class, $69.*

Each seat is orthopaedically designed to help comfort your back no matter how back-breaking the trip is. A bucket seat is specially cushioned and bolstered to resist lateral movement. So you'll stay nicely in your place even through the winding roads of the Rockies. You'll enjoy more head and leg room than you'll find in some bigger cars. As well as more useable cargo space.

And to smooth out some of our lonesome roads, the Rabbit has front wheel independent suspension for the bumps plus rack and pinion steering for the corners.

For safety's sake, the Rabbit has front wheel drive for better traction and handling. A dual diagonal braking system so if one system were to ever fail, there's another to back it up. Front wheel disc brakes. Steel-belted radial tires. Plus negative steering roll radius to help maintain directional control when the going gets slippery.

All in all, the Rabbit Diesel has plenty to recommend it over the long haul. But you don't have to drive one across the country to be convinced.

See your Volkswagen dealer. And drive one across town.

The view from the top of the world

Through their art, Canada's Eskimos give us a unique view of life in their harsh yet beautiful land. Fine art reproductions of four recent works by leading Eskimo artists are now available at popular prices, thanks to an exclusive arrangement between the West Baffin Eskimo Cooperative of Cape Dorset and the Mintmark Press. Each print, measuring 19¾" x 26", is reproduced on fine art paper and represents an outstanding value in today's Eskimo art market.

A. "My Young Owls" by KENOJUAK. One of the best known of Eskimo artists, Kenojuak has earned international renown for her carefully-designed drawings. Her favorite subject is the owl, which she uses to evoke the spirit world of Eskimo fantasies and legends.

B. "Camp at Kangiak" by JAMASIE. Now almost 70 years old, Jamasie vividly remembers the old ways. His drawings, characterized by boldness of design and simplicity of vision, most often depict the hunter's life as he recalls it.

C. "Spring Camp of My Youth" by PITSEOLAK. A major figure among today's Eskimo artists, Pitseolak produces both copper engravings and prints. Her work often recalls childhood memories, and visions from ancient children's fables and tales.

This mark, which appears on each print along with the stonecutter's "chop" mark and the artist's own symbol, is the official emblem of the West Baffin Eskimo Cooperative, Cape Dorset, North West Territories.

D. "The Nesting Bird and Inuksuit" by EEGYVUDLUK. Eegyvudluk began drawing many years before the development of today's Eskimo artistic community. Her work reflects her love for camp life in the traditional manner.

This is the seal of Mintmark Press, a Canadian firm specializing in the high-quality reproduction of fine art. Mintmark Press has exclusive rights to reproduce specially-commissioned prints by members of the West Baffin Eskimo Cooperative Ltd.

Please send me the following Cape Dorset print reproductions at $19.95 each or $75.00 for any four, plus $3.85 for handling and shipping. (Prints are shipped flat in a handsome portfolio.) Ontario residents add sales tax.

1979's 'Excellent Teacher': German Dept.'s Bill Reeve

Dr. William C. Reeve, Assistant Professor of German, is the 1979 recipient of the Alumni Award for Excellence in Teaching.

In a letter to the selection committee in support of Dr. Reeve, 21 of his students said: "You feel as though you have a friend in the classroom, always ready to lead you out of difficulties as he leads you into all the interesting aspects of his subject."

It was just such comments that won Dr. Reeve the prestigious award. At spring Convocation he will receive a certificate of merit and $1,000. Alumni President Wilda Parkinson will present Prof. Reeve to Chancellor Michener for his award.

The award recognizes faculty members whose "knowledge of their field and ability to motivate and communicate to students are outstanding."

It is evident from other comments to the selection committee that Dr. Reeve, 36, not only has a thorough grasp of his subject but can relay that knowledge effectively. His enthusiasm and dedication, described by one student as "infectious", produces classes punctuated with "lively discussions and heated debates."

"Plasticity of thought" is how another student terms his willingness to listen to new ideas and on occasion change his own thinking as a result.

Outside the classroom Dr. Reeve gives of himself equally as generously, according to his students. He is credited with organizing a wide range of activities — German film showings, German choir, the annual German camp and weekend outings when only German is spoken.

"He encourages students to speak German among themselves and to reach out to members of the German community in Kingston."

One special characteristic of Dr. Reeve came up again and again in the nominations received by the Alumni Office: his interest in the individual. "He shows himself to be concerned with each individual's development, making sure that every member of his class understands the point at hand," notes one student letter.

A former student recounts an instance when Dr. Reeve personally tutored a small group of students after hours so they could continue their studies. "His door is always open."

A native of Toronto, he holds a B.A. from the University of Toronto and an M.A. and doctorate — both in Germanic languages and literature — from Cornell University. Dr. Reeve taught for a year at Cornell before coming to Queen's in 1971.

The 1979 selection committee was chaired by last year's recipient, Prof. Catherine R. Harland of the English Department. Other award winners have been Profs. William Gilbert (Mechanical Engineering), H.R.S. Ryan (Law) and A.R.C. Duncan (Philosophy). The selection committee includes representatives of the Alumni Association, faculty and students.

A funny thing happened on the way to ten million dollars...

By Sandie Woods,
Associate Fund Director

"My son moved to Vancouver over a year ago — but please don't change his address. We like getting the Review."

"I just had a letter from Don. He's on sabbatical in Africa and tells me he was on an elephant hunt last week."

"You're from Queen's? Good! For years I've been wanting to talk to somebody about that (censored) library fine..."

These were just a few of the comments heard over the past year by the 955 volunteers who manned the phones for Queen's Quest telethons.

"I love Regina! I love Regina!" sang out one lady, hoping we were a disc jockey calling from a local radio contest. After that kind of greeting, it can be hard to remember your own opener.

A young Toronto 'phoner recounted with delight a call she had made to an elderly alumna. The conversation ended with a perfect rendition of Oil Thigh! Our caller found it difficult to believe the song had survived so many years, thinking, as each succeeding Queen's generation does, that the Gaelic war cry is special to them. Her participation in the telethon left her convinced that there truly is as special a feeling in the Alumni Association as there was on campus when she was so recently a student.

Our telethon co-ordinator in Calgary called grads living in the United States. One call — to Houston, Texas — had a boomerang effect. The grad being called wasn't home; he had flown to Calgary the evening before to see and hear his son perform as a member of the Calgary Symphony.

"I love
Regina!
I love
Regina!"

Some of the many proud moments I had working with Queen's people over the months came in Ottawa. When several Ottawa callers were greeted with "Bon soir" instead of "Hello", they slipped effortlessly into French conversations about Queen's and Queen's Quest. One volunteer from the Parents Association had another kind of language experience. When he called the parents of a Chinese-Canadian student, the result was a three-way conversation: the caller, the parent, and a brother of the Queen's student as interpreter.

***

"Did you hear that the Golden Gaels are Number One?" asked many Kingston volunteers. (The Kingston telethon came soon after Queen's College Bowl victory.) I think we might all be surprised — no one more than the football players themselves — if there was some way to figure out how much the Gaels' championship meant to the success of Queen's Quest.

"It's plus-30 degrees Celsius down here," bragged some of the lucky alumni and parents living south of the border when called by Queen's people shivering through blizzards in Montreal and minus-30 temperatures in Winnipeg.

Although staff members were conscientious about assembling the 30 "calling cards" for each volunteer, there were some blunders.

One Montreal volunteer balked at calling a guy she vividly remembered from campus days as one of her most unsuccessful blind dates. Neither did a Toronto alumnus want to call one of his wife's former boyfriends. When one of our men discovered his boss among the people he was to call — after just asking for an extra week off — he shuffled his cards quicker than a Mississippi gambler.

Some of our volunteers turned up for their night of phoning with other members of their family in tow — also Queen's grads. Some of the Winnipeg Branch members have bright tricolor-striped blazers that they wear for such gatherings of the clan.

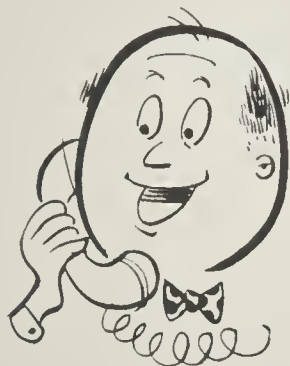

One Toronto caller reported later that volunteering to help Queen's had cost him more than $30 — the price of an expensive post-telethon dinner because his wife didn't feel like cooking after talking on the phone for two hours.

In Calgary, two grads — one from Commerce '50 and the other from Science '78 — mounted a friendly but very competitive ther-and-son battle to see who could raise the most money in one evening.

***

...Speaking of goals, did you hear the Gaels number One?"

Many of the human-interest sidelights cropped up only the morning after" when Queen's staffers were handling the follow-up paper work.

For instance, we learned that one alumnus we thought of as settled down in London, Ont., was actually off adventuring in Nigeria. One graduate whose mailing title includes "Reverend" was, appropriately, marked as being "at the cathedral" but another, whose card indicated "Father", was "no longer a priest", or, in effect (as the caller noted), ex cathedra.

First prize for capsule comment goes to the caller who wrote on a prospect's card: "At the mention of money, his knowledge of English decreases rapidly."

The Queen's staff members who took to the road for telethons have their own stories to tell... about the hotel clerk who wondered where "Green's University" was... about the mother-to-be, eight months pregnant, who had to crawl out of an elevator jammed between floors... about the staff wife who did all the London paper-work on a rented typewriter in her hotel room... and about the Sears employees at Kingston who demolished our supply of donuts and coffee when their break was scheduled 15 minutes prior to ours. After we showed our "training film" where a volunteer (acted by Jim Henderson, Arts '76) places a call to "Mary", a prospective — and positive — donor, we routinely asked if there were any questions.

"Yes," came back one Toronto wit; "What's Mary's phone number?" Back at Queen's, "Mary" (the Review's Cathy Morton) was delighted to hear it.

When one undertakes a program involving some 950 people in seven cities over 10 months, there are bound to be problems. During our Ottawa telethon, fire broke out on the third floor of Place Bell while we were calling from the 11th floor. Ernie Hurlbut and Bert Trenouth can tell you how long 11 flights of stairs can seem when you're on the run with boxes full of records. That same evening the fire alarm in our hotel shrilled at 1:00 a.m. The Ottawa weather was at its winter worst, but we certainly hit the hottest spots in town!

Then there was a car nicknamed "Lurch" that insisted on being pushed through the snow-clogged streets of Montreal. All we needed after an hour or so of pushing was to call someone who frigidly refused "to support those beer parlors on campus!" What made it all worthwhile were the generous graduates and parents who enjoyed talking about Queen's and who pledged varying amounts which added up to thousands for books, bursaries, research support and renovations.

The telethon portion of Queen's Quest has been completed. The support of volunteers in London, Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston, Winnipeg, Calgary, Montreal and Vancouver was tremendous. So was the support of Bell Canada, Simpsons-Sears, Richardson Securities, Metropolitan Life and DuPont.

To all those new and old friends, parents and alumni, thank you. I know I speak for the entire Queen's "home team" — especially Murray Gill, Ernie Hurlbut and myself of the Alumni Office; Bert Trenouth, George Newsome, Lois Miller, Carol Franks and Henry Fleming of the Office of Development and Information — when I say it was an exciting experience to work with Queen's family members from so many age groups, from such diverse professional backgrounds, and in so many different settings. We hope you enjoyed the calls as much as we enjoyed your stories.

Project Green Lives!

By Jo-Anne Stead, Arts '79

Even though we can't work outdoors in the winter, Project Green doesn't hibernate. We keep busy planning the spring and fall planting. This winter we've been especially busy with new plans for the "greening" of two main areas on campus.

One is the area surrounding the former Students' Union part of the University Centre. Plans have been approved for new landscaping on the south (Union St.) and west (University Ave.) sides of the Union. The plans call for concrete planters, lockstone, benches and, of course, trees and shrubs. There will be a new oak tree to replace the dying one in front of the Memorial Room and a blue spruce added just outside the Alumni Office (Wallace Hall). Either one would be an ideal opportunity for a gift to commemorate a class reunion or memorialize an individual. If the thought of contributing towards a tree or planter is appealing, there are many other areas around campus that would be suitable.

The other site that will receive major work is the inner campus area between Kingston Hall and Theology Hall (Old Arts). Planting in this area was delayed last spring due to difficulties with the lighting scheme. However, the planting of 30 evergreens and the installation of new lighting will proceed this season. A stroll through this part of campus should be much more pleasant by summer.

The walls of the university should look greener soon, too. The second stage of the three-year plan to plant ivy will soon be under way. Thirty more Boston Ivy plants at six campus locations will add something extra to the grey buildings.

Project Green has been bustling with activities other than planting. As is the tradition now with classes and organizations, Project Green joined such groups as Artsci '82, Commerce, Science, etc., in painting their crest on one of the sidewalk areas. Club members turned out one sunny afternoon last fall to paint the Project Green logo near the Douglas Library at the corner of Union and University. It will be a reminder to all on campus that Project Green is active in every season and still thrives more than three years after its founding.

Also by way of publicizing our cause, Project Green had a successful third annual cross-country ski excursion this winter. In conjunction with the Outers Club, we sponsored the 'Fabulous February Frolics', with skiing at Camp Fortune and skating on the Rideau Canal in Ottawa. It not only helped cement campus fellowship, but contributed proceeds to a worthy cause.

St. Patrick's Day could not pass without some recognition from Project Green. We sponsored a pub at Clark Hall, using the green theme (including green beer) to remind students that the organization is emerging for an active spring.

Other planting plans are still in the discussion stages. Funds permitting, our target areas are north of Ontario Hall, and north of Dunning and Macdonald Halls. Donations are always gratefully accepted towards any project — single tree, planter, bench, etc. Last spring, for example, Project Green had the financial assistance of the Book Merchant in the University Centre (proceeds from a sale of 'battered Penguins'), and together we were able to install new window boxes with trailing plants in the three-storey central meeting area under the skylight. This is just one instance of a plan that has been completed in co-operation with an outside 'investor'.

After the Dutch Elm devastation and the construction programs of the late '60s and early '70s, it is combinations such as this that can make our campus — yours and ours — a much more enjoyable one.

'Unprecedented' year for athletes

Queen's intercollegiate athletes, coaches and co-ordinators are kicking up their heels. The 1978-79 score-card shows that women's and men's teams brought home ten championships, placed second nine times, and finished with six strong runners-up positions. In addition, there were many individual championships.

"The results are unprecedented in the history of Queen's athletics," says Prof. Al Lenard, one of the university's two intercollegiate co-ordinators. (The other is Prof. Ann Turnbull.)

"More outstanding is the fact that Queen's 44 intercollegiate teams form one of the largest programs in Canada, and most of the teams finished strongly in the upper third of Ontario intercollegiate championships."

The four winning women's teams were cross-country running, squash, synchronized swimming and ice hockey (the third title in four years, after an undefeated season). The six men's championships came in outdoor track and field, football, rowing (varsity eight), alpine skiing and rugby (both teams).

Second-place finishes were captured in women's archery, rowing and nordic skiing, and in men's squash, soccer, badminton, cross-country, indoor track and field and volleyball ("probably the best Queen's team ever — rated third in Canada").

Women curlers finished third overall. The figure-skating team placed third (with all members winning individual gold medals), and so did tennis. The male gymnasts took a "creditable" third; so did the water polo and nordic skiing teams.

"It is not in the nature of our thinking in Queen's University athletics to consider the won/lost records of our teams as the only criterion for success," comments Al Lenard. "However, this year certainly allows us the use of this additional criterion to give a hearty Cha Gheill! to our coaches and athletes for a truly great season."

Student 'tycoons' compete at Queen's

Queen's students were among the finalists in the first annual business school competition, held in January and judged by business people from national and local corporations. Coast to coast, 25 universities were eligible to compete.

Billed as "a learning experience to uncover strengths and weaknesses within the competing universities", the competition was co-sponsored by The Financial Post and Queen's Commerce Society.

The finals, held at Queen's, consisted of three events: a six-hour case study of a hypothetical Swiss company facing administrative, marketing and competitive problems (won by Queen's); a seven-hour computer-simulated business game (won by Dalhousie); and a business-oriented debate (won by Western).

According to one judge quoted in The Financial Post, "If these students are representative of the quality of our business graduates, then the future of Canadian business is in good hands."

Heads Rehab Therapy School

Barrie Pickles has been named Director of Queen's School of Rehabilitation Therapy for a five-year term beginning July 1. To strengthen the link between the School and the Faculty of Medicine, Prof. Pickles will also be an Associate Dean of Medicine.

A native of England and a practitioner there until 1967, Mr. Pickles, 47, comes to Queen's from the University of Alberta, where he is professor and chairman of the Department of Physical Therapy. He holds a B.A. (Physical Therapy) from Alberta and an M.Sc. from Boston University. His main areas of research are the effects of ultrasonic energy on blood circulation and the benefits of physiotherapy to the elderly.

The School of Rehab Therapy has been without a director since last July when Dr. William J. Forrest was appointed head of the Anatomy Department. Founded in 1967 by Dr. David Symington, the School has 200 students and ten full-time faculty members. More than 900 applications are normally received for the School's 50 first-year places.

Osborne promoted

Dr. Brian S. Osborne, a member of faculty since 1967, is the new head of the Geography Department. His five-year term begins July 1. Dr. Osborne is a graduate of the University of Southampton (B.A. '60, Ph.D. '67) and prior to joining Queen's was head of Geography at the University of Southern Colorado. His major interests are in historical and cultural geography, with particular emphasis on the settlement of 19th century Ontario.

Debaters among best in America

For the third time in three years of competition, the revitalized Queen's Debating Union carried home laurels from the most prestigious student debate on this side of the Atlantic — the Adlai E. Stevenson Tournament at Princeton University. In both 1977 and '78, Queen's placed first. This February our Debating Union fielded five teams among 66 competing (that's 132 orators), placed second overall, and had a record three debaters in the tournament's top 10. Graham Sellers, Garry Boyd and David Corbett placed 4th, 5th and 6th respectively, and Graham was named best orator.

Over the past season, Queen's Debating Union also participated in tournaments at McGill, Hart House and RMC. Queen's hosted the Canadian National Parliamentary Debating championships last November, entered three of the 30 competing teams, and placed second.

From half a dozen active members in 1977, the Queen's group has expanded to about 20 members and has already been described as "one of the very best parliamentary debating unions in North America." The Union has also become involved in organizing high school competitions so that potential Queen's students will have an awareness of debating as a campus activity. (Alumni with suggestions or questions about high school debating are invited to contact the Debating Union c/o the AMS Office.)

The Queen's teams' travels have been largely financed by grants from the Friends of Queen's in the United States and from the AMS. By June they hope to raise enough to compete in the TransAtlantic University Speech Association meet in Chicago. For next fall, they have their hopes set on Edmonton (the National), Dalhousie, and maybe the TransAtlantic for 1980 in England.

Sales of record by Choral Ensemble will aid library

Queen's Choral Ensemble is giving a new twist to an old rhyme. Instead of singing for their supper, the 120-members of the choir have sung in support of the university library.

Their March 23rd performance in Grant Hall of a rock cantata, The Creation, was taped live and then produced as a short LP. About 1,000 records, selling at $2.50 each, have been pressed by Fantasy Sounds of Toronto.

Choir members have asked that all proceeds from the sales of their record go to Queen's Quest, the university's current fund-raising drive. Library support, to which their contribution is specifically designated, is one of the campaign's six areas of special need.

Prof. Denise Narcisse-Mair, under whose direction the ensemble has gained international acclaim, believes that this is the first time that the rock cantata by Porter and Bobrowitz has been recorded. "It is not a parody of the classical versions of The Creation," she explains, "but a contemporary interpretation. Its music ranges from blues to fast rock."

Orders for the record are being taken through the Alumni Office.

Reprimand from Professor Ryan

Canadian prisons would have a vacancy rate if Canada lived up to a United Nations treaty signed in 1976, Queen's law professor Stuart Ryan told a recent hearing of the UN Human Rights Committee in Toronto. Prof. Ryan expressed his concern that Canada's courts normally do not recognize international treaties in Canadian Law. Law student Etel Swedahl of Surrey, B.C., is working with Prof. Ryan on the application of the terms of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights.

FREE SPEECH

The News Department has published Free Speech, a brochure listing 212 members of Queen's faculty and staff who are willing to speak, without fee, to any school, church, civic, community or service organization. Close to 1,000 topics — as varied as Canadian unity, super novae and snowflakes — are included. The speakers represent five faculties and seven schools. If you or your organization would like a copy of Free Speech, please write to

Researcher teams computers & satellites to improve search & rescue techniques

A Queen's professor (and alumnus) is applying optical-digital computing techniques to a search-and-rescue system for aircraft which one day may save your life.

"Through the use of optical image processing, a ground station receiving a distress signal via satellite can pinpoint the location of a downed plane to within 10 kilometres," explains Dr. George J. Aitken, Sc. '59, M.Sc. '61, Ph.D. '65, of the Department of Electrical Engineering.

According to the 42-year-old professor, scientists have for some time now known the significance of sending emergency radio signals up through the atmosphere to be relayed by orbiting weather satellites, rather than depending on passing aircraft. What is particularly innovative about Dr. Aitken's research is the use of hybrid optical-digital computing to interpret data relayed from the satellites.

"From the orbiting satellite, the ground station picks up the emergency signal containing sufficient information to identify the location of the crash. Like a train whistle or ambulance siren, the satellite registers a high pitched signal as it approaches the area of the crash and a lower one as it draws away.

"The changing tone of the signal is impressed on special film which in turn is exposed to laser light. The resulting image is the satellite's view of the earth's surface with the source of the distress signal showing up as bright spots." With this information the ground station can dispatch rescue planes to within 10 kilometres.

Prof. George J. Aitken

Prof. Aitken's approach is not foolproof, he admits, but there are important advantages of this combination of optical and digital technologies over purely digital computing — the potential for higher precision in locating the crashes, lower costs to equip ground stations, and the possibility of handling several signals simultaneously.

The search and rescue system in current use relies on aircraft passing close enough to the emergency to pick up the radio signals and notify a ground station which directs rescue planes to the general area.

Last year close to 900 emergency calls were received in Canada — many of them false alarms caused often by the accidental jarring of a plane's emergency locator transmitter during a rough landing. Since Prof. Aitken's system has the potential to pinpoint the location of the signal, ground stations will be able to quickly decide whether rescue planes need to be sent out.

Prof. Aitken has been on faculty since 1963. His research is being funded by the federal government's Communications Research Centre and most recently by a five-year, $75,000 award to Queen's from IBM (the company's contribution to Queen's Quest). Dr. Aitken is looking ahead to 1982 when the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in the United States launches weather satellites carrying search and rescue equipment.

Federal year review published by government experts

In a 10-month period, Canada's 11 first ministers met three times. The referendum debate in Quebec escalated. The rest of Canada continued its wide-ranging constitutional debate. Federal-provincial authorities disputed sales tax, housing, oil and gas pricing, and restraint in the public sector.

The second annual Federal Year in Review (1977-78) places these events in their political and economic context and analyzes their significance to the changing nature of Canadian federalism. The handy 114-page guide to federal-provincial relations is written by Douglas Brown, a research associate with the Institute of Intergovernmental Relations at Queen's.

Copies of Federal Year in Review may be requested from the Institute of Intergovernmental Relations, Queen's University. Phone (613) 547-2626.

AMS EXECUTIVE FOR 1979-80 — They won on the slogan "Candidates with Experience": Richard Binhammer (left), President; Jeff Beck, Vice-President (Operations); and Susan Morris, Vice-President (University Affairs). Richard, a Kingstonian, will be in final-year Politics next fall. He was an AMS Commissioner last year and also concert manager. Susan hails from Winnipeg, is entering third-year Sociology, is past-president of Artsci '81 and past director of Info Bank. Jeff comes from Fairport, N.Y., will be in final-year Mining Engineering, and has a record of service to the AMS, the Engineering Society and Elrond College. (Photo: Warren Everson, Queen's Journal)

QUESSI finds a way to cut text prices

It's hard to believe, but the price of something is coming down! At the annual meeting of QUESSI in March, the Board decided to increase the discount on textbooks at the Campus Bookstore from 5% to 7%, beginning in May.

QUESSI stands for Queen's University Engineering Society Services Inc., which owns and operates the Campus Bookstore (previously Tech Supplies), operating under a charter prohibiting the accumulation of profits. As a result, business must be profitable to survive, but profits can only be used within the business. According to bookstore manager Frank Gauchie, "The Board decided that profits in the past year were higher than necessary and, to prevent repetition of such excessive good fortune, voted to increase its discounts on textbooks for 1979-80.

"The change will apply to most textbooks and will mean a saving of several dollars to each student on campus," he adds.

The extra income over the past year is attributed to more sales than expected of non-academic supplies and supplementary academic books. As a result, the store plans extensive modifications over the summer to portions of the business devoted to these lines.

Freida Paltiel among women's guests

Low pay, sexual harassment, the threat of unemployment — all common problems of women in the work force — were explored by speakers participating in Women's Week, a series of activities organized in March by Queen's Women's Centre.

Freida Paltiel, senior adviser on the status of women for the Department of National Health and Welfare, noted that women now make up 40% of Canada's work force and that the number of married women working has nearly doubled in the past 10 years. Mrs. Paltiel (Freida Leibov, Arts '45) is an alumni-elected member of Queen's University Council.

Political scientist Leah Cohen spoke about sexual harassment of working women, a problem she says must be brought out of the closet. Her book on the subject will soon be released.

"Well, basically..."

"I don't know much about this one."

"In simple terms..."

"It's far too complicated for a dummy like me (or like you) to understand."

"In the final analysis..."

"I'm going to finish now."

"That's a good question."

"Trying to be a smart Alec, aren't you?"

MacRae Award to Medical Student

Margaret Churcher, Med. '79, is this year's winner of the A.E. MacRae Award in Social Engineering, valued at $865.

Founded by A.E. MacRae, a graduate of 1914, the award is presented annually to a Queen's student "who prior to the beginning of their graduating year has developed and exhibited the greatest capacity in leading the student body." The award encourages the recipients to continue their social leadership, thinking always in terms of ideas, policies and laws rather than of institutions.

Ms Churcher, a native of Ottawa, has been an active member of the University Senate since 1976, serving on several of its committees and heading up the student Senate caucus in 1976-77. Her other activities have involved her with Science '44 Co-op, the Queen's Journal, the Aesculapian Society, the Rehabilitation Therapy Society, Info Bank, and other university committees.

She plans to specialize in pediatrics at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Last year's recipient was Morris Chochla, Sc. '75, Law '78, former Rector.

Speakers explore Theology of Liberation, Cults

Contemporary religious movements — do they enslave or liberate? Prominent theologians shared their answers to this topical question during the Chancellor Dunning Trust lecture series this winter. Overall theme was "Christ, Krishna and Cults" — or the challenge of cults and ideas to the traditional churches.

Dr. Klaus Klostermaier, a theologian and anthropologist at the University of Manitoba, examined the attraction of eastern religions for westerners, especially youth.

Political theology, the worldwide movement aimed at regaining the social meaning of the Christian message, has become popular again, according to Roman Catholic theologian Dr. Gregory Baum. The professor of religious studies and sociology, whose views on sexual morality led him to resign from the priesthood two years ago, was the second 1979 Dunning lecturer.

Roy Bonisteel, host of CBC-TV's Man Alive, moderated a panel discussion as the third event in the series. Panelists were Washington columnist Michael Novak, who spoke on the cult of socialism, and Peter Slater of Carleton University, a specialist in religious philosophy and Buddhism.

During the winter term, liberation theology was thoroughly explored in a conference on "The Hope for Human Liberation". The weekend seminar at the Donald Gordon Centre took place concurrently with the Donald Mathers Memorial Lectures, and both featured American theologian Rosemary Ruether. Co-sponsors were the Theological College and the Dean of Women.

Trustees Salute Dr. J.D. Gibson

Law Journal Revamped

Law grads from the Faculty's earlier days may remember the Law Journal as an intermittent internal publication. In the last three years Queen's Law Journal has expanded to become what its editor calls "a national publication addressed to practitioners, academics, law students and those in associated disciplines such as sociology and political science."

According to Nancy Flatter, Law '81, the Journal's current editor, the present editorial board has recognized the benefits of publishing symposial issues as a means of allowing a more thorough examination of one area of law from many different perspectives. As 1978 was the year in which the Family Law Reform Act came into existence and 1979 is the International Year of the Child, the Law Journal plans to publish a symposial issue on Family Law this autumn. The articles will cover a range of topics, including a practical approach to the new Child Welfare Act, determinate sentencing for juveniles, a forensic psychologist's view of child protection and custody hearings, and a look at Kingston's unique Family Court Support Services.

To ensure the Law Journal's continued development and financial stability, a new subscription drive has been launched. "By the end of the summer we hope to have contacted all the larger law firms in Canada," says Ms Flatters. "We plan to offer our reduced individual rate to all Queen's Law graduates, with the assistance of the Alumni Office."

"Also," she adds, "the advertising staff intends to expand the scope of ads from the traditional law firm professional card to the newer paralegal companies offering computer case searches and text-editing equipment."

Dean's Term of Office Extended

Principal Watts has announced that Mrs. Evelyn Reid's term of office as Dean of Women has been extended to Aug. 31, 1980.

The Principal's Advisory Committee has recommended that the Office of the Dean of Women be continued and further, in the light of the interest which has been shown by the University community and the desirability of reviewing thoroughly the complex nature of the demands on that office, they have asked for more time to consider the structure of the office and to review the candidates for the position. Principal Watts has accepted their recommendation and agreed to the time extension, and Dean Reid has agreed to the extension of her term.

Mrs. Evelyn Reid, Dean of Women

Mrs. Reid will, of course, be eligible for consideration for the post in whatever revised form it may take as a result of the Committee's further deliberations.

On 125th Anniversary of Medicine 'Prophets' will preview year 2004

Concurrent with Reunion '79 this fall, Queen's will celebrate the 125th Anniversary of the Medical School by holding an international symposium, opening a building in the Health Sciences Complex, and publishing a short history of the School, written by Dr. Tony Travill.

The symposium theme is 2004 — Medicine in the 21st Century: A Forward Look from Queen's. Speakers from various medical constituencies will look into their crystal balls and speak in the context of what things will be like 25 years from now. Proceedings will be preserved on paper and videotape so that future doctors can review the predictions in 2004.

Among the topics: Curculosclerosis (former Queen's Dean, Dr. J.D. Hatcher);

Predictions of a Medical Student (Patrick O'Shea, Med. '80);

Certification of Professional Competence (Dr. D.G. Cameron, President, Royal College of Physicians & Surgeons);

Biomedical Research Objectives (Dr. René Simard, President, Medical Research Council);

The Future of Canadian Medicine (Queen's Professor D. Larry Wilson, President, Canadian Medical Association);

Advancements in Medical Science and Philosophy (Dr. E.D. Pellegrino, President, Catholic University of America, Washington);

Role of Government (Ontario Premier William Davis);

Public Expectations (Edward Pickering, Chairman, Health Disciplines Board of Ontario).

The new medical building, Botterell Hall, will be officially opened on Friday, Oct. 19, at 4:00 p.m., with a reception following.

Special guests of the University for the anniversary weekend will be the graduates of the Classes of Med. '39 and '49, celebrating their 40th and 50th anniversaries, respectively, during Reunion '79.

Dr. Stuart Vandewater, Secretary of the Faculty of Medicine, sees the 125th anniversary as an appropriate occasion "to boost our morale, recognize our history, look to the future, and inform the country that we are very much alive and will survive, regardless of these financially constrained times."

Valentine Caper

*By Ginny Vassal, Commerce '79
A.M.S./Alumni Liaison 1978-79*

Although it's late, Happy Valentine's Day! For many graduates of Queen's 1919 and 1929, this little cherub may have a very familiar grin on his face; you should have seen that same cupid on your Valentine's Day card from a Queen's student. I certainly hope you weren't alarmed to receive the card without any explanation.

I'd like to explain it to you now.

Although the Alumni Association boasts a tradition of successful reunions, the work of the Alumni Office extends far beyond that one weekend a year and into the co-ordination of many activities and keeping in touch with all graduates of Queen's. This year, the idea was put forward that students send valentines to the 1919 and 1929 graduates whose 50th and 60th class anniversaries are scheduled for Reunion this fall. The proposal was discussed and refined. Soon after, a sketch of a grinning cherub with a freckled nose left my doodle pad and landed on the desk of Murray Gill, Director of Alumni Affairs. Students were advised of the project, and many of them took time to drop into the University Centre, choose the name of a senior grad, and mail him or her a valentine. So that's the story of our Alumni Valentine Caper.

It grew out of the purposes of the position I hold: to increase the amount and quality of the interaction between alumni and students. We have other ideas we plan to follow up, too.

The focus of our interaction is Reunion weekend, when students offer tours, teas, and participate in receptions. At the 1978 Reunion, the high-point of students and alumni meeting took place just after the football game, in the "blind date" in the pub. Student escorts accompanied each interested alumnus (or alumna) for a social hour in the campus pub, a chance to exchange notes on the past as compared to the present. I must confess that I was delighted with the overall reaction to this event. Not only did many groups stay long after the stated finishing time, but several students later remarked on how much they had enjoyed their "blind date".

Another project currently under consideration is that of making student guides available for any alumni visiting Queen's throughout the entire year. The groundwork is laid for next year, and I'm keeping my fingers crossed that the project will be implemented.

The Class Agent system of correspondence is a change I'm certain many of you have noticed adding a personal touch to Alumni Fund appeals and hopefully keeping alumni up-to-date with classmates news. Along with the Alumni Office, I am optimistic it will serve to strengthen the bonds of which Queen's is traditionally so proud.

As I mentioned, the aim of many of these programs is to increase contact among Queen's alumni "home base" in Kingston, and the students. Not only does this smooth the transition from student to alumnus, but also adds more personality and "human interest" to each group.

As a student myself, and on behalf of the Alma Mater Society, I would like to express gratitude for the support and interest you alumni continually show in the students and the University. The cheering section at the College Bowl last November certainly showed the power of the long-lasting Queen's spirit and the pride that accompanies it!

Please feel welcome to return and visit. Although many changes have taken place, rumour has it that Alfie still haunts the Alumni Office and the Queen's Journal and that the engineers' April Fool's Day joke for 1980 will again be unequalled.

These examples serve as small extracts of the personality of Queen's. Thank you for all you did as students to create it and all you have done as alumni to keep it that way.

Elected

Benefactors' Choice

By separate mail, alumni who are also benefactors (i.e., people who have given at least $100 to Queen's) had an opportunity to choose two Trustees. The successful candidates were:

Ian MacF. Rogers, Toronto
Bruce I. Howe, Vancouver
(by acclamation)

COMMENTS, PLEASE

New Election Procedures: In the March-April edition of the Review (labelled Election Issue) you encountered the new methods devised to encourage alumni participation in elections to the Board and the Council while saving the University almost $6,000 on postage and printing.

Response was not as good as we had hoped for.

We would appreciate your comments on how we might improve your participation.** Please write to: The Secretary of the University, Richardson Hall, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., Canada K7L 3N6

**Thanks to those alumni in British Columbia who have already written to explain that the Review (with its April 15th deadline for ballots) was delivered to them only on April 12th, more than a month after mailing. Have other alumni had this same problem?

Polar Summer

*By Dr. Fred Cooke,
Scientific Director, Churchill Northern Studies Centre, and Professor of Biology, Queen's University*

At a time of year when picnics and sunbathing are becoming seasonably popular in most alumni lives, there are already Queen's students, professors and graduates finding their way north to chip glacial ice, poke into permafrost, photograph polar bears, examine eggs and interview Inuit. Their jumping-off point will be the Churchill Northern Studies Centre in Manitoba, and their various academic pursuits will be under an umbrella called Northern and Arctic Studies.

The Arctic field course program is a voluntary co-ordination by a number of Canadian universities of their various undergraduate course offerings in the Canadian North. The courses are designed to be suitable for teaching in the outdoor setting and to provide a first-hand and yet reasonably inexpensive experience of the North. This program began in a small way in 1976 with a course given by Queen's and York University in Churchill. There were two courses offered in 1977 and five in 1978. Between May 19 and Sept. 9 this summer, there will be 13 courses offered by 10 universities.

This example of inter-university co-operation allows students from across Canada with an interest in the Arctic to participate in field courses even if their own university does not offer such courses. Learning with students from other universities and with northern residents can be a rewarding experience.

For many students, the field course will be their first contact with the Arctic, but if past experience is a guide, it will not be the last. Many students have returned to the North, either as graduate students, for summer work, or even to live. This program often leads to a permanent commitment to the North.

The courses themselves are mainly of two-week duration and are equivalent to a half-course credit at most Canadian universities. The courses are mainly in Geography and Biology, disciplines where a field component is considered an essential part of a student's understanding. The two weeks themselves are very full, with field trips during the day and lectures in the evenings.

The Churchill Northern Studies Centre which co-ordinates the program was established in 1976 with funds provided by the Donner Canadian Foundation and the Province of Manitoba. The Centre is a modest teaching and research facility. Most of the field courses will be located at the Studies Centre for at least part of the time. Other study sites are La Perouse Bay (associated with Queen's long-range study of Snow Geese), Rankin Inlet, Igloolik in the Northwest Territories, and Schefferville, Que. The Centre is administered by a board of directors with representatives from the Town of Churchill, the Province of Manitoba and the Universities of Manitoba, Winnipeg and Brandon.

Caribou photographed at Bathurst Inlet by Dr. Lois Myer

In addition to the field course program, the Studies Centre is used by many scientists — some from Russia and Scandinavia — studying anything from permafrost to polar bears.

The Centre is managed by W.R. Erick, who looks after the various logistic problems which inevitably arise in the Canadian North. But that's another story...

The Cost and Other Queries

Tuition fees for these Arctic field courses are relatively modest — from $54 to $145, depending on course duration. Most cost between $70 and $75. Accommodation is another matter. For room, meals and all course-related travel, fees range from $250 (for courses in the Churchill area and Queen's research station at La Perouse Bay) to about $500 (for those travelling farther north to Rankin Inlet).

Travel to and from Churchill is the student's responsibility.

For some courses, auditors are accepted at reduced fees, but credit course candidates have priority.

Although it is too late to register for many of this season's courses, those interested in learning more about the Arctic program, Queen's involvement, alumni participation, etc., may write for more information to:

Queen's Content

Two of this summer's courses are co-sponsored by Queen's: Arctic Geomorphology (Geography 38-307) and Arctic Ornithology (Biology 12-307). Queen's faculty participating are Drs. R. Gilbert, A. Keast and Fred Cooke. Dr. Cooke's participation as Scientific Director of the Arctic program while holding a professorship at Queen's is made possible by the Government of Canada through an N.R.C. grant to Queen's.

The memory lingers on...

Many branches have had a sociable winter, and we're pleased to report that the following events have been staged and enjoyed since the last Review appeared:

LONDON — The alumnae are thriving. About 30 women turned out on March 7 for a dessert and coffee party at the home of Lorraine Sheppard. Guest Anne Robinson spoke on "Family Law", sparking much interest and good discussion, according to Ruth Getty.

On Saturday, May 5, the alumnae got together again at the Bavarian, this time to hear Pamela Samuels discuss "Women in Journalism".

MONTREAL — A thaw nearly wiped out the first mid-winter cross-country skiing outing for alumni families on March 11. The setting was the Morgan Arboretum of MacDonald College, with apres ski swimming and refreshments at the faculty club there. Maybe next year's outing will be less slushy!

VICTORIA — Dr. and Mrs. G.F. Roseborough were branch hosts for a reception when "Padre" Lavery, Queen's Chaplain, paid his annual and much-anticipated visit to schools in Western Canada.

SARNIA — After a skating party for the more vigorous alumni, Sarnia enticed members indoors for a wine and cheese party at the Golf and Curling Club on March 28. Convenor Marsha Lampman hasn't reported on how many Queen's scarves brightened the Dow Rink that evening, but the Branch is "very pleased with the base of supporters we are establishing."

Sarnia alumni should watch for details of a Branch Barbecue to be held in June. If you're a new grad recently moved to the area, please make sure your Queen's friends know you're there by calling Marsha Lampman at 344-9392.

OTTAWA — The alumnae welcomed their spring season with a now-traditional event on Saturday, April 21: the Spring Salad Bowl luncheon. Hostess was Mrs. Maureen Surgenor of Rockcliffe Park. The program for the upcoming national Alumnae Annual Meeting (June 9) was discussed, since the meeting will be held in the Capital. (See notice in this issue.)

KINGSTON — The branch's annual wine and cheese party in the Agnes Etherington Art Centre drew a near-capacity crowd of 130 nibblers and sippers on April 6. Four exhibitions were current in the galleries, including work by senior students from the Fine Arts program. Special invitees were the President of the University of Toronto Alumni Association, Helen Pearce; Toronto's Director of Alumni Affairs, Bert Pinnington; and Robert Swain, the Art Centre's new Director.

CALGARY — At the invitation of Dr. Ernie Johnson and his branch executive, Doug Hargreaves, who coached the Golden Gaels to the national football championship last fall, 'quarterbacked' a reception on April 25. The event was held at the Calgary Inn. Doug took along some film footage of the College Bowl, plus Queen's Director of Alumni Affairs, Murray Gill.

OAKVILLE-MISSISSAUGA — This branch's successful inaugural season concluded with a fourth social event on May 3: the first annual dinner and meeting, held at the Glen Abbey Golf Club in Oakville. Queen's Vice-Principal J.M. Courtright, Sc. '41, was guest speaker.

Wind Ensemble meets some Edmonton fans

KINGSTON ALUMNI

Please keep in mind the annual Kingston Branch Garage Sale when doing your spring and summer house or cottage cleaning. ment, and mingle with them afterwards over coffee.

The Ensemble was chosen by the Ontario Music Educators Association to represent Ontario at the Canadian Music Educators Conference in Vancouver, March 27-29.

Kingston Award

At the annual meeting of the Kingston Branch on May 11, the Kingston Award for 1979 was made to Margaret E. Gibson (Margaret MacKay), Arts '46, "for service to Queen's and the Community". Mrs. Gibson, who is married to Prof. Frederick Gibson, is Past-President of the Alumnae Association (national) and has served in many capacities in the local alumni branch. Between military duty as a WREN and settling in Kingston, she was a reporter with the Globe & Mail, Toronto.

Site of the dinner meeting and award presentation was the Fort Frontenac Officers Mess, with Branch President Gordon W. Mylks in the chair.

MBA Alumni active

Prof. Gerry Doyle reports that the School of Business sponsored three very successful receptions on behalf of the MBA Alumni this session: the first at Le Cercle Universitaire, Ottawa, on Feb. 28; the second at McGill University's Faculty Club on March 14; and the third a week later at the University Club of Toronto.

"It is the intention of the School's Alumni Committee," Prof. Doyle says, "to continue holding receptions in these three areas on an annual basis and to extend such receptions or informal meetings to other cities as opportunities present themselves — for example, the Atlantic Bowl last fall in Halifax or the meeting this month [May] of the Learned Societies in Saskatoon, at which time Dean Gordon plans to speak to all Queen's alumni in the area."

Plans are under way in the School of Business to repeat last October's well-received Reunion program for business alumni who return for Reunion '79.

Washington goes Canadian

The All-Canada University Association in the area of Washington, D.C., has responded to popular demand and is making an annual event of its all-alumni dinner. A different university will play host each year.

The third annual dinner was held on March 30 at the Indian Spring Country Club in Maryland, with several Queen's alumni in attendance. Host university was Dalhousie (Halifax) and guest speaker was Senator Henry D. Hicks, CC, QC, President of Dalhousie.

Montreal Medal Dinner

(The following is from Padre A.M. Laverty's presentation of David Rigsby to Branch President James Dunlop for awarding of the Montreal Medal on April 28.)

"This is the 40th anniversary of the Montreal Medal. In these four decades the Medal has honoured four Chancellors, four Principals, one Rector and 29 others of the Queen's family for 'meritorious contribution to the honour of Queen's University'.

"This year the Medal is awarded to David Rigsby, B.Sc. '40; husband of Dorothy, a gracious Queen's chatelaine; father of two graduates — John and Douglas — and of Catherine, who graduates this spring; Past President of the General Alumni Association; Past Chairman of the Alumni Fund; devoted and tireless worker in the services of his Alma Mater; a very knowledgeable and dedicated Trustee.

"His distinguished professional career has been entirely with the Aluminum Company of Canada, which our late, great Rector L.W. Brockington called the 'Alumni Company of Queen's' because of Queen's men, notably O.M. Montgomery, Neil Hay and Mel Williamson, whose loyalty and competence in serving Queen's matched their loyalty and competence in serving Alcan.

"A loyal son and great servant of Queen's, a generous benefactor, Dave Rigsby richly merits the Montreal Medal, and I am pleased and proud to present him to you, Mr. President."

Engineering Directory

Many of you are, no doubt, wondering what has happened to the latest Directory of Engineering Graduates, which we hoped to publish last Fall. Unfortunately we have encountered a series of unexpected delays, with the result that publication is far behind schedule. Although the problems now appear to be solved, it is not likely that the Directory will be available until late May at the earliest.

To those of you who so generously contributed to the production costs of the Directory, our apologies for the delay. To all of you who are looking forward to receiving the Directory, thank you for being so patient.

The Queen's family loses a daughter in England

Heloise Joan (Goodwin) Lloyd, B.A. '45, died at her home in Cambridge, England, on Feb. 9. She is survived by her husband, Commander Peter Lloyd, RN (retired), two sons, two daughters (including Philippa Lloyd at the National Theatre School in Montreal), a grandson, and her mother, Mrs. Helen McKenzie Goodwin of Cambridge, well remembered in Kingston as faculty wife and gifted artist; she was predeceased in 1944 by her father, Dr. Leo F. Goodwin, long-time head of the Department of Chemical Engineering at Queen's University.

Mrs. Lloyd grew up in Kingston and attended Victoria School, KCVI and Bishop Strachan School in Toronto before going on to Queen's. In 1943 she joined the Women's Division of the RCAF and served in Dartmouth, N.S. Always a brilliant student, she returned to university late in the autumn of 1944, completed the final two years of her B.A. program by the following fall, and moved to England to be married. As a naval wife, she lived at various times in Malta, Canada and Singapore, as well as in England. Settled in Cambridge in the 1960s, she took her teaching certificate at Homerton College and at the time of her death had been teaching English, French and Careers Planning for more than a decade at York Street Centre for Further Education. — Margaret Gibson, Arts '46

He was a pastor in print

A retired Free Methodist Church minister whose weekly religious column was widely syndicated, Rev. Dr. R. Barclay Warren, B.A. '31 (B.D., Emmanuel College, Toronto; D. Litt., Free Methodist College, Greenville, Ill.), died in Kingston, Ont., Feb. 19.

Dr. Warren was a pastor in many charges including Barrie, Uxbridge, Toronto, and Kingston. For a period he served as Principal of Lorne Park College in Port Credit. He started his journalistic career in Uxbridge and at one time his column was carried by 175 newspapers. The column led to his taking over as editor of the monthly Canadian Free Methodist Herald in 1951. Two books of his columns have been published.

He is survived by his wife, the former Olive Anglin; a son, Dr. Ralph Warren, Med. '61; two daughters, Mrs. M. G. Saunders (Helen), Arts '64, and Mrs. Gordon Barrie (Sherrill); and a brother, Gordon.

Miss Florence H. Cottee: She was a 'plant detective'

Forty years with the Department of Agriculture, Miss Florence Harriet Cottee, C.M., B.A. '33, died in Calgary, Alta., on Nov. 4, 1978.

After 25 years with the Department in Ottawa, Miss Cottee was transferred to Calgary in 1960 to be microscopist-in-charge of the micro-analytical laboratory. Simultaneously she worked for the RCMP Crime Detection Laboratories in Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, and Vancouver, performing microscopic analyses of plant tissue in murder and other cases. She established a reputation as an expert witness in court sessions.

Miss Cottee was appointed a member of the Order of Canada in 1977. Other honours and distinctions included fellowship in the American Association of Feed Microscopists and an AAFM plaque in recognition of her services as Registrar and membership on many committees; a plaque from the Crime Detection Lab and a trophy from the General Investigative Section of the RCMP; the Governor-General's Gold Medal, the Queen's Silver Jubilee Medal, and, on her retirement in 1975, a long-service diploma signed by the Prime Minister.

Survivors include her sister, Miss Dorothy Cottee.

Notes

1920-29

George P. Hillmer, Arts '27, has been entertaining himself over the past several years of his "retirement" with a number of unpaid jobs, one of which is the editorship of Cross-Canada Comment, a small quarterly journal which is sent, free of charge, to some 3,000 business education teachers, secondary and post-secondary, in all parts of Canada. The journal is produced for the Canadian Association of Business Education Teachers. Mr. Hillmer is a former Director of Education for the Ontario Ministry of Education and also former Director Education for the Department of National Defence Schools in Europe. He may now be reached at Apt. 615, 4001 Bayview Ave., Willowdale, Ont. M2M 3Z7.

Herbert E.A. Inman, Arts '29, retired in 1969 as head of the Science Department at Westdale Collegiate in Hamilton, Ont., and now lives in Ancaster, where he and 'Lil' celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary about a year ago. News of 'Herbie' comes from his old Queen's friend and long-time teaching colleague, Elliott McKnight, Arts '28. "Many alumni will remember Herbie selling tickets for various Queen's games, but the thing for which he is most noted is for sending students from Westdale down to Queen's, particularly those with athletic possibilities," he writes. Mr. Inman at one time coached both football and badminton at Westdale, and his cadet rifle teams consistently won the Dominion Rifle Association's annual competitions.

1930-39

Nadine Austin, Arts '36, retired in 1974 after serving with the federal government for 35 years. Miss Austin, formerly of Ottawa, is living in Wakefield, Que.

Helen Cram, Arts '36, Toronto, Ont., retired in 1977 as a librarian in charge of a branch of Toronto Public libraries, and is enjoying her retirement in Beaches very much.

Prof. J. F. 'Jake' Edwards, Arts '37 (M.A. [PE] Michigan), has retired from the School of Physical and Health Education at Queen's but remains active as a skiing consultant. Prof. Edwards, who was accredited a National Ski Coach in 1974, had charge of all cross-country skiing events at the Ontario Winter Games in December. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards (Ev Rickard), Arts '36, still live in Kingston.

Mrs. Helen Green (Helen Birch), Arts '36, and her husband have been residents of Calgary for approximately 30 years. Prior to his retirement, Mr. Green was a chemist in charge of a government testing laboratory there.

Dr. Ernest A. Johnson, Med. '38, one of Queen's Western alumni "pillars", has recently made several forays into his home territory in the East. Dr. Johnson, a practising ophthalmic surgeon in Calgary, formerly a resident of Smiths Falls, Ont., attended the October meeting of the Alumni Directors in Kingston as President of the Calgary Branch and at the same time celebrated his class's 40th reunion. He returned east to Toronto early in December with a team of curlers to capture the Ontario Medical Curling Bonspiel Championship Trophy for the second year in a row.

Dr. Johnson is currently President of the Canadian Section of the International College of Surgeons and recently completed a term as Potentate of the Shrine of Alberta. He is active in Operation Eyesight Universal, a project which he helped form in Calgary some years ago and which now has an annual budget of over one million dollars for much-needed eye surgical work in third world countries. Operation Eyesight Universal is currently giving surgical help and financial assistance for eye care to various needy locations in countries such as India, Bangladesh, Nepal, Pakistan, China, and Africa's Kenya and Liberia, to name a few, as well as now embarking on assistance to areas in urgent need of eye care in South America and the Caribbean. Dr. Johnson will soon embark on another working tour of O.E.U.'s various projects in developing countries.

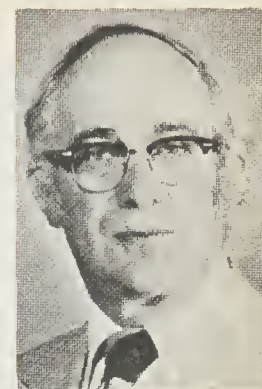

Dr. George E. Lynch, Med. '31, was honoured recently by the town of Avon, N.Y., on his retirement after more than four decades of general practice in the community. A reception was held Dec. 3, 1978, and attended by several hundred former patients, friends and the Mayor, who read a citation declaring "Dr. George E. Lynch Day". Dr. and Mrs. Lynch are now living at 910 W. Gurley St., Prescott, Arizona.

Prof. W.A. 'Bill' Neville, Arts '38 (B.A., Manitoba), is Assistant to the Vice-President (Academic), University of Manitoba, and Co-Ordinator of Canadian Studies there. He is also a Queen's Class Agent for the Class of '38.

Ken J. Preston, Com. '38, was honoured recently by the City of Regina for the 17 years he served as general manager of the Saskatchewan Roughriders. Mr. Preston retired a year ago, but spent last season as a management consultant for the team. As the Leader-Post put it, "Twenty years after people said the Saskatchewan Roughriders could not possibly survive, the Saskatchewan Roughriders are still here. That is Ken Preston's legacy."

Kathy Narraway, Arts '75, is teaching Mathematics and Computer Science at Lorne Park High School in Mississauga, Ont.

W. Andrew Orr, Ed. '76 (B.Sc., Guelph), will spend the next two years with CUSO, teaching Mathematics and Physics at Molefi Secondary School, Mochudi, Botswana. Visitors welcome!

James Reid, Arts '75, and Mrs. Reid (Susan Marten), Arts '75, are living in Burnaby, B.C., where Susan works with the B.C. Ministry of Labour and Jamie is a probation officer with the B.C. Ministry of Attorney General.

David T. J. Walsh, Ed. '75 (B.A., Trent), and his wife (Marg Allison), Arts '76, formerly of Port Hope, Ont., have moved to Burlington. Marg is studying Occupational Therapy at Mohawk College in Hamilton and Dave is teaching French and German in Oakville.

Jacqueline Ward, Arts '76, Toronto, Ont., has received his Master's degree in Library Science from the University of Toronto and is working as a cataloguer with the Mississauga Public Library system.

The slushy saga of some crazy Queen's men

By Mark G. Peacock, Law '74

Queen's alumni were once again represented in this year's 25th anniversary Ice Boat Race at the Quebec Winter Carnival. In addition to John Pepper, Arts '74, and myself, Peter Barr, Law '75, was flown in especially from Hamilton, Ont., to lend experience to the team, sponsored by Faculté de Droit, Université Laval, and a little-known San Diego health food company. Obscurity buffs of unremembered Queen's sporting teams will recall Barr and myself as members of the spirited and ill-fated Queen's/Lakeview Manor entry in the 1974 race.

The competition takes place over a triangular three-mile course requiring two crossings of the partially frozen St. Lawrence River in mid-February. In addition to rowing the 400-lb. dory, the five crew members are often called upon to embark from the boat and push it over less-than-solid ice. Dunkings are an occupational hazard, and the tidal flow of the river at Quebec makes navigation difficult. The race thus calls for an equal measure of conditioning, experience at reading tides, courage, and warm clothing. We had the warm clothing.

Our strongest competition came from the other 12 boats in the race, particularly the perennially strong Levis Ready-Mix and Brasserie Ile-aux-Coudes boats. Despite a purposely deceptive slow start, the team rowed a strong twelfth position, always keeping the leaders within binocular view. Unfortunately, our dry-land training had ill-equipped us for le slush in which we became totally immersed close to the far-distant shore. Once extricated and wet, we had fallen too far behind to win. We forged on, however, to finish twelfth, a full  $\frac{3}{4}$  mile ahead of our nearest competition, the Province of Ontario-sponsored boat (Nous vous traitons royalement) and 37 minutes behind the winners.

Man against Nature, we were satisfied to have finished this traditional Canadian sporting event. Our Québécois colleagues had taught us many lessons for next year, particularly as regards conditioning, experience at reading tides, etc. We are now looking for a sponsor for next year's team. Should alumni know of organizations that would be interested, would they kindly contact John or myself c/o The Faculty of Law, Université Laval, Quebec, Que. G1K 7P4?

Spring Bouquets

At last our Queen's Reviews have caught up with our last move!...We seem to have a lot of news to impart — a new address, a new son and a promotion. (See "Names in the News".) ...We do enjoy receiving the Review and keeping in touch with dear old Queen's. I wonder how many others met their spouse in the registration line (Sept. 15, 1971) at Queen's? For us, Queen's will always be fondly remembered.

Woman Editor Still Noteworthy?

An entry in the January-February issue of the Queen's Alumni Review, recording the death of Krista Maeots, repeated an error that had already appeared in the Toronto Star and perhaps in other publications as well. This was the observation that Miss Maeots was "only the third female editor in the history of the Queen's Journal." I feel some responsibility to set the record straight on that point, not so much in defense of my own, possibly erroneous, belief that I held that distinction, but to rescue from threatened oblivion those who preceded me in the post.

At the time of my appointment as editor-in-chief for 1955-56 I received a letter from Mary F. Bishop (Mary Fraser) who had served as editor 1934-35. She told me that at the time of her appointment she had received a similar letter from Charlotte Whitton, who edited the Journal in 1917 or thereabouts. According to Peter Gzowski of the Toronto Star, Pauline Jewett was also a Journal editor. If that is so, the Queen's Journal had at least four women editors before Miss Maeots.

My own appointment to the editorship in 1955 created little comment. I think people saw it as a logical outcome of the three years of effort and enthusiasm I had devoted to the paper. It has surprised me, therefore, to discover that a woman's occupancy of the role is still considered worthy of special note. I feel that women can feel secure in their accomplishments only when those accomplishments are not rendered especially noteworthy by reason of gender. Until that time arrives, however, I guess we all have a responsibility to try to keep the record as complete as possible.

Frances (Code) Frisken,
Toronto, Ont.

Editor's note: A check of Tricolors in the Alumni Archives reveals that Frances (Code) Frisken was indeed the third Queen's woman to edit the Journal, following Charlotte Whitton and Mary (Fraser) Bishop and not Pauline Jewett. It was 10 years before the Journal had another woman editor (Krista Maeots), but in 1975 editor Terry Collins observed that "recently there has been a rash of them" — with only three male editors in eight years.

ORDER THESE GREAT BOOKS FOR PLEASURE READING

GOOD AS GOLD

By Joseph Heller. This funny new Heller novel captures the fractured logic of the White House with an absurd and moving accuracy in the style of his Catch 22. Much of the dialogue has to remind you of our own politicians and bureaucrats in Ottawa. For example, "We'll want to move ahead with this as speedily as possible, although we'll have to go slowly." Dr. Bruce Gold, the main character, is fascinating, funny, infuriating, savage and totally true to life as he faces the prospect of becoming a big Washington official. Good As Gold is sparkling, moving and real . . . which is probably what made this book a Main Selection of the Literary Guild. 447 pages. ## TUTANKHAMUN: The Untold Story

By Thomas Hoving, former head of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art. There had to be secrets behind the most important and splendid discovery in the history of modern archaeology. The find revealed four burial chambers so filled with priceless objects of gold that it took years to remove the 5,000 works of art from the tomb. This is an account of adventure and intrigue, as strong-willed men struggled for the treasure and were, in the end, overwhelmed by it. Enjoy 32 pages of stunning colour and black-and-white photos with exciting text by the man who arranged the fabulous Tutankhamun exhibition tour. 384 pages. Postpaid $18.25

THIS MAN IS A GLUTTON FOR HAPPINESS.

At a time when many people are fed up with the quality of new cars, 9 out of 10 people who buy new Volvos are happy.

Having bought four Volvos, the man you see here is ecstatic.

He's Robert Froebel, an engineer and teacher in Toronto, and he's been buying Volvos since 1965. He's kept all his old Volvos in the family, giving one to his wife and passing two others along to his sons.

Mr. Froebel estimates he's put a third of a million miles on the Volvos he's bought.

"They might not go on forever, but as yet they've shown no signs of stopping. I can't imagine a car I could have invested in that would have given me a greater return."

If you've never felt this kind of attachment to a car you've owned, consider a Volvo.

Better to have known one-fourth the happiness Mr. Froebel has known, than never VOLVO to know happiness at all. A car you can believe in.

a reflection of quality.

James E. Wright, M.B.E., E.D., with Chancellor Roland Michener

Spring Convocation salutes loyalty of 'The Warden'

In recent Queen's history, few announcements of honorary degrees have evoked more — or warmer — response than the news that James E. Wright, Arts'28, M.B.E., E.D., was to become a Master of Arts.

Congratulations from fellow Kingstonians began arriving within hours, and letters from Queen's friends across the country continue to bolster Jim's pleasure in the award, weeks after Convocation. (See citation on page 2.)

The Queen's vine does indeed have many branches. Letters have come from former football fans and fellow players (such as F.R. 'Pep' Leadlay); from career airmen celebrating with their old C.O.; from students of several generations who sat with him on the House Committee of the Students' Memorial Union; from former Wallace Hall waitresses; and from classmates of 50 years ago. When he retired as Warden of the Union in 1969, Jim Wright agreed to reinvest his experience as an administrator in the Alumni Office. When he retired — again — in 1975, it was with the University Council's Distinguished Service Award.

The Alumni Association also welcomes into its membership the five distinguished Canadian achievers upon whom the University bestowed honorary doctorates this spring. Their citations follow on page 2.

Cuts in consumption win Commission kudos for Queen's

When Queen's asks you for a gift to the Alumni Fund or Queen's Quest, you can be sure it's not because university money is going up in smoke — or any kind of wasted energy.

The University's energy conservation program is so successful that it has sparked both admiration and curiosity in the Royal Commission on Electric Power Planning.

A brief from Queen's Department of Physical Plant, presented to the Commission this spring by department chief Gerry McCahill, p.c. '54, outlined an ongoing program which has resulted in a 4% drop in unit energy consumption since the program started in 1972-73 as "Turn off for Queen's". This drop is in spite of a 10% increase in the physical size of the University in the past decade. Mr. McCahill says that Queen's $1-million project to install automated devices promises to cut consumption even further.

Some of the power-saving steps have been obvious ones: cutting down the number of light bulbs in some buildings; putting timers on equipment to turn off power when not required; mending leaks in steam pipes; caulking around draughty doors and windows; and improving building insulation where needed.

The energy savings are already significant, and it's expected that the capital costs will be recaptured through such savings by the end of the program. So far, $200,000 has been spent on the million-dollar automation phase. Mr. McCahill explained to the Commission how Queen's savings have been achieved from the application of technology already in use. A case in point: a central control system of computers which are linked to micro-processors in each building. This sensitive equipment monitors temperature, for example, and can turn off or reduce power.

"My experience at Queen's indicates that energy management is most effective when accompanied with hardware rather than a publicity campaign or public appeals," he told the Commission. He added that it shouldn't be accepted as true that use of electricity will inevitably rise with the years, and he recommended that Ontario Hydro take the lead in helping other owners of large buildings to figure out how to save on energy conservation.

Current budget: $63.7 Million

Queen's budget for the 1979-80 academic year will be $63.7 million.

Although a deficit of $350,000 was announced, there are hopes that the sum can be substantially reduced through spending cuts and interest on funds. Last year a projected deficit of $390,000 was reduced almost to nothing by year's end on April 30.

According to Principal Watts, continued high enrolment at Queen's will keep the level of operating funds high. Also, student fee hikes and an increase in Ontario Government funding will give Queen's a raise of 6.1% in operating funds for the coming year.

Political Studies past century mark

The evolution of political studies in Canada and the part played by Queen's over the past century were outlined at a campus dinner on May 2. The occasion was the 102nd 'birthday' of political studies on campus.

Prof. A.R.C. 'Sandy' Duncan, former Dean of Arts and long-time Head of Philosophy, summarized the history of the discipline in Canada, noting that in the beginning politics and philosophy were inextricably linked.

A nationally respected analyst, Dr. J.A. Corry, a former Queen's Principal and former acting Dean of Law, reviewed the University's role. Much of his observation was firsthand: Dr. Corry joined Queen's as Hardy Professor of Political Science in 1936, when there were not more than three or four political scientists in Canada. He was the second full-time instructor in what today would be termed political science, the first being Norman Rogers (1929-35).

For the 1978-79 session at Queen's, the Department included 27 faculty members, headed by Prof. J.A.W. 'Jock' Gunn and including such internationally recognized political pundits as John Meisel, David Easton, Richard Simons and the Principal, Ronald L. Watts.

V-P Hand consulted

Richard J. Hand, Vice-Principal (Resources) and former Dean of Queen's School of Business, has been named to a new consultative group founded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada.

The 12-man group, headed by Dr. Laurent Picard of McGill, is to examine the function and state of research and graduate education in business, management, and administrative studies at Canadian universities. Such an enquiry was recommended in 1975 by the Symons Commission on Canadian Studies. Its goal is to improve scholarship, research, and research-related graduate education in these fields, especially as they reflect nationwide concerns.

Interested alumni are invited to share their views with Vice-Principal Hand.

QUESSI gift to improve Grant Hall

By September, Grant Hall will sound and look better, thanks largely to QUESSI (the Engineering Society Services Inc.). QUESSI has made a gift of $12,500 to the University for three improvements long hoped for by the Performing Arts Office: an intercom system connecting the foyer, stage wings, dressing rooms, and control areas for lighting and sound; an additional lighting control system; and supports for the theatre lights.

Also, unconnected with QUESSI, contractors began repainting the inside of Grant Hall late in May, the first such refurbishing in over a decade.

His Career

1960 — Over the DEW Line with the RCAF. Mr. Wright was invited as former Commanding Officer of Queen's Reserve University Squadron. He recalls that posing with the Eskimo baby cost him two cigarettes.

His Citation

Mr. Chancellor,

By authority of the Senate, I have the honour to present to you, that he may receive at your hands the degree of Master of Arts, honoris causa, member of the Order of the British Empire; outstanding athlete whose exploits on two Grey Cup championship teams are indelibly inscribed in the legendary lore of football at Queen's and in Hamilton; gallant soldier and airman, for 14 years Commanding Officer of Queen's Reserve Squadron; for 23 years Warden of the Students' Memorial Union where successive generations of students came to know his devotion to duty, his skill in administration and the civilizing influence of his courteous personal warmth and lively humour.

James Edward Wright

In so-called retirement he extended his service to Queen's through the office of the Alumni Association.

Over the years his active efforts on behalf of the Corps of Commissioners, the Family and Juvenile Court and the Heart Fund have enhanced a deservedly lustrous reputation for dedication and loyalty in all he undertakes.

Humphrey Stephen Mumford Carver, LL.D.

Born in the English Midlands; educated at Rugby, Oxford, and most formatively at the Architectural Association School of Architecture. Since 1931 his talents have been devoted to Canada as town planner, landscape architect, social activist, educator and public servant.

For 14 years as Chairman of Central Mortgage and Housing's Advisory Group, he pioneered imaginative, practical and sensitive programs in urban renewal and in public housing for low-income Canadians which were reflected in the revised National Housing Act of 1964.

A consistent advocate of wide citizen participation in the shaping of policy, he was a founding father of the Community Planning Association of Canada and of the Canadian Council on Urban and Regional Research.

A prolific author, his book Cities in the Suburbs foreshadowed the social impact of suburbanization in Canada and his widely acclaimed autobiography Compensating Landscape encapsulates in its title the nature of its author and the humane purposes which have directed his distinguished and productive professional life.

Herbert Henri Jasper, D.Sc.

Son of the American northwest, a Montrealeur by location, a Canadian by adoption: a distinguished physician and leader in the field of neurophysiology, whose international reputation and effort helped to reactivate the International Brain Research Organization based in Paris.

Un citoyen consciencieux, he has denied two solitudes in a creative research career deeply rooted in both McGill and the University of Montreal. His pioneering work in research procedures helped to establish Montreal as a world centre for brain research.

Prolific author; inspired teacher of many students now themselves world leaders; a practitioner of the ultimate scientific paradox, he is a brain studying the brain.

Gerald Robert Heffernan, LL.D.

Born in Alberta, educated at the universities of Toronto and British Columbia; metallurgist, Fellow of the American Society of Metals.

As Managing Director of Premier Steel in Edmonton 25 years ago, he introduced to North America the continuous casting of steel on a commercial basis. His later innovative initiatives in technology and management have created Canadian-financed mini-mills in Texas, Minnesota, New Jersey and England, as well as Ontario.

A practical humanist who has devised and implemented highly successful profit-sharing incentive programs for employees, he has demonstrated a warm interest in the education and development of young people to whom he offers a sterling example of creative enterprise in action.

Alain Connes, LL.D.

Born in Draguignan in the southern part of his native France; graduate of the University of Paris; mathematician.

Four years ago, no doubt nourished by the salubrious climate of Jeffery Hall at Queen's, he stunned his peers around the world with an elegant solution to the central problem in the theory of operator algebras. He is an illustrious visitor in our midst, courtesy of an enlightened French Government which agreeably equated 15 months at Queen's with compulsory military service elsewhere.

His honest and generous spirit, his brilliance of intellect and his persistent courage in exploring an abstract and complex world few of us can imagine have inspired and enriched all who have observed him.

Already recognized by the International Mathematical Union and awarded the Prix de l'Academie Française, he is laureated today not only for recent achievements, but also for the inspiration which we all have observed in his prophesy.

Arthur L. Davies
June 2

Arthur Llewellyn Davies, LL.D.

Born in Brantford, Ont.; educated in Renfrew and Toronto; Kingstonian by enthusiastic adoption; journalist, publisher, exemplary citizen: whose leadership placed the Whig-Standard among the best daily newspapers in Canada.

As Trustee of this University and Chairman of its building committee, he helped to cement sure and constructive relationships with the Kingston community. His unstinting service as Chairman and Governor of the Kingston General Hospital and as President of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association is representative of his devotion to this city and the wider Canadian community.

His good humour, modesty, forbearance and good sense, together with the attentive care bestowed upon his multiple responsibilities, have earned him the respect and affection of a grateful citizenry.

The Bear Facts

The lines commenting on the cover of the May-June issue were inadvertently lost from the contents page. The reason for featuring that magnificent polar bear? # Interdisciplinary team building a 'bionic' knee

By Carol Franks, Queen's News

Has anyone stopped to wonder where the Six-Million-Dollar Man will get replacement parts when his leg is torn? The idea is whimsical, of course, since modern science has yet to create a truly bionic man. But what is not so far-fetched is the possibility of rebuilding joints, such as the knee, with artificial materials.

Two Queen's researchers, Dr. Philip Lowe, a biomedical engineer, and Prof. Henk Wevers, a mechanical engineer, are attempting to define better the living, or in vivo, properties of the knee parts — ligaments, cartilage — in order to match natural tissue with existing artificial materials. The Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada recently awarded them $75,000 to continue their work over three years.

When they have mimicked the real tissue of the knee parts, surgeons will use these artificial spare parts to reconstruct damaged or diseased joints. A significant advantage of this rebuilding rather than implanting an entire joint is the time factor. "Reconstructive surgery can be done much earlier — before the knee is completely destroyed by disease," points out Prof. Wevers. At present, artificial joints are seldom implanted until the final stages of knee deterioration.

Both researchers are quick to point out that existing artificial knees are very successful. However, long-term problems can occur, particularly among young, active people, because the totally artificial joints do not absorb shock. The artificial replacement parts being perfected at Queen's, though, will have such vital properties as shock absorption.

Since the quantity of man-made material used in reconstructive surgery is considerably less than in joint implants, Prof. Wevers thinks that the rebuilt knee should give the patients "many more worry-free miles".

"The combination of the natural tissue with the artificial should result in a better-functioning knee, particularly if a lot of strain is involved," he adds.

Once they have more experience with the living properties of the knee, they are looking forward to better understanding the hip, shoulder and elbow joints, as well.

Add One Analyser

To study the mechanics of the knee — ligament elasticity, for instance — Dr. Lowe, Prof. Wevers and a third Queen's researcher, orthopedic surgeon Dr. Derek Cooke, rely on a rough-and-ready contraption called the knee analyser.

Designed and built in 1973 by Dr. Lowe, this experimental machine is capable of testing the internal structures of the knee as they function within a living joint. But it is soon to be replaced. Queen's has received a grant of $23,000 from the federal Ministry of Health and Welfare to cover the cost of an improved computerized analyser with wider capabilities, greater speed, less awkwardness for clinicians, and greater comfort for patients.

Currently Dr. Lowe's device is used two days a week for diagnostic purposes in a special clinic conducted by Dr. Cooke at KGH. The analyser works this way: The patient's thigh is held secure and the knee bent sideways by moving the ankle from side to side; in bending the knee sideways, the two collateral ligaments (which are often injured in sporting accidents or damaged by arthritis) stretch to prevent the knee from slipping out of joint. From this exercise, researchers can measure not only the force required to bend the knee and the angle through which the knee rotates, but also the relation between the force and the ligament resistance.

'Computerized' Knees

Drs. Cooke and Lowe, along with surgeons Charles Sorbie and M.A. Simurda and Grenville Letts of Rehabilitation Medicine, have a third grant of $24,000, this one from the Physicians' Services Inc. Foundation. They will use a computer to record the progress of patients who have undergone arthritic knee surgery.

"A patient's condition will be detailed before the operation, immediately after, and at regular intervals," explains Dr. Cooke. From this information, researchers and clinicians will be able to compare quickly the progress or deterioration of patients' knees.

Prof. H. Wevers

Dr. D. Cooke

This knee analyser was designed by Dr. Philip Lowe of Queen's Biomedical Engineering Unit. The patient's thigh is clamped and the knee rotated by moving the ankle from side to side so that both force and angle can be measured. The federal government is supporting its improvement.

About you, Queen's Review and Canada Post

As you opened this July-August issue of the Review, it must have struck you that it was in a tabloid format and not the magazine you are accustomed to receiving from Queen's. The reasons: shrinking budgets, higher postage and lack of advertising revenue from a summer issue.

Have you ever wondered what the Review costs? If you're a Canadian alumnus receiving six issues, it costs Queen's $1.80 per year (excluding salaries and overhead). For American readers, the cost is $2.58, and for overseas grads $3.48. Most universities with alumni publications have dropped their summer issue or gone quarterly. Some no longer mail to foreign alumni. Others have gone back to charging a subscription fee. Your Board of Directors was reluctant to reduce the 'family ties' in such ways. (Imagine a four-month accumulation of about 23 pages of personal notes!)

However, the Alumni Office was dealt a severe blow by those substantial hikes in mailing rates last April 1st — after the annual 1979-80 budget had been struck, cut back 4% at the University's request, and finally approved. The Review is directly and drastically affected by postal increases.

Between May 1979 and April 1980, a total of 229,800 Reviews will be printed and mailed. Cost of producing each copy now runs at about 16¢ in Canada, the mailing cost is 11¢ for each address (third-class bulk rate of 3¢ per magazine plus 51.2¢ per lb.). Mailing to addresses in the U.S.A. now costs 24¢ per magazine and to foreign addresses, 39¢ per magazine. In all cases, add 3¢ for handling. At these prices, this one postal increase would cost us about $6,700 for six magazine issues. The savings made possible in both printing and mailing by this switch to a tabloid Review for July-August will help the Alumni Office recoup most of that 'surprise postal penalty'.

Several other attempts are being made to live within budget limitations and yet maintain the continuity of our communications between Queen's and her graduates and among alumni: lighter newsprint, computerized mailing codes, inter-university co-operation to save on colour printing and increase advertising revenue, etc. Your Directors trust that none of these economies will be as visible to alumni as this change in the summer Review.

REUNION '79 IS OCTOBER 19-21

Meet old classmates. Make new Queen's friends. Tour the old-but-new campus. Help Medicine celebrate its 125th Anniversary. Attend the Principal's Reception and meet the Micheners.

On Saturday, come for breakfast and stay for the Pop Rally. Join the parade to Richardson Stadium and cheer on the Gaels against McGill.

Spend Saturday evening dining and dancing and have Padre Laverly bless you on Sunday morning.

At the Branches

Prof. H.R.S. Ryan, Q.C., one of Queen's most distinguished professors of Law, received the degree of D.S.Litt from Trinity College, University of Toronto, in May. Dr. Ryan was also named the first lay Canon of the Anglican Diocese of Ontario in May.

His colleague, Prof. William R. Lederman, Q.C., received his fourth honorary degree on June 8 from York University's Osgoode Hall Law School. Dalhousie honoured him last year, the University of Victoria in 1976, and Saskatchewan in 1967. Dr. Lederman came to Queen's in 1958 as Dean of the Faculty of Law. He held the post for 10 years before returning to full-time teaching and research.

Dr. E. Harry Botterell, retired Vice-Principal (Health Sciences), has received another major honour, only months after his investiture in the Order of Canada. On May 28 he received an LL.D. from Dalhousie (he holds two others — Queen's and McGill) for his significant contributions to medical education and neurosurgery.

At Convocation on June 2, Principle Watts congratulated two other Queen's professors being honoured at sister universities. Prof. A.R.C. 'Sandy' Duncan, Head of Philosophy, was laureated by Lakehead University. Dr. George Whalley, Professor of English, long-time head of the department, and renowned for his research on the poet Coleridge, received an LL.D. from the University of Saskatchewan.

Scholars' First Choice

According to the University Application Centre on Admissions (which processes all applications to universities in Ontario), Queen's admitted the highest percentage of Ontario scholars in 1978.

Also, first-choice applications for admission to Queen's from Ontario secondary schools are up by 3.5% for 1979-80. The figures reveal a substantial variation among faculties, but show a specific drift towards the professional faculties.

Dean Gordon Goes West

Dr. John R.M. Gordon, Dean of the School of Business, visited with Queen's alumni in Saskatoon and Winnipeg as part of a western trip to participate in the annual meeting.

In Saskatoon, the hosts for the Dean's reception on May 29 were Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Duerkop. The following evening, in Winnipeg, Dr. and Mrs. G.H. Lawler held a similar reception at their home. Both events were also attended by Murray Gill, Director of Alumni Affairs.

A Tree at Ban Righ

For the second successive year, the Kingston Award has taken the form of a maple tree to be planted on the front lawn of the Ban Righ Foundation for Continuing University Education at 32 Queen's Crescent. Both represent the highest honour of the Kingston Branch. The 1978 Award went to Gordon Eligh. Com.'39. This year's award (May 11) went to Margaret Gibson, Arts'47, Past President of the national Alumnae Association. She was cited for her community and church service plus her constant support of the University — particularly for projects involving women students and graduates.

Young Woman Athlete Wins Branch Prize

Sheryl Keely of Kingston was given the 1979 prize of the Kingston Branch, which is to become an annual presentation to a student in Physical and Health Education "for scholastic achievement and effective participation in athletics." Sheryl was a member of the 1978-79 Intercollegiate Curling Team and also received the academic medal for her School at Spring Convocation.

Enthusiastic Plans for Oakville-Mississauga

Marking their first formal — and socially successful — year as a Branch with a dinner meeting and elections on May 3, Queen's Oakville-Mississauga alumni have already drawn up a tentative schedule of four events for 1979-80: a wine and cheese party in September, a casino night in November, a brunch next February, and an annual dinner meeting (with possibly a dance) in April.

The Marathon Bridge Club will start again in the autumn. Couples interested in joining should call Glenna Lorimer, 844-9505, before Sept. 15. The 10 couples who participated this year were able to make a welcome contribution to the Alumni Fund and had a wind-up party on June 2 at the home of Marg Fowler.

J.D. 'Jack' Smith passed the gavel to new Branch President Archie Johnson, who represented Oakville-Mississauga at the semi-annual meeting of the Alumni Board of Directors on campus May 11. Others on the new executive are Helen Munro, Vice-President; David Clark, Treasurer; Elizabeth Abel, Secretary; and Glenna Lorimer and Donna Douglas as Directors.

Soccer Whitecaps Make Waves

Miss Canada, Andrea Eng, was one of the attractions that made Vancouver's luncheon on May 15 the most popular event of the Branch year. Billed as "Meet the Vancouver Whitecaps", the luncheon also included as special guests the Whitecaps coach, Tony Walters, manager John Best, Buzz Parsons, and "some of the hot new imports in the Whitecaps' lineup." Lunch was at Eddie's Place in the Board of Trade Building.

Forty more Queen's doctors awarded Fellowships in Royal College

The Queen's Review congratulates the following alumni who successfully completed the 1978 examinations of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. Since 1931 the Royal College has been the body charged with examining and certifying physicians in Canada who have completed specialty training — usually involving about five years of postgraduate study. These examinations are highly competitive and internationally recognized as setting very high standards.

14 YEARS AGO THIS MAN BOUGHT HIS VOLVO BECAUSE IT WAS ADVERTISED AS THE 11 YEAR CAR.

14 years ago, Marcel Follens, a tobacco farmer from Delhi, Ontario acquired a valuable piece of machinery. This 1966 Volvo.

He bought it because ads of the time said Volvos were so durable they lasted an average of 11 years in Sweden.

"The car I owned at the time was nowhere near 11 years old and it was already falling apart," Mr. Follens recalls. "Trading it in for my Volvo was one of the smartest things I ever did. I've driven this car a total of 146,000 miles, much of it through my fields on short, dusty runs. Yet, when I take it out on the expressway it still has the power to pass just like it used to. After 14 years, I feel this Volvo and I still have a future together."

It doesn't take 14 years to love a Volvo. Statistics show that 9 out of 10 people who buy new Volvos are happy too.

So if you're unhappy with your current car, do what Mr. Follens did after reading one of our VOLVO ads. Buy one of our cars. A car you can believe in.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

To All Queen's Graduates and Benefactors:

The Constitution of Queen's University gives to graduates and benefactors the right to select candidates for election to the Board of Trustees. Your nomination is invited, and the procedure is outlined below.

Election to the Board of Trustees by Graduates

Graduates may nominate two candidates for election to the Board of Trustees for a four-year term to succeed Mrs. Mary Collins, B.A. '61, Calgary, and Mr. N.M. Rogers, B.A. '43, Q.C., whose terms of office expire on April 30, 1980. Mr. Rogers is ineligible for re-election by the Graduates under the guidelines for Board membership. Mrs. Collins is eligible for re-election.

Please do not nominate present members of the Board (other than Mrs. Collins), members of the University staff, or any candidate who will be over the age of 68 by May 1980.

Candidates must be nominated in writing by five or more graduates. The nominations must be signed and received by the Secretary of the University by November 15, 1979.

Election to the Board of Trustees by Benefactors

Benefactors who have contributed $100 or more to the University may nominate:

- a) One Trustee to serve until April 30, 1983, to succeed Mr. H.S. Ladd, B.Eng., Montreal, Quebec. Mr. Ladd is ineligible for re-election.
- b) One Trustee to serve until April 30, 1984, to succeed Mr. D.B. Annan, B.Sc. '40, Downsview. Mr. Annan is eligible for re-election.

Please do not nominate present members of the Board (other than Mr. Annan), members of the University staff or any candidate who will be over the age of 68 by May, 1980.

Candidates must be nominated in writing by five or more benefactors. The nominations must be signed and received by the Secretary of the University by November 15, 1979.

Choral Ensemble Tours Europe

by Neil Langley, Arts '79

Fifty members of the Queen's University Choral Ensemble completed a highly successful European concert tour in May 1978, presenting a diverse program to varied audiences in Holland, Germany, Austria, and Hungary over a period of three weeks. The tour was financed by campus groups, the U.S. Friends of Queen's, and by members of the choir themselves. Some of the highlights are described in the following account written by one of the choristers.

The first performance was participation in the simple, moving Liberation Day ceremony in Bergen, marking the 33rd anniversary of Dutch liberation, in which Canadians played an important role. The choir joined citizens in a long procession through the town to the outlying War Cemetery, contributing Purcell's Remember Not Lord Our Offences and Bruckner's Lotus Iste to the late afternoon prayers and wreath laying. Our Bergen hosts not only billeted us all in their homes but also showed us the beautiful Dutch countryside, treated us to a dinner and a dance with a Dixieland band. Our concert the following day in the Petrus en Pauluskerk featured Haydn's Salve Regina, with organ and soloists, songs by the Bergen Singers, and the Ensemble singing Canadian folk and Negro spirituals. The audience's standing ovation highlighted the warmth we felt for our Dutch friends. We left early the next day wondering how anything could compare with such hospitality and friendship.

The group travelled west and were guests of two more Dutch choirs. Upon arrival in Amersfoort our hosts assembled to sing us a song, first in Dutch, then in English especially arranged for the occasion — finishing "Be our friends for all time, not only for this time, but for ever, ever more." The concert during our one-day visit was performed before a small group in a converted barn surrounded by fields. In both Amersfoort and Hardenberg the Ensemble was received by the Bergermeister in the City Hall; we were welcomed, we sang, and we exchanged greetings from Kingston's mayor. We finished our week in Holland in Hardenberg, singing a combined concert with the choir Zevenmaal in a town kerk.

Our group of fifty had various billeting experiences in each Dutch town, some staying on farms, others with single people, most with families in town. When we reassembled for travel on our coach, which carried us for the three weeks under the precise German competence of our driver and companion Fritz, we exchanged stories of all-night jam sessions, long family meals, special excursions, and much-needed rest. Through the families we saw how the Dutch live, from those leading lives similar to ours to the more traditional, local family life in Hardenberg, and from the prevalence of soft-boiled eggs to the challenge of trying to communicate with someone who speaks no English.

Dutch is a foreign language to most Canadians, and certainly it was to us. Many of our hosts spoke some English, but many didn't and we were all aware of language. Sometimes we laughed, as when a host read a list of "who will sleep with who;" sometimes we shrugged; frequently we well understood, as when a letter began, "This present is meant as a symbol, so as we feel we are connected with you." The bond of our music gave us all something in common and after a concert you could hear and see the exchange of language in faces, thumbs up, and warm handshakes. On our last night in Holland we had a social evening with hosts and their families. Among other entertainment, the Ensemble president, Mark Raymond, with slight assistance, delivered a prepared speech of thanks which we couldn't understand. Our Dutch friends said his pronunciation was excellent.

As musicians, our first week was full of challenges. We sang four times, once outdoors, then in a large, resonant church, in a small room, and a cave-like structure, then in another church, sometimes with a piano, or organ, or neither. Frequently without a chance to rehearse, we had to adapt to a space and different accompanying instruments while we performed, as we did throughout the tour. Concerts on consecutive nights proved to be tiring, with activities during the day with our hosts. Along with these many variables, it was necessary to vary our style from the contained intensity of a capella motets to strong, rich choral sound for Salve Regina, and from precise, closely tuned singing for the Canadian folk songs to the controlled yet freely flowing spirituals. These are a test for any group, and the Ensemble did well, learning from mistakes, and performing with consistently good quality.

Germany was a different country and experience. We had a rest from the constant flow of concerts and billeting, however enjoyable that had been. A unique aspect of a travelling group of singers is that we could make music anywhere, five or fifty of us. In Cologne Cathedral, a soaring masterpiece of Gothic architecture, our three songs filled the building and us. We spent a luxurious day on the

Rock Cantata

The Queen's Choral Ensemble's recent performance in Grant Hall of Porter and Bobrowitz's rock cantata The Creation has been produced as a short LP by Fantasy Sounds of Toronto and is now on sale for $2.50.

The 120-member choir has gained international recognition under the direction of Prof. Denise Narcisse-Mair and during the past two years has competed at the Festival of Nations in Washington, D.C., and has taken a European tour, described in the accompanying article.

The record may be obtained on application to Mrs. Corinne Allan, Queen's Quest, 162 University Avenue, Kingston, Ontario, K7L 3P2. Proceeds are earmarked for library support, one of the six areas of special need for which Queen's Quest is raising $10,000,000 for the University from private sources.

Rhine, sailing up the grand river valley of vineyards and extraordinary castles. Through Germany we moved into hillier terrain and spent four days in and around Saarbrücken, guests of the University of the Saarland chorus, whose chamber group had been the Ensemble's guests in Kingston the previous year. We sang one concert at the University and another with children's, men's, and mixed choirs. Here we couldn't help but be aware of how much a part of so many Europeans' lives choral singing is. The children sang with energy and precision, the men with the strength and accuracy for which they are known. Most of the chorus stayed outside Saarbrücken at a comfortable "resort", where we rested, some recovering health and voice. The night before we left for Heidelberg, we showed to each other at a variety show that we could do more than just sing. After a day and night in Heidelberg, eating and seeing the remarkable castle and other sights, we proceeded to Augsburg where we sang a concert for recording by Bavarian Radio. Again we had a short stay, made vivid by the kind hospitality of a city judge, Dr. Weidmann, and his son and daughter.

The last section of our tour was divided between two grand cities of Europe: Vienna and Budapest. Visiting through Munich and driving near the mighty Alps, we arrived in such a musical city as Vienna quite excited. Our residence was a former estate, Neuwaldegg, and appropriate to the city's grandeur. The Ensemble presented a sidewalk concert at noon near St. Stephen's Cathedral, was led on a tour of parts of the city, and sang Mozart's Coronation Mass in a small, beautiful baroque Catholic church near the Schonbrunn Palace. Another day we explored on our own and rested, gathering to present a formal concert in Wolkersdorf, a nearby town. In Vienna we enjoyed the generous patronage of Leo Lerner, an important citizen of the city and its impressive musical tradition.

From the almost intimidating extent of Vienna and its heritage, we travelled to a country strange to most of us. Hungary, for whatever reasons, is a nation differently oriented than Western European countries, and we were particularly aware of its comparative backwardness, the low price of most items, and the different character of its people and land. In Budapest, we were relieved to find we could walk the streets after dark and reacted variously to the once — and still in its way — majestic city built along both sides of the great Danube. Our three-day visit arranged through the kind efforts of Prof. I. Anhalt of the Queen's Music Department, found us touring the city, visiting a Kodaly music class, eating veal dinners, and hearing a concert at the famed Franz Liszt Academy, where we ourselves performed.

To perform to highest potential throughout a three-week tour is difficult, if not impossible. We almost always performed well, sometimes outstandingly, but we also learned how demanding such singing is and how much it requires. In Budapest, everything came together. We were able to rest during the two days before the concert as well as musically polish where needed. On the evening of May 22nd, just over three weeks since our departing concert in Kingston's City Hall the Ensemble presented its last performance to the discerning Academy audience. By concert time we were nervous with adrenalin high, eager to make the last time together our best for us and our listeners. As we relaxed into our repertoire, we all felt the excitement of exact tuning and focused precision. In the ideal of choral singing, everyone in the group sang, pulsed, in tune and confidence with each other and our director. Victoria's O Magnum Mysterium and Lauda Sion seemed perfect. Following two Bruckner motets and Willan's Hodie, the Academy chamber group offered several songs and the Ensemble's Robert Hanks and Peter Blanchet sang the arias they had successfully performed throughout the tour. To those unaccustomed to them, the chorally arranged Canadian folk songs are different and moving. All our audiences, especially this one, were impressed with the distinctiveness of the two haunting Eskimo chants, the frolicking French-Canadian Danse, Mon Moin, Danse, and the two beautiful Maritime songs, revealing a little-known diversity of Canada's cultural heritage. Our listeners must have known a few Negro spirituals, and they were eager for more. The Ensemble grew to love these spirituals, and we proudly, with concentrated ease, rolled through Elijah Rock. The audience stamped for more and we gave Like a Chariot as encore. Off-stage, our excitement overflowed.

On the flight next day to Amsterdam and Toronto, we were full of group experiences, like the one we could not forget from the night before, and things which had happened to us together and alone, vivid scenes, special friends. We arrived in Canada full of a tour we would not forget.

From the Student Point of View

Richard Binhammer

President of the Alma Mater Society

With the return of Queen's students to Kingston, the Alma Mater Society swings into high gear. We hope that orientation did not upset too many local residents and we now begin new attempts to improve our relations with the community. The fall also brings social events and good times as old and new friends are met.

One of the things that will affect students the most will be the government's announcements concerning the funding of universities. Over the past few years, these announcements have had a clear message, that of restraint. Originally this policy of restraint helped trim the fat out of our system of education, it made the universities move towards conservation and efficiency. That has been accomplished, and the policy of restraint now affects the quality of education and services provided by universities. Class sizes are growing, salaries of staff and faculty are affected, as are the number of courses offered, the purchasing power of the Library, etc. The result is that the post-secondary educational institutions in this province are hurting.

A quality university education is vital for the development of our society. The ability to solve the problems of the future, and create the leaders for tomorrow, depends on adequate educational opportunities and programs for all who are qualified. If the present trends are continued, the future leaders will be limited, and society's abilities will be minimized. Both individuals and society as a whole will suffer in the end.

We hope you find this as disconcerting as we do, and therefore follow up this article with some form of action. We will provide you with any further information you may need. You can help us by stressing to the public, and government representatives, the plight of the university system both in Ontario and Canada. We hope you will do this.

Thank you for your help. See you again next issue.

Distinguished Service Awards

At the 104th session of the University Council, May 31 - June 1, four awards for "distinguished service to Queen's University" were made to the members of the Queen's family cited below. Mr. Lemmon received his award in absentia but the other winners were presented by Principal Watts to Chancellor Michener at the Council's annual dinner. Each received a citation bound in embossed leather plus life membership in the University Council.

(Nominations for the annual Distinguished Service Award are invited from alumni through the November-December edition of the Queen's Review.)

Clifford Brown

The University Council honours Clifford Brown, who has served Queen's for four decades in the unique capacity of skilled welder, effective and good-humoured teacher of generations of students, assembler of weird and wondrous researchers' rigs, master of preventive maintenance and 'Mr. Fix It' in the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

From 1939 until his retirement in 1977, he taught thousands of Engineering students the skills of joining metals, and using machine tools.

Himself bonded to Queen's by long devotion, possessed of a pleasing personality and co-operative nature, he enjoys the warm esteem of former students and colleagues.

The University Council is pleased to recognize this master craftsman's singular service to Queen's and Queen's students.

Lawrence G. Greenwood

The University Council honours Lawrence George Greenwood, Executive Vice-President of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce; Canadian banking and business adviser of high repute, Trustee, benefactor, and friend-in-need to this University.

Under his national chairmanship, Queen's Capital Program 1970-75 exceeded its ambitious objective of $6.5 million. Going well beyond the call of any presumed duty, he responded again to the historically persistent fund-raising needs of Queen's and now serves on the national executive of Queen's Quest 1978-83. He is a member of Queen's Board of Trustees, Chairman of its Finance Committee and a member of five other committees of the Board — Executive, Nominating, Investment, Audit and the Queen's Fund Council, of which he was the first chairman.

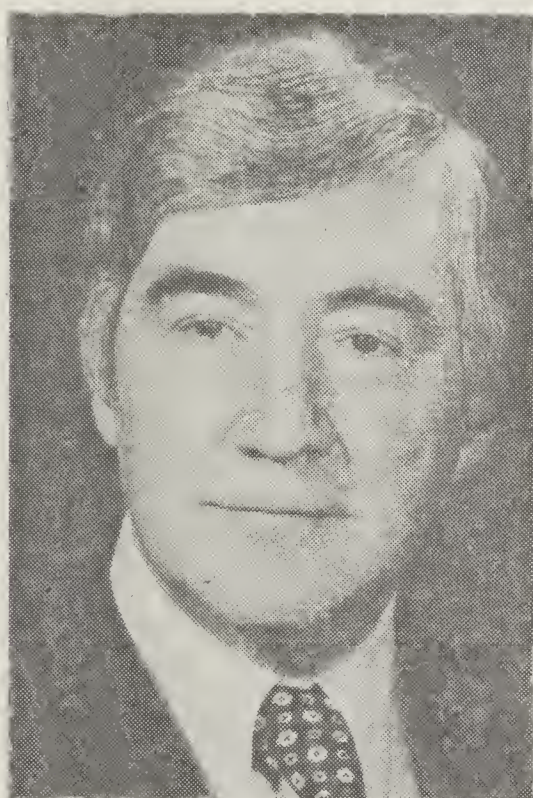

In view of the time and skill demanded of him by other corporate and philanthropic affiliations and the zealous attention and contagious enthusiasm he has simultaneously brought to the needs of Queen's, it is most fitting that his fellow Councillors salute him with this award.

A.H. Lemmon

George A. Harrower

The University Council honours George Alexander Harrower, B.Sc., M.Sc., Ph.D., President of Lakehead University, who for 22 years contributed to Queen's his considerable talents as physicist, professor, analyst of teaching and learning, and administrator with foresight and flexibility.

He came to Queen's as a specialist in physical electronics and laid the foundation for this University's strength in the discipline of radio astronomy. He became Dean of Faculty of Arts and Science in a period of difficult and rapid expansion marked by substantial changes in curriculum, organization and space requirements. As a Vice-Principal he contributed significantly to those policies which opened University government to the further participation of faculty members and students.

His many learned publications, his representation of Canada at international conferences, and his development of notable radio astronomers, through graduate studies, have all reflected distinction on Queen's. The Council is pleased to acknowledge the depth and diversity of his contributions.

A. Hazlett Lemmon

The University honours Allan Hazlett Lemmon, B.A. A native of Kingston and graduate of Queen's, with the gold medal in mathematics and an abundant talent for leadership, he became Chairman of the Board of The Canada Life Assurance Company, with directorships in a dozen other corporations.

Despite the demands of his international career, he has always found time to serve his church, his adopted city of Toronto and especially his alma mater.

A member of the Board of Trustees of the University for 16 years and Chairman of its Investment Committee since 1960, he has helped guide Queen's finances securely through two decades of external economic ebb and flow.

This award pays tribute to his unswerving loyalty and unflagging devotion to Queen's progress and welfare.

Education for Jobs or Education for Life?

After the presentation of the Distinguished Service Awards, Dr. James M. Ham, President of the University of Toronto, gave the key-note address on "The importance of liberal education for the individual and society."

His presentation provided a basis for the theme of the discussions by the workshops the following day on "Education for Jobs or Education for Life?" The panel for the workshops consisted of Douglas B. Annan, Vice-President (Operations), de Havilland Aircraft of Canada; Mrs. Freda Paltiel, Senior Advisor, Status of Women, Department of Health and Welfare in Ottawa; Dr. Richard Brown, Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering and Associate Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science; and Dr. Daniel Norman, Associate Professor of Mathematics, and Chairman of the Planning Committee for the workshop sessions.

The workshop chairmen were B.V. Batchelor, R. Cattanach, H.B. Dinsdale, Pat Douglas-Murray, H.V. Fullerton, K. McSweeney, J.A. Neuchterlein, and Dr. W.J. Troup. At the conclusion of the day's deliberations Mr. Terry McKibbin, recently retired as Clerk-Comptroller of the City of Kingston, summarized the findings of the various workshops.

Out of the various suggestions introduced for purposes of discussion developed a resolution: "That the Council of Queen's University, bearing in mind the University's national role in providing a liberal education and applauding the efforts already made by the University to improve French studies; firstly, recommend to the University that it urge the Ontario Government to reconsider its decision of the 1960's to drop compulsory categories of study for entrance into university; secondly, urge that the University consider the introduction of a second language as one of the core subjects as part of an overall curriculum review; thirdly, urge that a basic knowledge of French be considered a prerequisite for graduation from Social Science and Humanities Departments where considered appropriate by University authorities."

Elected by the Council as representatives on the Board of Trustees were Bruce B. Alexander and Patricia Douglas-Murray.

"Elective freedom for students to choose what subjects they will, when unencumbered by requirements for coherence and continuity leading to mastery within at least one perspective of human understanding, has in fact created the freedom to remain ignorant."

Rev. Dr. Edmund Roche, a distinguished educator of the Roman Catholic Church, received an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity at the Convocation of the Queen's Theological College on May 10. He is shown, left, with Chancellor Roland Michener. Dr. Roche delivered the Convocation Address, speaking on "Ministry in an Age of Change," following which testamurs were presented to 18 graduates.

At the five University Convocations, honorary degrees were presented, as noted in the July-August REVIEW, to: H.S.M. Carver, public servant and author; Alain Connes, mathematician; A.L. Davies, journalist, publisher and author; G.R. Heffernan, metallurgist; H.H. Jasper, physician; and J.E. Wright, long-time Warden of the Students' Memorial Union. A total of 2,663 degrees were granted in the five convocation ceremonies.

Annual Alumni Fund

Queen's Quest 1978/79 Progress

At its March meeting the Alumni Fund Committee was pleased to note the strong support our alumni were giving to both the Annual Alumni Fund and the Alumni Division of Queen's Quest. At year end the Alumni Fund reached 96% of last year's record. Total alumni giving from all sources was significantly higher than in 1977/78. On behalf of Queen's, sincere thanks to all donors and to the many volunteers who worked hard to ensure the success of our Fund programs.

To meet our commitment to Queen's Quest by 1983 we are counting on every alumnus to seriously consider supporting the Annual Fund. The need has been made clear elsewhere on this page by Eric Jorgensen, Chairman of the Alumni Division, Queen's Quest. To date the signs are favorable. Early response to the 1979/80 Fund which began may 1, indicates increasing participation and we anticipate another good year. To maintain this momentum the majority of our alumni will receive further word about the University and our Fund programs in September and November from classmates. From January to April 1980, to wind up the Fund year, we will be seeking volunteers to help with our Fund Telethon program.

The key to our success will be a steadily growing Annual Alumni Fund. Please join us in our efforts to achieve this goal by ensuring that your name is on our list of contributors for 1979/80.

GEORGE M. PIKE, Sc. '61
Chairman, Alumni Fund Committee

Alumni Division Progress

In July 1978 we reported that $783,000 had been received in gifts or pledges to the Alumni Division of Queen's Quest. During the past year this figure has grown to $1,272,500.

As you know, our objective is to provide Queen's with $2,250,000 by 1983. This is a combined five-year goal to be met by gifts to the Annual Alumni Fund and gifts through the Fund to Queen's Quest.

Support from the mail solicitation, the Special Names division and the Telethon program has been excellent. Also very encouraging is the fact that Queen's alumni have maintained the Annual Fund at near its record level of last year.

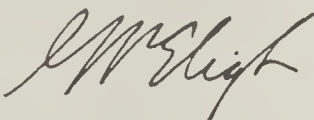

We wish to express a special thank-you to the Alumni Branches and volunteer callers in Kingston, Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver for their invaluable help with the Telethons from October 1978 to March 1979. Their efforts added $115,000 to the year-long Queen's Quest Telethon program which produced a total of $197,000 in alumni gifts and/or pledges.

Over the next 3½ years $977,500 is needed to ensure success. This must come from payments on Queen's Quest pledges and annual contributions to the Alumni Fund.

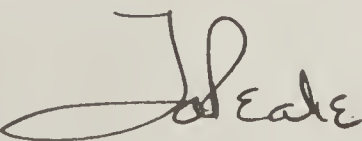

Queen's alumni possess a long-established and enviable record of strong support for the University. We have every confidence that the challenge will be met.

Ups and Downs 1978 - 79

- The Annual Alumni Fund decreased this year by $10,700.
- The cash flow to Queen's Quest from 2915 alumni totalled $485,000.
- Gifts to the Annual Fund decreased by 900.
- 243 alumni made special gifts to Queen's for various programs and needs - $316,400.
- 615 Class Agents are now communicating with 30,000 classmates.
- Membership renewals in the Cha Gheill Society program reached 91.1%.
- Membership in the Regular Annual Donors Group (RAD's) increased by 75 to more than 1600.
- Total alumni giving to Queen's in 1978/79 was $242,000 more than in 1977/78.
- 508 gifts from non-alumni friends provided Queen's with an additional $107,490.

Around the Campus

Statement issued on freedom to read

The University Senate has passed a resolution protecting the freedom to read.

Worried about the growing movement to repress literature in some parts of the province, the academic body voted to resist — through legal proceedings if necessary — any attempts to suppress or restrict the availability of particular books or periodicals on campus because of their viewpoint. The following statement on freedom of information and expression was approved:

"Universities are interested in universal knowledge, including all religious, philosophical and political viewpoints, in all languages and cultures.

"Queen's University endorses and supports the Canadian Bill of Rights, which includes the right of access of every person to all expressions of knowledge, and the right to express thoughts publicly. Such intellectual freedom is basic to the proper functioning of the University and to the healthy development of Canadian society of which it is a part.

"Queen's University also subscribes to the Statement on Intellectual Freedom of the Canadian Library Association, and applies this freedom of access to information statement in particular to the libraries and the various bookstores on campus. This University believes that the freedom to read is as essential to the democratic way of life as is freedom of speech and freedom of the press, and will resist by due process of law all attempts to suppress or restrict the availability of particular books and periodicals on this campus because of the viewpoint they represent."

Chancellor receives Freedom Award

The Rt. Hon. Roland Michener, Chancellor of Queen's, was recently named recipient of the 1979 International Freedom Festival Award.

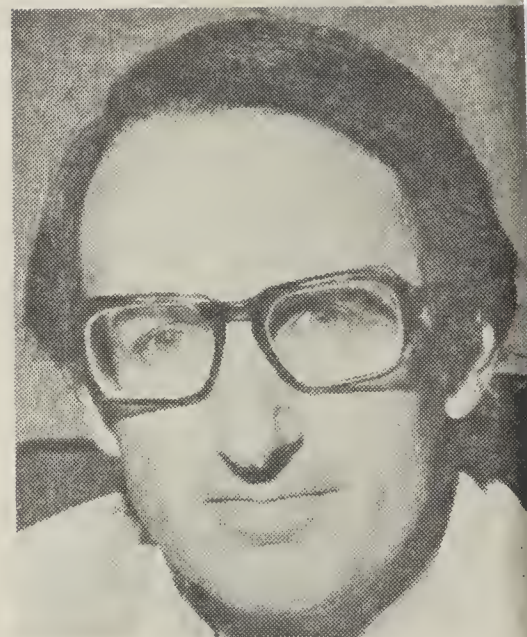

The award is presented annually for outstanding contributions to the cause of freedom and peace or for efforts to increase international friendship and co-operation.

Previous winners are former prime ministers John Diefenbaker and Lester Pearson, former U.S. presidents John F. Kennedy and Gerald Ford, and the family of hockey player Gordie Howe. The award is given in alternate years to a Canadian and an American.

Art students win

The Department of Art won all four prizes in the printmaking section of the student art exhibitions in Toronto sponsored by the Head Office of the Royal Bank, the first time there has been a clean sweep by one school. Queen's has won prizes both previous times she has participated: first prize for sculpture, third prize for painting.

The Royal Bank sponsors 12 exhibitions a year, open to students at 27 Canadian universities, colleges and independent art schools.

Dr. S. R. Caradus appointed a chaplain

A member of the Department of Mathematics and Statistics since 1964, Dr. Selwyn R. Caradus has been named Anglican Chaplain at Queen's. The appointment is effective September, 1979.

Dr. Caradus' time will be split between his duties as chaplain for the University's 1400 Anglican students and his Department. He will carry a reduced teaching load in order to fulfill his chaplaincy responsibilities. An active member of St. George's Anglican Church, Dr. Caradus is a chorister, vestry council member, and chairman of the church's education committee.

He has completed a Master of Theological Studies at Queen's and will be eligible for ordination. Afterwards he plans to continue as part-time teacher and part-time Anglican chaplain.

Dr. Caradus will have his office in the Grey House on Queen's Crescent along with chaplains of three other denominations: Christian Reformed, Lutheran, and Roman Catholic.

History of Medical School published to mark 125th anniversary

In celebration of the 125th Anniversary of the Medical School a history of the institution has been written by Dr. A.A. Travill, Professor of Anatomy. The brochure has been distributed to Medical alumni, members of staff, and friends of the Faculty.

Dr. Travill outlines the vicissitudes of the Medical School from the time it opened its doors in 1854 in rented quarters on lower Princess St. down to the present day when the pride of the campus is the new 9-storey Botterell Hall for medical sciences, with its beautiful bi-level Bracken Library, the country's most modern, and the sumptuous quarters of the Hannah Chair of the History of Medicine. It is an inspiring story of success in the face of fearsome odds.

The 125th Anniversary will also be marked by an international symposium and the official opening of Botterell Hall on the weekend of October 19, concurrent with Reunion '79. The theme of the symposium is 2004 – Medicine in the 21st Century: A Forward Look from Queen's. Participants include local and visiting medical and other authorities. The proceedings will be preserved on paper and videotape so that the predictions can be appraised in 2004.

The new medical sciences building, named in honour of Dr. E.H. Botterell, Professor of Neurosurgery, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine 1962-70, and Vice-Principal (Health Sciences) 1968-

71, will be officially opened on Friday, October 19. Participating in the dedication ceremonies will be the Rt. Hon. Roland Michener, Chancellor; Dr. R.L. Watts, Principal and Vice-Chancellor; and the Hon. William C. Davis, Premier of Ontario, and other dignitaries.

Instructional Development aided by grant

The Queen's University Counselling Service has received a grant from the Senate Committee on Teaching Effectiveness to establish an Instructional Development Program.

The program consists of two projects: 1) the establishment of a resource centre and liaison office to co-ordinate and disseminate information pertaining to instructional development; and 2) the organization of a series of instructional development seminars for graduate students planning academic careers.

The goal of the resource centre is to establish a repository of instructional development materials available on loan, and to create a file of other materials and resource persons available at Queen's and other institutions.

To study Sudbury basin's 'greening' problems

Over the next two years, three members of the Queen's teaching staff will investigate the problems involved in the "greening" of those parts of the Sudbury basin affected by local smelting operations.

With a $75,000 grant from the National Research Council project co-ordinator Dr. Kenyon Rutherford of the geography department, Dr. Wallace Breck of the chemistry department, and Dr. Adele Crowder of the biology department, will spend six of the 24 months in the Sudbury basin.

They will determine the damage done to soil by emissions from smelting operations, and the future possibility of plant growth on areas where tailings or by-products of refining have been dumped.

Van Order Apartments renamed An Clachan

The apartment-style residences at the corner of Van Order Drive and MacPherson Avenue, just to the north of the West Campus and heretofore known as the Van Order Apartments, have been renamed An Clachan, Gaelic for "The Village."

The units were designed for married students with children. They are close to a major shopping centre, schools and churches and there is a bus route to the Main Campus. There are 90 one-bedroom, 10 two-bedroom study, and 160 two-bedroom apartments. A part of the spacious grounds has been set aside as a children's play area and a nursery school is operated in one of the buildings.

Raffle to benefit Queen's Quest

The Queen's University Staff Association will be holding a raffle in the early fall to raise funds for Queen's Quest. The raffle will centre around King Tut, with first prize being a three-day, two-night trip for two to Toronto from Kingston and includes entry to the King Tut exhibit. Second prize is a piece of reproduction jewellery, third prize a "coffee table" book on King Tut, and fourth prize a smaller volume on the same subject.

Tickets will sell for $1 each. The Principal will draw the prize winners on October 31.

Newspaperman awarded St. Laurent Fellowship

Veteran journalist Eugene McCarthy of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record has been awarded a fellowship in legal journalism enabling him to study law for a year at Queen's.

Recipients of the Louis St. Laurent Fellowship receive transportation and book expenses, tuition, and a salary equivalent to their last job — up to $18,000 per annum. The award is funded by

V.S. Ready

V.S. Ready appointed executive assistant

Prof. Vernon S. Ready of the Faculty of Education, and Dean from its inception in 1966 until 1977, has been appointed the Executive Assistant to the Principal, Dr. R.L. Watts, for the period August 1, 1979 to July 31, 1980. Professor Ready will also retain his academic responsibilities in the Faculty of Education, but on a reduced basis.

Prof. P.B. Buchan, who has been Executive Assistant to the Principal since November, 1976, will be returning to the position at the end of his sabbatical leave, August 1, 1980, for a four-year term. He also will maintain his continuing responsibilities in the School of Business.

the Donner Foundation but administered by the Canadian Bar Association.

The purpose of the fellowship is to give experienced journalists an understanding of modern legal issues and familiarity with the judicial system of Canada.

Mr. McCarthy plans to take courses in civil criminal law, family law, and the law of corrections.

News of the Staff

The Department of Energy, Mines and Resources has awarded four Queen's professors research grants totalling $31,300: Dr. Peter N. Calder, professor of mining engineering, $7,000, to evaluate the effect of ground vibrations generated by underground blasting; Dr. Jacques Nantel, assistant professor of mining engineering, $7,800, to study the control of percolation of cemented slurries into large masses of rock fill; Dr. Alan Bauer, professor and head of the Department of Mining Engineering, $10,000, to investigate fragmentation control through blasting; Dr. Ray A. Price, professor of geological sciences, $6,500, to further analyze the large-scale structural evolution of the southeastern Canadian Rockies.

Prestigious Killam Awards from the Canada Council were received by four Queen's researchers for 1979-80. Two were senior research scholarships. They went to Prof. Ray Price, Head of Geological Sciences, for a second year of his work on the evolution of the Southeastern Canadian Cordillera, and to Dr. Norman H. MacKenzie, English Department, for a project on the complete poetical works of Gerard Manley Hopkins.

The two other Queen's awards were research associateships to young scholars. One went to Dr. J.J.A. Holden, Biology, to support the project she calls "The molecular organization and regulation of genes in Drosophila melanogaster." Dr. Frances J. Richmond, Physiology, is working on the organization of muscles and associated sensory receptors surrounding upper cervical vertebrae.

* * *

A research fellowship in "Science English" has been awarded to Prof. M.P. Jordan, Department of Engineering Drawing, by Hatfield Polytechnic in England. The result will be a scholastically based textbook on technical writing.

* * *

Three Queen's science professors are sharing in Imperial Oil's latest research grants to faculty members for research work carried out by students under their direction. All three Queen's winners are professors whose projects received grants initially in 1978: M.C. Baird, Chemistry ($5,000 renewal); D.W. Bacon, Chemical Engineering ($5,200 renewal); and C.K. Rush, Mechanical Engineering ($4,000 renewal).

In all, 87 grants were made to 28 Canadian universities as part of Imperial's continuing program to stimulate research in sciences associated with the oil industry.

Maglev team honoured

Engineers from the National Research Council and three universities — Queen's, McGill and Toronto — have pooled their talents to produce an award-winning document on high-speed guided ground transport.

The Engineering Institute of Canada has awarded the nine-man team the R.A. Ross Medal (1978) for a paper entitled The Canadian High Speed Magnetically Levitated Vehicle System. The Canadian Electrical Engineering Journal published the paper in April. The three Queen's participants in the project were Prof. David Atherton (Physics), Dr. Graham Dawson (Electrical Engineering), and Dr. Anthony R. Eastham of the Canadian Institute of Guided Ground Transport.

Prof. Atherton first assembled this interdisciplinary team in 1971 and continues to lead its investigations into "MAGLEV" for high-speed inter-city transit.

The chairman of the Engineering Institute's awards and honours committee is Dr. J.B. Stirling, himself a distinguished Queen's engineer and Chancellor Emeritus.

Summer project historically important

Prof. W. George Richardson, who teaches a unique course called The History of Engineering in Canada, and a staff of three students, over the summer months searched out and recorded objects, buildings, and locations in Frontenac County that are historically important to the growth of engineering and technology in Canada. The project was financed by a $5,400 Young Canada Works grant and a $1,000 grant from the Faculty of Applied Science.

They mapped, photographed and wrote brief descriptions of mills, lime kilns, brickyards, tanneries, mines with buildings, and barns, all of which were at least 50 years old. In many cases township officials, especially road superintendents and township clerks, were most helpful in providing leads.

Professor Richardson is writing a report for the government on their findings and will recommend the establishment of a long-range program to detail Canada's historical technology. An inventory of Canadian historical buildings with the emphasis on architecture already exists, but as yet there is no inventory of technology.

The Queen's project received substantial co-operation and advice from their counterpart in the United States, the Historical American Engineering Record.

To help produce Historical Atlas

Over the next six years, four Queen's Geography professors will help put Canada on the map. Through a $3.5-million grant from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada scholars from many disciplines in 11 universities will produce a three-volume historical atlas of Canada: pre-1780, 1780-1880 and 1881-1951.

The research team includes

Jane Kaduck

Jane Kaduck named to Alumni Fund post

Jane Kaduck (Elizabeth Jane Sherman), Arts '54, has been appointed Associate Alumni Fund Director. She succeeds Sandra Woods who served in the post from 1976-79. In those three years Sandra made a significant and important contribution to the work of the Alumni Association, most notably in the development of the Class Agent program and the Alumni Fund Telethons.

Mrs. Kaduck will be planning and supervising fund-raising activities within the framework of the Annual Alumni Fund, under the direction of the Alumni Fund Director, E.E. Hurlbut. Her primary responsibilities will centre on the ongoing operation and further development of the Class Agent program. The position also involves liaison with Alumni Branch organizations, student/alumni representatives and Reunion classes.

Queen's professors Henry Castner, Peter Goheen, Brian Osborne and Richard Ruggles, all of whom will also serve on editorial boards set up to scrutinize each volume.

Marty Memorial Scholarship Fund gives assistance to two graduates

Alessandra M.V. Cavaglia has been awarded the Marty Memorial Alumnae Scholarship for 1979, valued at $5,000, and Mary Catherine Collins has received a special grant of $2,000, it was announced at the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association in Ottawa.

Miss Cavaglia, who holds a B.Sc. honours degree (first class) from Queen's is currently studying for her Ph.D. degree at the Medical Research Council Clinical and Population Cytogenetics Unit in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Miss Collins holds a B.Sc. degree from the University of Toronto and a Master of Art Conservation degree from Queen's. She will use the grant to obtain professional training in art conservation and will be working toward this end at the Indianapolis Museum of the Arts.

Plans were announced to raise the capital base for the Marty Memorial from its current $81,500 to $100,000 and women graduates were urged to consider earmarking their contributions to the University for this purpose. The residences also need assistance "from Aunt Aggie's piano" to $5.00 for the Dean of Women's Trust Fund. Another goal for women graduates is the Ban Righ Foundation which is playing a vital role in helping women students in special circumstances.

The Board also unanimously approved a motion calling for the support and strengthening of the Office of the Dean of Women, and heard reports from the Dean of Women, Evelyn Reid, Helen Mathers, Director of the Ban Righ Foundation, Kathy Irving, president of W.R.C., and Pearl Fisher, treasurer. At the luncheon, special guests were Principal and Mrs. R.L. Watts; Dr. Ian Stewart, Deputy Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources, was the guest speaker.

The following slate of officers was approved for 1979-80: past president, Margaret Gibson;

Statlab honours G.L. Edgett, former professor

The Statlab (statistics laboratory) located in Jeffery Hall has been named The G.L. Edgett Statlab in honour of the former Mathematics professor. Dr. Edgett retired in 1969 after teaching at Queen's for 39 years. When he was elected a Fellow of the American Statistical Association in 1963, he was one of the very few Canadians so honoured.

The recommendation to name Statlab for him came from the Faculty of Arts and Science and received warm approval from the Board of Trustees.

The 1979 Reunion of the "Queen's Gang"

The "Queen's Gang", a group of graduates of the Peterborough Normal School in the 30's and of Queen's in the 40's, gathered for their ninth annual reunion at the Beacon Motor Inn near Niagara-on-the-Lake for the weekend of June 8-10.

Friday and Saturday evenings were spent in the Patio Room overlooking the Old Ontario Strand (northern exposure) where annual reminiscences were exchanged.

On Saturday morning, John Field, a fellow graduate and history classmate of John Londerville, conducted the group on a most interesting tour of some of the historic houses of Niagara-on-the-Lake. The tour concluded with a delightful break in Delatre Lodge, one of the best of the restored homes, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Field.

The Saturday afternoon feature was our attendance at the excellent performance of the Shaw Festival of Theatre. This was followed by a leisurely smorgasbord dinner in the Beacon Motel's famous dining room.

At our closing session in the Patio Room it was decided to hold our 1980 reunion in Lindsay with the Staples in charge.

Attending were our host couples, John and Peggy Londerville, Burlington, Bob and Effie Spence, Hamilton, and Don and Alie Rutherford, Etobicoke; Jack and Florence Staples, Lindsay, Jack and Betty Thexton, Toronto, Mary Mott, Belleville, Frances Parnall, Toronto, Bill and Grace Wedlock, Peterborough, and Arnold and Doris Noftall, Peterborough. Unable to attend were Ed and Marion Higgins, Sudbury, Jack and Brownie Nichols, and Tom and Muriel Allen, Peterborough.

T.J. "Terry" McKibbin honoured on retirement

When T.J. "Terry" McKibbin, Arts '34, retired this year after 38 years of service with Kingston City Hall, the occasion was marked with a testimonial dinner in the Olympic Harbour restaurant. There were 300 in attendance, including former mayors, aldermen, members of the board of education, the local conservation authority, and various other groups, prominent citizens, and friends.

T.J. joined City Hall as a bookkeeper, but the last 28 years were spent as chief administrative officer-clerk-comptroller. The veteran of literally thousands of meetings — city council, committee, Ontario Municipal Board and the like, he had a dominant influence on the administration of the city. His mastery of the Ontario Municipal Act, the principal legislation that guides the operation of a municipality, was legendary.

Former Mayor George Speal, Q.C., Com. '54 who acted as master of ceremonies, described him as a politician, administrator, father-confessor, and friend: "Sitting in Council, never saying much, always prepared with the right answer even when the questions were wrong."

The tributes were many and colorful as various speakers vied with one another to salute the guest of honour. Many were the references to his "encyclopaedic knowledge" of municipal affairs and his quiet but ubiquitous hand in shaping the course of the City's history. He was presented with many gifts as tokens of appreciation.

It was a send-off to remember.

W.A. Neville

W.A. "Bill" Neville is vice-president

W.A. "Bill" Neville, Arts '38, who is associated with the Manitoba Institute of Management, Inc., Winnipeg, Man., was recently elected vice-president of the Children's Hospital of Winnipeg Research Foundation Inc. The Foundation raises funds through Women's Guilds of the Hospital, an annual Book Market, an annual appeal at Christmas and from bequests and other sources. It is administered by a Board of Directors drawn from the women's organizations, the Department of Pediatrics and the business community. Research grants are made on recommendation of the Medical Committee and last year totalled $310,000, all in the pediatric field and all in Winnipeg. An innovation this year was the Sydney Israels Fellowship in Pediatric Research and the first winner was Dr. Heather Dean, a Queen's medical graduate of 1975. Capital now stands at $1,500,000. Plans for 1979 call for continuation of grants at about the same level as 1978. Mr. Neville has been on the Board of Directors since 1974 and has been chairman of the Public Relations Committee.

"What's the matter with old McGill?"

Dr. D.L. Johnston
Principal

Judge A.B. Gold
Chairman, Board of Governors

She's all right! Oh, yes, you bet!"

And the future never looked brighter, now that there are two Queen's graduates at the helm: David Lloyd Johnston, LL.B. '66, Principal, and Quebec Chief Judge Alan B. Gold, B.A. '38, chairman of McGill's Board of Governors.

When he began his five-year term on the first of September, Principal Johnston was the youngest university head in Canada. A B.A. graduate of Harvard, and an LL.B. graduate of Cambridge and Queen's, he taught at Queen's and the University of Toronto before his appointment as Dean of the Law School at the University of Western Ontario in 1974. A specialist in securities regulation and in corporation and labour law, he has published dozens of articles, coauthored several casebooks and written a text. Since 1972 he has been an active member of the Ontario Securities Commission. As a student at Harvard he played defence on the All-American Hockey Team, and he has taken an enthusiastic part in a variety of sports: distance running, skiing, horseback riding, and ice-skating. A well-organized man, he makes sure to find plenty of time to share with his wife and five daughters.

As a student at Queen's Judge Gold was a member of the Drama Guild contemporaneously with Lorne Greene. "Lorne played all the heroic roles," says the Judge. "I was second banana. I was very small - I still am - so I got all the character parts." He earned his law degree at the University of Montreal in 1941. After serving with the Royal Canadian Artillery during the Second World War, he entered private practice. In 1961 he was appointed a district judge, and in 1970 became Chief Judge of the Provincial Court of Quebec. His ties with McGill go back to 1957, when he began a 14-year stint as a lecturer in the Law Faculty. He became a University governor in 1974 and chairman in 1979.

A tiny safe containing nearly 4,500 quarters has been presented to Principal R.L. Watts by the Queen's Staff Association. This is the Association's second major contribution to Queen's Quest, the University's five-year campaign to raise $10,000,000 from private sources. Peter Scott, past president of the Staff Association, said that the $1,118 contribution came through the sale of fire extinguishers and an arts and crafts bazaar. In thanking the Association, Dr. Watts stressed the importance of this "message of support" from the staff when the University goes calling on corporations.

Special Group Discount Offer on THE NEW BRITANNICA 3... a Complete Home Learning Centre

An important announcement for Members of the Alumni Association

Encyclopaedia Britannica offer to members an opportunity to obtain the NEW BRITANNICA 3 at a reduced price, a substantial saving on the price available to any individual purchaser.

The NEW BRITANNICA 3 — now expanded to 30 volumes — is not just a new edition . . . but a completely new encyclopedia which outmodes all other encyclopedias. Never before has so much knowledge, so readily accessible, so easily understood — been made available as a complete home library.

The current edition of Britannica is reorganized to better serve the three basic needs for an encyclopedia. First, the need to "LOOK IT UP" is handled by the Ready Reference and the Index. These ten volumes are a complete index to everything in the set. At the same time, they serve as a 12-million word short entry encyclopedia that is helpful to look up accurate information quickly.

Second, the need for "KNOWLEDGE IN DEPTH" is fulfilled by the main text, a 28-million word, 28-volume collection of articles arranged logically which provide full and authoritative information for the student, for research in business, or for new insights into new fields of knowledge.

Third, the need for "SELF EDUCATION" is met by the Outline of Knowledge and Guide to Britannica, a unique volume which acts as a giant study guide, more comprehensive and more detailed than a college course outline.

The 30-volume NEW BRITANNICA 3 covers more subjects more completely. It is more responsive to the current needs of your family.

Members who would like to receive further details on this exciting Group Offer are invited to fill out and mail the postage paid reply card.

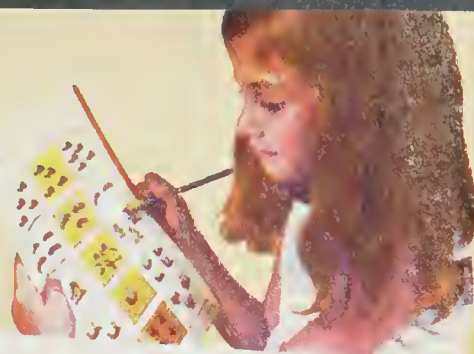

This offer is available for a limited time only, and may be withdrawn without further notice.

If the reply card is detached, please write to Britannica Special Group Offer,

Now your youngsters can play their way to learning Skills Ladder for BASIC MATH Free for 15 Days.

Now in Canada
from S.R.A.

Children 5-8 teach themselves

Child simply hooks overlay on card, lines up "smiling faces" before doing exercises, then turns card over to check answers. The Activities Cards can then be used again.

You can keep this kit for your younger children too! The durable box and exercise cards will last for years.

Here is an opportunity for your youngster to practice and learn important math skills . . . and have a good time in the process.

SRA's MATH SKILLS LADDER translates the basic concepts of mathematics into a step-by-step series of enjoyable exercises geared to the interests and abilities of children in the crucial early learning years from 5 to 7. Based on a program used in schools nationwide, the methods and vocabulary in SKILLS LADDER are consistent with instruction in schools.

The SKILLS LADDER is a kit of 200 colorfully illustrated Activities Cards divided into 7 units. The first 2 units include counting, writing, adding and subtracting numbers up to 10. The other 5 units expand these activities for numbers up to 100. Also included are simple concepts of geometry, measuring, telling time, and counting money.

A child's attention is maintained by cleverly drawn animals and objects and a variety of fun-to-do exercises.

Even youngsters just beginning to read can do the exercises and check on answers themselves. Only an occasional bit of guidance and encouragement is required on your part to keep your child involved and motivated from beginning to end of the Program.

The Starter Kit includes . . .

- Parent's Guide with helpful ideas for getting the most out of the program.
- 30 Activities Cards, covering basic addition, subtraction, counting and writing numbers.
- Storage Case, with 7 section dividers, to organize all Cards.
- Reusable Plastic Overlay for recording and checking answers, plus 2 special Markers.

Two ways to pay. You may pay for the complete 7 kit programme in three equal payments of $19.95 on your Master Charge or Visa Account (Kits sent in 3 shipments) or You may save 10% by making one single payment of $53.95 on your Visa or Master Charge Account (kits sent in one shipment) $7.95. Either way, you have a complete 15 day Money Back Guarantee if you are dissatisfied for any reason.

Just for fun, drive something sensible

The Volkswagen Rabbit has always been a most sensible combination of economy, performance and room, all wrapped up in one single automobile.

So now, along comes a Rabbit that makes sense and a splash at the same time. The Rabbit GTI. The Rabbit with extra flair.

All standard equipment on the Rabbit GTI.

The beat goes on with an AM/FM stereo system with cassette player, specially bolstered sports seats with adjustable head rests, sports steering wheel and tachometer. Even a rear window washer/wiper is standard on the Rabbit GTI.

And while the Rabbit GTI gets you there with flair, it also gets you there in a flash. A fuel-injected engine zips this Rabbit from 0 to 80 km/h in just 8.2 seconds and does so economically on regular gas with a 5-speed manual transmission.

Just for fun, check out a Rabbit GTI at your nearest Volkswagen Dealer. Common sense has never been so exhilarating.

Queen's at Queen's Park: Agreement on goals — but funding?

Dr. Ronald L. Watts, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of Queen's; now also President of the Council of Ontario Universities

Queens Principal, Dr. Ronald L. Watts, was spokesman for all the universities in Ontario at a significant meeting with Premier William Davis on September 7.

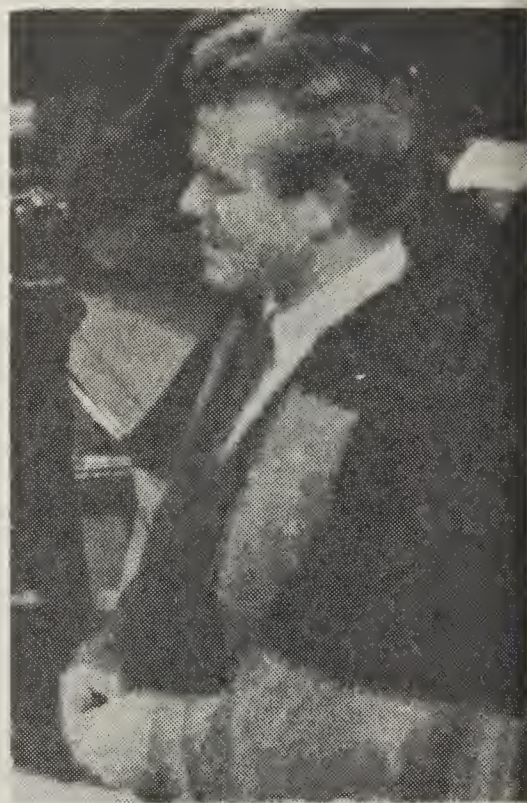

Mr. Davis invited the executive heads and board chairmen of all 15 universities to discuss with him and three senior ministers the general situation of universities for the 1980s. Principal Watts spoke as Chairman of the Ontario Council of Universities. J.H. Panabaker, Chairman of the Board at McMaster University, spoke for all governors and trustees.

It was the largest meeting of its kind during Principal Watts' five-year tenure, and it absorbed the Premier for fully four hours. He was accompanied by Treasurer Frank Miller, Minister of Colleges and Education Bette Stephenson, and Provincial Secretary for Social Development Margaret Birch.

"We received a good deal of encouragement," Dr. Watts commented to the Whig-Standard. "The Premier fully affirmed support for all our objectives — the importance of the traditional role of universities, the importance of an arts education, and the importance of expanding research and development.

"Lately the government has placed a great deal of emphasis on technical needs," he added. "Ontario is short of people with technical skills, and there's no doubt that Ontario must build up that side — but the Premier also reaffirmed his belief in the importance of a liberal, general education."

After agreement on goals, discussion turned to resources. According to Mr. Panabaker, "There is a pervasive sense that the financial stringency which has grown progressively more severe throughout the 1970s will not ease and that the universities of Ontario will grow physically and intellectually weaker and less able to carry out their existing tasks — and virtually incapable of responding to the changing needs of society."

Among the points Mr. Panabaker made:

- In operating grants to universities, Ontario now ranks eighth among the provinces, about $1,000 per student less than the rest of Canada. (In 1970-71, Ontario ranked third.)
- On university plants worth $2 billion, only $20 million is available annually for renovations and alterations, far less than any reasonable standard of maintenance.
- Replacement of furniture and equipment is on a 40-year cycle rather than the normal and necessary 10 to 15 years.
- Library acquisitions per student have fallen about 40% in real terms since the early '70s, despite the continuing explosion of knowledge around the world.
- Increases in salary scales at universities have been well below the rate of inflation for years. Faculty salaries consistently have fallen behind other comparable professions since the early '70s.
- Some estimates suggest that to avoid going into debt the universities will have to terminate up to 20% of faculty over the next few years.

According to the Principal, Premier Davis was unambiguous about his agreement with the universities' collective objectives, but made no commitment about funding policies. "Our purpose," says Dr. Watts, "was not to ask for money for 1980 but for longer-run support, for the next five to 10 years."

Effective or enfeebled?

"Many of us believe that the Ontario universities have now entered a period of fundamental crisis. Depending on the decision taken by your government and — to a lesser extent — by the governing bodies, they will emerge from this crisis either leaner, stronger and more effective or so enfeebled that they will be unable to recover for at least a generation."

J.H. Panabaker,
Chairman, Board of Governors, McMaster University to Premier Davis and senior Ontario ministers
September 7, 1979

Living by our wits in a 'have-not' province

"Within the last few weeks, the press has reported possible oil and gas discoveries off the coast of Newfoundland. . . . We may be entering a period when Ontario becomes one of the 'have-not' provinces with respect to natural resources, especially energy. In such circumstances, we must learn — as the Japanese have learned — 'to live by our wits'."

"In such an environment, a healthy and vigorous university system will prove to be indispensable. If we are to 'live by our wits' successfully, the coming generation of Ontario's leaders in business, science, the professions and government must be trained and educated under rigorous and demanding standards by scholars and scientists who are themselves intellectually vigorous and creative and able to hold their own under the pitiless evaluation of their peers in other provinces around the world. Technological development and economic productivity will require that the scientific and intellectual resources of the Ontario universities be carefully husbanded and encouraged."

"If, however, we allow these resources to be dissipated, Ontario will inevitably become a 'have-not' province in an even more profound and fundamental sense."

To Bali H'ai and back with Queen's Old Boys

Perhaps the most ambitious tour ever undertaken by a group of Queen's alumni (barring wartime) took place this summer. The group was the Queen's Old Boys' Rugby Football Club (QUOBRFC for short) and the tour was to various places in the South Pacific. Here is a first-hand report — or all of it that's fit to print — from Old Boy Ron Eastal.*

Courtesy: The First Hawaiian

On July 27, 35 rugby players and 21 wives, girlfriends and children gathered at Toronto International Airport. The team turned out in navy blue blazers decorated with the Queen's blazer badge, grey pants and custom-made Queen's Rugby ties. A very smart-looking bunch. Two years of intensive planning was finally over, and the first of 14 flights over a 30-day span was about to take off. The rugby fraternities of Hawaii, Australia, New Zealand and Fiji were about to sample Queen's special talents, both on and off the field.

The main purpose of the tour, despite some minority opinion, was to liaise with 'rugby people' at the various places. The focus of these liaisons was, of course, on the rugby pitch. Two matches were arranged in Hawaii. The first was against the perennial island champions, the Hawaii Harlequins, and the second was against the Diamond Head Club.

The first game on any tour, obviously, is of great importance; this game was treated accordingly by the rugby pundits in charge. A strong team was fielded against the Harlequins. The team played very well and led for most of the first half, but the experience and co-ordination of the Hawaiians proved superior on the day and the Harlequins won 19-9.

Not to be totally outdone, however, QUOBRFC came back with a bang at the post-game festivities and won the singing battle with great flair. The star of the day was unquestionably James Stone, PHE'76, who, despite a badly sprained ankle, performed a perfect Zulu Warrior (a traditional rugby dance reminiscent of post-renaissance gavotte).

The second game in Hawaii provided the tour with its only victory. The team easily outclassed its Samoan opposition. Again, the post-game festivities were of classic proportions.

So . . . on to Australia and visits with world class clubs from Paramatta (Sydney) and the University of Queensland (Brisbane). This was opposition of very high calibre. Against Paramatta, QUOBRFC fielded two teams. The second 15 were only beaten by 10 points, but the first 15 were very soundly beaten, 42-4! To say that QUOBRFC received a lesson in rugby would be an understatement. The lesson was well taken, however, and the club played much more cohesively after that. Again, against Queensland University, the Old Boys were beaten by a dozen points, but in doing so performed much better.

The Mecca of rugby for all but the fanatical Welsh fans is New Zealand. QUOBRFC headed across the Tasman Sea with a mixture of anticipation and trepidation bordering on fear. The Club was to play in Christchurch, Wellington and Auckland. Unfortunately, weather and a rescheduled flight cancelled matches in both Wellington and Auckland.

The time spent in these two places was by no means wasted, as our hosts were extremely friendly and hospitable. It should be said, though, that Christchurch became a place of special importance for the tour. We were actually met on the plane by a representative of the host club, Merivale Papanui RFC! This extraordinary early liaison was the portent of things to come. QUOBRFC was wined, dined, lunched, brunches, hosted and toasted magnificently! We played two games there. The first game was against their social (for 'social' read 'drinking') team. The game was played in great spirit and finally ended in a 21-21 draw. Then came the crunch: the Old Boys squad was to play its first-ever game against a senior New Zealand team. The game was played at the famous Lancaster Park as a curtain raiser to the grand finale, and so many people were present to watch. Queen's got off to a slow start and quickly found themselves down by 12 points. The Old Boys woke up at this stage and played some inspired rugby, rallying somewhat to a final score of 32-16. The comments made by the rugby experts in Christchurch were that if this team from Canada ever practised as a unit for more than a couple of weeks, they would be a force to be reckoned with. (It should be noted that QUOBRFC is made up of Queen's rugby players from 1965 to present-day members and from as far afield as Calgary and Newfoundland; thus they do not regularly play together.)

After the Merivale Papanui games the club was treated to a Maori feast called a "Hungu", where a number of drinks were consumed and mementoes traded. Someone even traded his Queen's blazer for an old soiled garment of very dubious origin.

Next stop: Fiji. After the relatively chilly weather of a New Zealand winter, the group stepped off the plane at Nausori airport into a tropical spring. As soon as the team arrived in the Suva Travelodge, the staff informed us that announcements of our game against a local all-star team were all over the radio and the newspapers! The Old Boys were under the impression that the only game slated for Fiji was a social game against a group of Air Pacific baggage handlers.

Undaunted, the ex-Gaels walked onto the field and were amazed to see between two and three thousand spectators lining the pitch and sitting on a hillside overlooking the field. At ten minutes to game time the opposition appeared — not a pretty sight, somewhat on the large side. However, as per usual, the Old Boys set to it with a will and scored an early try (James Stone again). However, this opening onslaught by Queen's had a rather unfortunate consequence. The Fijians woke up. At the end of this entertaining game, the local all-stars had eclipsed us 19-9.

The last game on the tour was supposed to be against our friends the baggage handlers. However, when Queen's showed with their social (drinking) team, they were faced with St. John's-Marist first team, including one of the world's great rugby players, Pio Bosco Tokoisuva. The game was played in great spirit and just for fun. The final score (St. John's 14, Queen's 4) seemed to matter not a jot.

At last the Queen's group was able to relax for a couple of days and savour the collective experiences. Many friends had been made both within the tour group and with our incredible hosts. And the name of Queen's University had been spread to these far places — not without some honour.

QUOBRFC would like to thank all alumni who contributed time and money to the cause and who sent us messages of encouragement. Some even turned up to cheer us in Hawaii and Australia. Our fans may be happy to hear that the Club is planning a similar venture in some different direction in the summer of 1981.

**Ron Easteal, M.Sc.'71, plays fly-half and fullback on the Old Boys team. As the official programme for the tour puts it, Ron's skills as a kicker and songster have proven invaluable to Camborne (England) 1962-68, Queen's 1968-73, and Kingston RFC, 1971-79. At Queen's he is currently a lecturer in the Anatomy Department and a squash coach. This summer's tour of the South Pacific was his second; he toured New Zealand with the Bytown Blues in 1976.*

$ The Two-Dollar Dollar $

In a time of shrinking dollars, there is a heartening anomaly — the two-dollar dollar that some Queen's supporters send our way.

Many companies in Canada and the United States provide important support to universities through Matching Gifts to Education Plans. That is, they match, dollar for dollar, gifts made by their employees to their respective alma maters. (Some firms do set a limit on their contributions; maximum gifts could be $100, $500, $1,000 or $5,000.) Any of the companies listed below will match gifts made by their employees to Queen's. If one of them is your company, please obtain an application form from the administrative offices and send it along with your cheque. Queen's will complete the transaction.

Graduates living in the USA should mail their application form to Friends of Queen's University Inc., 901 Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

New Alumni Executive

George O. Toller of Ottawa, Arts'49 (M.Comm., Toronto), was elected President of Queen's Alumni Association at the annual meeting held on campus Oct. 19. The new national and international president was formerly chairman of the Alumni Fund Committee. He succeeds Mrs. K.B. Parkinson (Wilda Baker), Arts'43, of Kanata, Ont., who was elected earlier this year to the University's Board of Trustees.

At the annual meeting, held in conjunction with afternoon tea at Reunion '79, two other executive officers also commenced their two-year terms. Mrs. Pat (Osborough) Douglas-Murray, Arts'55, Kingston, is First Vice-President. In May she was appointed to the Board of Trustees as a representative of the University Council. Dr. G. Herbert Lawler, Arts'46 (M.Sc., Western, Ph.D., Toronto), Winnipeg, is Second Vice-President. Dr. Lawler was also re-elected to another term as a director of the association. He was a director from 1963 through '72 and again from 1973 to '79.

Besides Dr. Lawler, four other grads elected by alumni ballot (September) to the Board of Directors began three-year terms at the annual meeting:

- Mrs. J.J. Clarke (Julie O'Grady), B.A.'42, Pointe Claire, Que.;
- Mrs. A.W. MacKay (Sylva Rowley), B.A.'42, Beaconsfield, Que.;
- Terry M. Nickerson, B.Sc.'61 (M.B.A., Harvard), Thornhill, Ont.;
- Dr. Wallace J. Troup, M.D., C.M.'54, FRCP(C), Ottawa (re-elected).

Advocates

Excerpts from an address by Stephen Lewis to the spring convocation of McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont. Mr. Lewis, who received an honorary degree there, is former leader of Ontario's New Democratic Party.

"... People who graduate today depart the university at precisely the moment when it is most fiercely under seige. I beg you not to ... betray your years of learning by joining the clamor of the Philistines who do such damage to post-secondary education.

"What puzzles and distresses me particularly in the case of universities is the way in which they watch the erosion of staff, of content, of research, of quality, and the voices raised in protest ring no louder than a bleat. Since when does academic autonomy permit a vocational subservience?

"What is needed, I say with respect, is advocacy. Advocates who fight back; vocal, persuasive and defiant. Advocates who will not permit the forces of reaction to dismember universities, and loot whatever is left.

"... And you and I, who have so especially benefited from a university, must energize communities around us. And if we have to return to first principles and explain the rationale for post-secondary education all over again, then let it be done, unselfconsciously, persistently and with an indefatigable sense that what we are defending is not a matter of elitism, nor job opportunities, nor vested interests, but rather an indispensable component of a civilized society."

'Classmates etc.'

... Finally caught up with the singular, merited honour that Queen's bestowed on Jim Wright at the June Convocation.

In noting the flood of congratulatory correspondence received, the Alumni Review lists "former Wallace Hall waitresses" ahead of "classmates of 50 years ago" (among whom I include myself). After due reflection, I take no umbrage at this perceptive editorial sequencing of fundamental priorities. Let the tips fall where they may...

Support for tabloid

On behalf of the Executive Committee of the Oakville-Mississauga Branch of the Queen's Alumni Association, I would like to express our favourable opinion of the gazette form the Review took this summer. We appreciate that the magazine is expensive, especially in this time of austerity and cut-backs.

Should you decide to use the gazette format permanently, you shall receive our whole-hearted support. We are sure that quality of information bears no relation to quality of paper.

Keep up the good work!

Put your oar in, rowing fan urges

Many Queen's alumni must share my excitement about the growth of the Queen's Rowing Club since its inception in the fall of 1977.

Rowing, described by Pierre de Coubertin, founder of the modern Olympic Games, as "the most beautiful exercise there is", combines team participation and individual effort. It is those qualities which are inherent in all the activities of the Queen's Club. Its achievements to date, in association with the highly successful Kingston Rowing Club, are impressive. Queen's men's varsity eight won the 1978 Ontario Intercollegiate Championship, while the women's varsity eight placed second in their competition.

The Kingston Rowing Club

(KRC), a community effort which provides coaching, equipment and storage facilities for area high schools, community rowers and Queen's, has amply demonstrated that "rowing is growing".

Since 1977, KRC has developed approved plans for a boathouse on Kingston city property on the west shore of the Cataraqui River, with construction now under way.

In my opinion, the most important factor at KRC has been the development of a slate of competent, dedicated volunteer coaches and an operating team under the able direction of club captain John Armitage, Sc.'71, and club president Michael L. Davies, Arts'59, a member of Queen's Board of Trustees.

The equipment used by Queen's rowers has all been acquired by KRC and includes five "eights" (three used and two new) three "fours" (two with cox) and one convertible double pair.

There are probably a number of rowing enthusiasts among the alumni who would like to support the Queen's Rowing Club. The best way to do this, I would suggest, would be to assist the Kingston Rowing Club in acquiring some more equipment.

Financial assistance in buying an additional eight-oar shell which would be made available to Queen's is one tangible project. I am happy to volunteer to handle responses to this suggestion and I urge alumni to write to me care of the Alumni Office, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., K7L 3N6. Contributions should be made payable to the "Canadian Amateur Rowing Association" (CARA), designated for the Kingston Rowing Club. (Gifts of $25 or more are acknowledged with a CARA receipt which is good for income tax purposes.) Contributions are eligible for Wintario grants, so your gift can be doubled.

Principal Watts had some interesting personal words about rowing at the time of the establishment of the Queen's (and Kingston) Rowing Club which bear repeating. Noting that he'd experienced competitive rowing at Oxford, he said: "I strongly endorse its development. No sport demands more teamwork and individual self-discipline or contributes more to enduring friendships than rowing." I heartily agree, and look forward to hearing from other alumni who feel the same way.

JOHN H. PARK, Sc.'38,
St. Catharines, Ont.

Our Mrs. Patten appreciated

Magazine subscription?

Ms Parkinson's message about the Queen's Review and Canada Post (Vol. 53, No. 4) acknowledged. Why not send a subscription notice once a year for the Review? I am not suggesting that you discontinue sending it to all graduates; continue to do so whether they pay or not. But upon receipt of such a notice I believe a goodly number will forward a cheque, an additional source of revenue. And don't make it for $1.80, $2.58, or $3.48. Round it off to $5.00 for all.

My cheque (is) enclosed for my subscription.

JUDGE GEORGE F.W. INRIG,
Arts'54,
Lindsay, Ont.

Editor's Note: Overall, the response to our attempt to reduce publishing costs (a tabloid summer issue) has been encouraging, and the support shown by Judge Inrig and others is appreciated.

However, as long as University funding is available, the Alumni Board of Directors is reluctant to solicit subscriptions to the Review. As Wilda Parkinson points out, "Inevitably some alumni will be antagonized. More important, we would not want an alumnus to feel that a $5.00 subscription fee is a substitute for a meaningful contribution to the Alumni Fund, itself a successful alumni program and an important source of revenue for Queen's."

Your own comments on Judge Inrig's proposal would be welcomed by Ernie Hurlbut, Director of the Alumni Fund.

The Review sexist?

I wonder how many other alumnae were struck by the artwork on page 3 of the September-October issue of the Review. Above the text about nominations and election of members of the University Council (and the importance thereof) is a handsome sketch of five men of varying ages seated at a board table. At the far end of the table is an outline of a female figure with no facial features or any other detail. Under very close scrutiny another female figure appears between the farthest two men, almost completely obscured . . . outline of hair, cheekline and eye the only detail.

Contrast this sketch (which to me asserts male dominance of the body in question, the University Council) with the names which appear below it. Of the eight members eligible for re-election, three are women. Of the seven who have served for 12 years and are therefore not eligible for re-election, one is a women. The trend to increasing female representation is clear.

Contrast also the sketch on page 3 with that on page 23, illustrating information on Reunion'79, where women figure prominently and have equal representation.

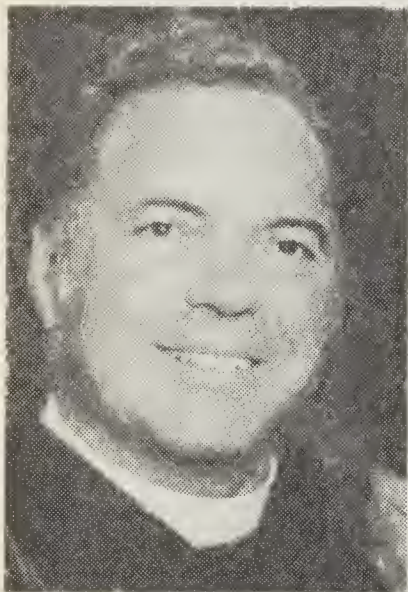

I trust that the visual message being conveyed in these two sketches — that women graduates have a place in social situations but not in the board room — does not represent the views of the Review or the Queen's Alumni Association (and I hope) that this doubtless unconscious lapse into sex-role stereotyping will not recur.

ELIZABETH (COOPER) LAWRENCE,
Arts'59
Seabright, Halifax Co., N.S.

Editor's Note: The visual "message" read by Mrs. Lawrence was certainly unintentional. The editor is one of 32 women Councillors among the 91 graduates elected by alumni. As a point of information, female representation on the other two constituent bodies of the Council is as follows: six women among 38 Trustees; 10 women among 59 Senators.

Around the Campus

Dr. Robert Bater

Theology Principal reappointed

The Rev. Dr. B. Robert Bater has been reappointed Principal of Queen's Theological College and head of the Department of Religion in the Faculty of Arts and Science. Both are for three-year terms.

Dr. Bater succeeded the late Dr. Donald Mathers in 1974. Before coming to Queen's, he had been senior minister of Eglinton United Church in Toronto, Professor of New Testament at St. Andrew's College, Saskatoon, and lecturer in Biblical literature at the University of Saskatchewan.

Hark to the hour . . .

One particular campus innovation sounded a fine note during Orientation Week — the hours being musically chimed from the clock tower of Grant Hall.

The 'carillon' is on tape for accuracy and simple maintenance, but the chimes ring full and clear across the lower campus in the crisp autumn air. They are the gift of three combined Engineering classes — Science '77, '78 and '79.

Many campus old-timers were surprised to hear the explanation for such melody in the midst of frosh shennanigans on University Ave. "Those engineers!" mused one pleased professor; "Just when you think they're a pain in the neck, they give you a lump in your throat."

Medical House approved

Medical students paid an additional $16 in student interest fees this fall to assist in the financing of a medical club house on campus.

The Board of Trustees authorized the fee increase only after the original request from the Aesculapian Society had gone to the AMS for discussion and approval. To ward off the spectre of the great fraternity debate of the early thirties, it was resolved that the new medical club house, like other faculty houses on campus — Commerce House and Grad House — cannot restrict admittance to members only.

Balancing Act

To operate a complex institution with a budget of more than $60 million and manage to balance it within $150,000 is no small feat. Due to careful 'housekeeping' and an unplanned government grant, Queen's did it — reached the end of fiscal year 1978-79 approximately $150,000 in the black. The amount will be used to whittle away at the deficits of the past few years.

Eight more staff join 25-year 'club'

At the 1979 testimonial dinner for long-service faculty and staff members, Principal Watts presented 25-year-service pins to: Jerry Dering, technician, Microbiology and Immunology; Mrs. Loretta Johnson, Spanish instructor; Prof. Bruce Kirby, Engineering Mathematics; Prof. Francis MacLachlan, Civil Engineering; Mrs. Joyce Semple, bursar for Queen's Theological College; Margaret Smith, administrative assistant (research services), School of Graduate Studies; Prof. Kenneth E. Russell, Chemistry; and Prof. John Baxter, English (in absentia).

The 90 members of the Queen's community at the dinner represented a combined total of 2800 years of service.

Three profs now Associate Deans

Principal Watts recently appointed three Associate Deans.

Prof. Hank Helmers has begun a four-year term as Associate Dean of the School of Business, directly involved in faculty development and curriculum co-ordination. This past summer he completed a two-year stint as visiting professor at IMEDE in Switzerland.

In the Faculty of Arts and Science, Profs. R.D. Fraser (Economics) and A.H. Jeeves (History) have received six-year appointments, the former beginning last July 1, the latter starting next summer.

Can small mines flourish again?

Everybody knows that Queen's and Queen's men are famous in the history of Canadian mining. It was only natural that the University should become a partner with the Prospectors and Developers Association in an important and innovative problem-solving seminar.

Called "The Future of Junior Mining in Canada" and co-sponsored by the Queen's-based Centre for Resource Studies, the seminar was held this fall in Toronto. It attracted 250 delegates — mining executives, investors, brokers, exchange and regulatory officials, and federal and provincial public servants, including the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources, the Hon. Ray Hnatyshyn. Their goal was to establish a knowledge base and take a first step toward establishing a taxation, regulatory and business environment in which smaller mineral enterprises can again flourish in Canada.

For more information, alumni may contact Dr. George Miller, Executive Director of the Centre for Resource Studies, Queen's University.

In the next Review:

WHO are these spirited Engineers from Science'59?
WHAT were they doing (with hundreds of other alumni) at REUNION '79?

From the Students' Point of View

*By Richard Binhammer, Artsci'80
President, Alma Mater Society*

I hope all of you who returned to Queen's for homecoming had a wonderful time. During the Reunion events the AMS Outer Council had the surprise pleasure of meeting Mr. George Toller, the incoming Alumni Association President, when he dropped into an AMS meeting. I also had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Broadbent, the AMS President of 1929 and father of Queen's first student Rector.

Relating to Kingston — and Police

The Orientation program ran very smoothly this fall. The Kingston police department instituted special patrol units to cover the campus area. Needless to say, we were a little nervous about this. As a result, the AMS produced a pamphlet informing students of the laws and urging them to participate in organized events. In the end, there were no major disturbances and the number of citizen complaints was substantially less this year.

In an effort to improve our relations with the Kingston community we are undertaking numerous initiatives. We are attempting to keep in touch with the local media, and trying to get students more involved in community activities. Over the summer we worked on improving student housing, and we are hoping to have a closer liaison with the area ratepayers' association.

If you know David H. Bonham, former professor and Vice-Principal, you will be glad to know that he is the Honorary President of the AMS for 1979-80.

Opting out of OFS

The AMS Executive has proposed to the Outer Council that Queen's students should no longer be members of the provincial student organization called the Ontario Federation of Students (ofs). The executive believes this group has failed to represent the Queen's students' political opinions and failed to serve our informational needs. It is my hope that we will have a referendum questioning membership in the ofs.

Funding on the Brink

In the last Review I discussed the funding of the Ontario university system and how the government's path of restraint was affecting the quality of education Queen's could provide. The most interesting development in this field is the paper produced by the Ontario Council on University Affairs (ocua). This body is the government's own independent advisory group, and its paper is titled System on the Brink. Basically, the paper talks about staff and/or equipment cuts universities will have to make if Ontario persists with its policy of restraint. I hope you will take an active role in making known the importance of a university education. If that importance is to continue, funds must be provided to ensure quality education, especially at Queen's.

Season's Greetings

Finally, have a great holiday season! As classes end for the term and students write exams, we will all look forward to our (well deserved and much needed) break. Happy holidays!

Our Roly's retiring in 1980

The Rt. Hon. Roland Michener, the former Governor-General of Canada who has become since 1974 one of the most popular Chancellors in Queen's history, has announced to a regretful University Council that he intends to step down upon completion of his second three-year term in 1980.

Under the Charter of the University, the election of a Chancellor is the responsibility of the Council (which consists of Trustees, Senators, and an equal number of elected graduates). According to the Council's by-laws, the Executive Committee is required to make a nomination so that the Council may choose a new Chancellor at its next annual meeting.

A special advisory committee, chaired by Principal Watts and widely representative of the Queen's community, has been established. This "search committee" will report to the Council Executive not later than April 1, 1980. In turn, the Executive will prepare its recommendations one month prior to the Council's annual meeting, which is scheduled for May 30. The new Chancellor will be introduced at that meeting and will be formally installed at Fall Convocation 1980.

The advisory committee (consisting of faculty, students, alumni and Trustees) will appreciate suggestions from Review readers to assist it in choosing a new Chancellor. Those made in writing should be sent by December 10 to the Chairman of the committee, Principal Ronald L. Watts.

It hardly seems five years since the Rt. Hon. Roland Michener left his post as Governor-General of Canada and gave his inaugural address as Chancellor of Queen's University. He has since graced the platform at many university ceremonies, convocations and Council meetings, often accompanied by Queen's first lady, Dr. Norah Michener, L.L.D.'75. Now he has announced he will retire in 1980 at the end of his second three-year term. A committee to recommend his successor is now at work and invites your nominations. (Photo: Wallace R. Berry)

Librarians to the rescue

Queen's 160 librarians and library technicians have 'adopted' a refugee family of four and in the process found a new sense of community.

They cleaned out their attics and held a flea market. They baked cakes and cookies. They knit, crocheted, potted and quilted for a craft show and raffle. And they reached into their own pockets. By press time they should have reached their goal of $5,000, searched out a house to rent, and scrounged enough furniture for their family.

Unlike other local refugee groups, the library organization has a large working committee — at least 30 people. Treasurer Sharron Wainman comments that the campaign has made the staff in the scattered 22-branch library system much better acquainted with one another and has brought out many hidden talents.

Fortunately, the Douglas Library team includes an ex-nurse, a former teacher of English as a second language, and a translator.

'Two all-beef buses ...'

The song that says "Nobody can do it like McDonald's can" was on the local hit parade during Orientation Week. To make sure new students knew where there was a fast-food alternative to campus meals, McDonald's ran "McShuttle" — a red double-decker bus that shuttled between the Phys Ed Centre and their Bath Road restaurant, complete with hostess, for three hours each evening.

Queen's Quest

1978-83

Some Drama in the Donations

Giving to Queen's Quest has increased dramatically over giving to the 1970-75 campaign.

As Vice-Principal J.M. Courtright, Sc.'41, recently told the Board of Trustees, "Giving is up in all personal and corporate categories.

"I am confident that the alumni goal of $2¼ million will be met," he said. This amount is 2¼ times alumni giving to the last campaign. To date, alumni gifts and pledges to Queen's Quest total about $1.6 million. As the Vice-Principal observed, "The alumni portion is going according to plan."

Mr. Courtright also noted that faculty and staff show a six-fold increase in pledges and a five-fold increase in the number of donors. Students have pledged 50% more to Quest than to the last appeal, which was chiefly for new buildings.

Notable increases have also occurred in gifts from Trustees (many of whom are also alumni), members of the Parents Association, and other friends of the University.

Corporate support for Queen's has increased, too, with 20% more corporations pledging 25% more funds. The most significant growth is in contributions from foundations, which have increased ten-fold from $200,000 to $2 million.

Jessie Deslauriers, President of Queen's Staff Association, sells Vice-Principal Rich Hand (Resources) the first ticket in the Association's fall raffle to raise more money for Queen's Quest. The lucky winner will enjoy three days in Toronto, with tickets to the King Tut exhibition. Other prizes include Tut books and reproductions of ancient Egyptian jewellery.

The Mark of an Associate

Bright decals with stripes in Queen's colours of red, gold and blue have begun to appear on the doors and windows of many Kingston area businesses. They identify members of Queen's Associates — business and professional people who have made personal or corporate pledges of $500 or more to Queen's Quest. The decals were originated by Henry Fleming, Arts'47, I.R.'48, Assistant to the Vice-Principal (Development and Information).

The Associates, who number about 190, recently were invited to Queen's to meet informally with the Principal and representatives of faculty, staff and students.

Gifts boost student aid

Queen's Quest's goal of increased student aid has received support from the Schlumberger Foundation of Houston, Texas, which was established to provide merit scholarships to students of special promise in the engineering and scientific fields. Total value of their gift for 1979-80 is $4,000. The winning student receives a minimum of $2,000 on a merit basis; the rest is allocated by the Dean. He may award a second scholarship, recognize outstanding performances by teachers, acquire lab equipment, or otherwise enrich the department in which the Schlumberger scholar is enrolled.

The Canadian International Paper Co. has made its first donation ($1,000 in '79, $2,000 in '80 and subsequent years) towards scholarships to M.B.A. students. Preference will be given to scholars particularly interested in the field of pulp and paper. The award is accompanied by the offer of a summer job between the first and second years of the M.B.A. program.

Dr. Sukriti Nag

Prize Pathologist

Dr. Sukriti Nag, an assistant professor of Pathology, has been honoured by the Canadian Association of Pathologists for outstanding work on acute hypertension.

At the association's annual meeting in Quebec City, Dr. Nag received the Wild-Leitz Junior Scientific Award for her doctoral thesis on a mode for studying acute hypertension by investigating cerebrovascular (brain and blood vessel) changes which occur in the early stages of hypertension. Three years ago she won the Weil Award from the American Association of Neuropathologists for the best investigative paper presented to that association's annual meeting.

Dr. Nag first came to Queen's in 1974 to do doctoral work under Drs. H.B. Dinsdale and D.M. Robertson.

Two professors die

Two Queen's professors known to many alumni died this summer: Dr. Robert E. Semple of Physiology and Dr. Richard Bernabei, recently of Classics.

Prof. Semple was a native of Winnipeg, a graduate of UBC and Columbia, and had been teaching and researching at Queen's since 1963. He died on July 17. Survivors include his wife Joyce, Bursar in Queen's Theological College, and four daughters.

Prof. Bernabei (B.A., Hunter; Ph.D., Cornell) joined Queen's Classics Department in 1965 and resigned last October. He had been departmental chairman of spring, summer and extension studies. He was also well known as a researcher/lecturer on the Kennedy assassination. He died on Aug. 26. Survivors include his two daughters.

Piano makes a grand gift

A long-time resident of Kingston's Annandale Court, Mr. Victor Frederick Nielsen, recently made a handsome gift to Queen's before moving to his new home in Vancouver. He presented an 1866 Steinway grand piano in the relatively rare 'square box' style. Both the piano's style and its antique rosewood cabinet suited it to the elegant Donald Gordon Centre (formerly 'Roselawn'), and it now graces the John Deutsch Room there.

While expressing the University's gratitude to Mr. Nielsen, Vice-Principal Courtright also put in a plug for young pianists in the residences, hoping that other friends in the community might consider donating 'retired' pianos for use in the various common rooms.

Lorne Greene gets 'progress report'

One of Queen's most famous graduates, actor Lorne Greene, Arts'37, LL.D.'71, has re-instituted the drama award which carries his name. It goes to the student deemed to have the highest potential for a career in the theatre. To date there have been seven winners, and Prof. Fred Euringer, Head of the Drama Department, has kept in touch with their careers.

The first, Ann Gourley (1972), had two quite successful first years as an actress at the Centaur Theatre in Montreal and Toronto, but has left the stage for a career in Law.

Barbara Stewart (1973) has been a regular member of the Stratford Ontario company for the past three years, and last year understudied Maggie Smith as Lady Macbeth. "She was required to perform Lady Mac when Miss Smith was out of action for a week," Prof. Euringer says, "and received quite creditable notices for her performance — which under the pressure of a Stratford star-replacement is very good."

Doug Stratton (1974) and David Fanstone (1976) are both active in theatre as young freelancers, the first an actor, the other a director. Don McKay (1975) is owner-operator of an exclusive restaurant near Cornwall, Ont., where he plans to open a dinner theatre in the near future.

The two recently announced winners haven't yet had time to collect career credits: Rob Patterson (1978) and Anne McMahon (1979).

A TERRIBLE BEAUTY: THE ART OF CANADA AT WAR. The exhibition is massive, and visitors of all ages seem somewhat over-whelmed when they tour it at the Agnes Etherington Art Centre. People who attended the opening of the exhibition on September 14 (above) were able to meet artist Charles Comfort, OC, RCA, and hear the Canadian Forces Vimy Band, courtesy of the Base Commander. A large print of the mural painted by Kingston artist Martha Jamieson for Queen's COTC Lounge in the Students' Memorial Union was featured. "A Terrible Beauty", originally organized by the Robert McLaughlin Gallery of Oshawa, consists of 100 works selected by Heather Robertson from the collections of the Canadian War Museum and the National Gallery of Canada. (Photo: David Barbour)

ANGUS ANNIVERSARY. When "the Angi" celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Aug. 25, External Affairs Minister Flora MacDonald was among the fellow Scots and other well-wishers gathered at the Faculty Club. Dr. William "Doc" Angus, Emeritus Professor of Drama, and Dr. Margaret Angus, LL.D.'73, former director of CFRC, came to Queen's in 1937. Their party was hosted by their children — Jim Angus, Arts'55, and his wife Kathy (Peach), Arts'57, and Barbara (Angus) Morgan, Arts'77, and her husband Owen. (Photo: Eugene Cornacchia)

Charity from '83

To put it modestly, Queen's frosh broke all standing records for charity drives during Orientation Week in September. They raised $23,000 for worthy causes, had a lot of fun doing it, and wrapped up their success with a mardi gras and fireworks.

Organizers said that the student turnout for charity events was the best in years. (Attendance is not compulsory.) ASUS (Arts and Science) alone collected more than $15,000 in a variety of projects, easily topping their goal of $10,000, based on $1 for every full-time graduate and undergraduate student on campus. Their slogan was:

Ten Gs for Charity

by Queen's Class of '83.

First-year Engineering students raised about $8,000 by selling peanuts for the Rotary Club of Kingston. They also pitched in, 300 strong, to help the Cataraqui Conservation Authority clear stones from part of a new beach and park at Lemoine Point. This laborious clean-up, all hand work, saved the Authority about 48 days' work.

Donna Finley, speaking for the ASUS Orientation Committee, said the Mardi Gras (a street carnival on Queen's Crescent) took in $2,000 alone, but the biggest achievement was the collecting of $7,200 for cystic fibrosis research through the annual Shinerama (a city-wide shoe-shine), $1,800 more than last fall.

Other Arts and Science projects included a danceathon which raised about $2,000, a door-to-door peanut-selling blitz which netted $3,300 (the Engineers worked with Rotary in the city, while ASUS took on the Township), and car washes which took in $900.

Other charities which will benefit from the Orientation Week fund-raising efforts are Camp Outlook (a student-run camp for disadvantaged teenagers), Queen's Day Care Centre, Kingston General Hospital (to refurbish the "in and out" unit), and the CKLC Christmas Toy Drive.

WORLD'S LARGEST SCHOOL CHEER?

*At the end of Orientation Week, about 1,450 Queen's students joined in a huge circle around Frank Tindall Field to yell out an Oil Thigh that they hope will go into the Guinness Book of Records as the world's largest cheer. The composite photo at right was taken from the roof of Victoria Hall, looking north toward Union St. It shows how the students joined around the playing field and spilled over to surround the adjacent parking lot beside Macdonald Hall. ## Gael's Booster Club helps fan football fever Football fever continued high this fall after last season's national championship, and Queen's saw the revival of some time-honoured seasonal traditions.

Longtime college football fans in Kingston remember with nostalgia the noon-hour house-parties which preceded the Golden Gaels' home games. Members of the community would gather for a bowl of soup, a plate of sandwiches, and perhaps a friendly glass or two. When the food was gone and enthusiasm high, it was time to head for the game.

Beginning with the Gaels/Gee Gees game on Sept. 15, season ticket holders had a chance to revive this old practice. They were invited to enjoy soup and sandwiches, with a cash bar, in McArthur Hall, within walking distance of Richardson Stadium — everything in the old-fashioned, informal way.

Once at the game, they ran into some other old traditions in a new presentation. The Gael Boosters brightened up the stands by selling beribboned golden chrysanthemums for the ladies. In earlier days, this was the flower that decorated coon coats, football programmes and sheet music for old Queen's songs.

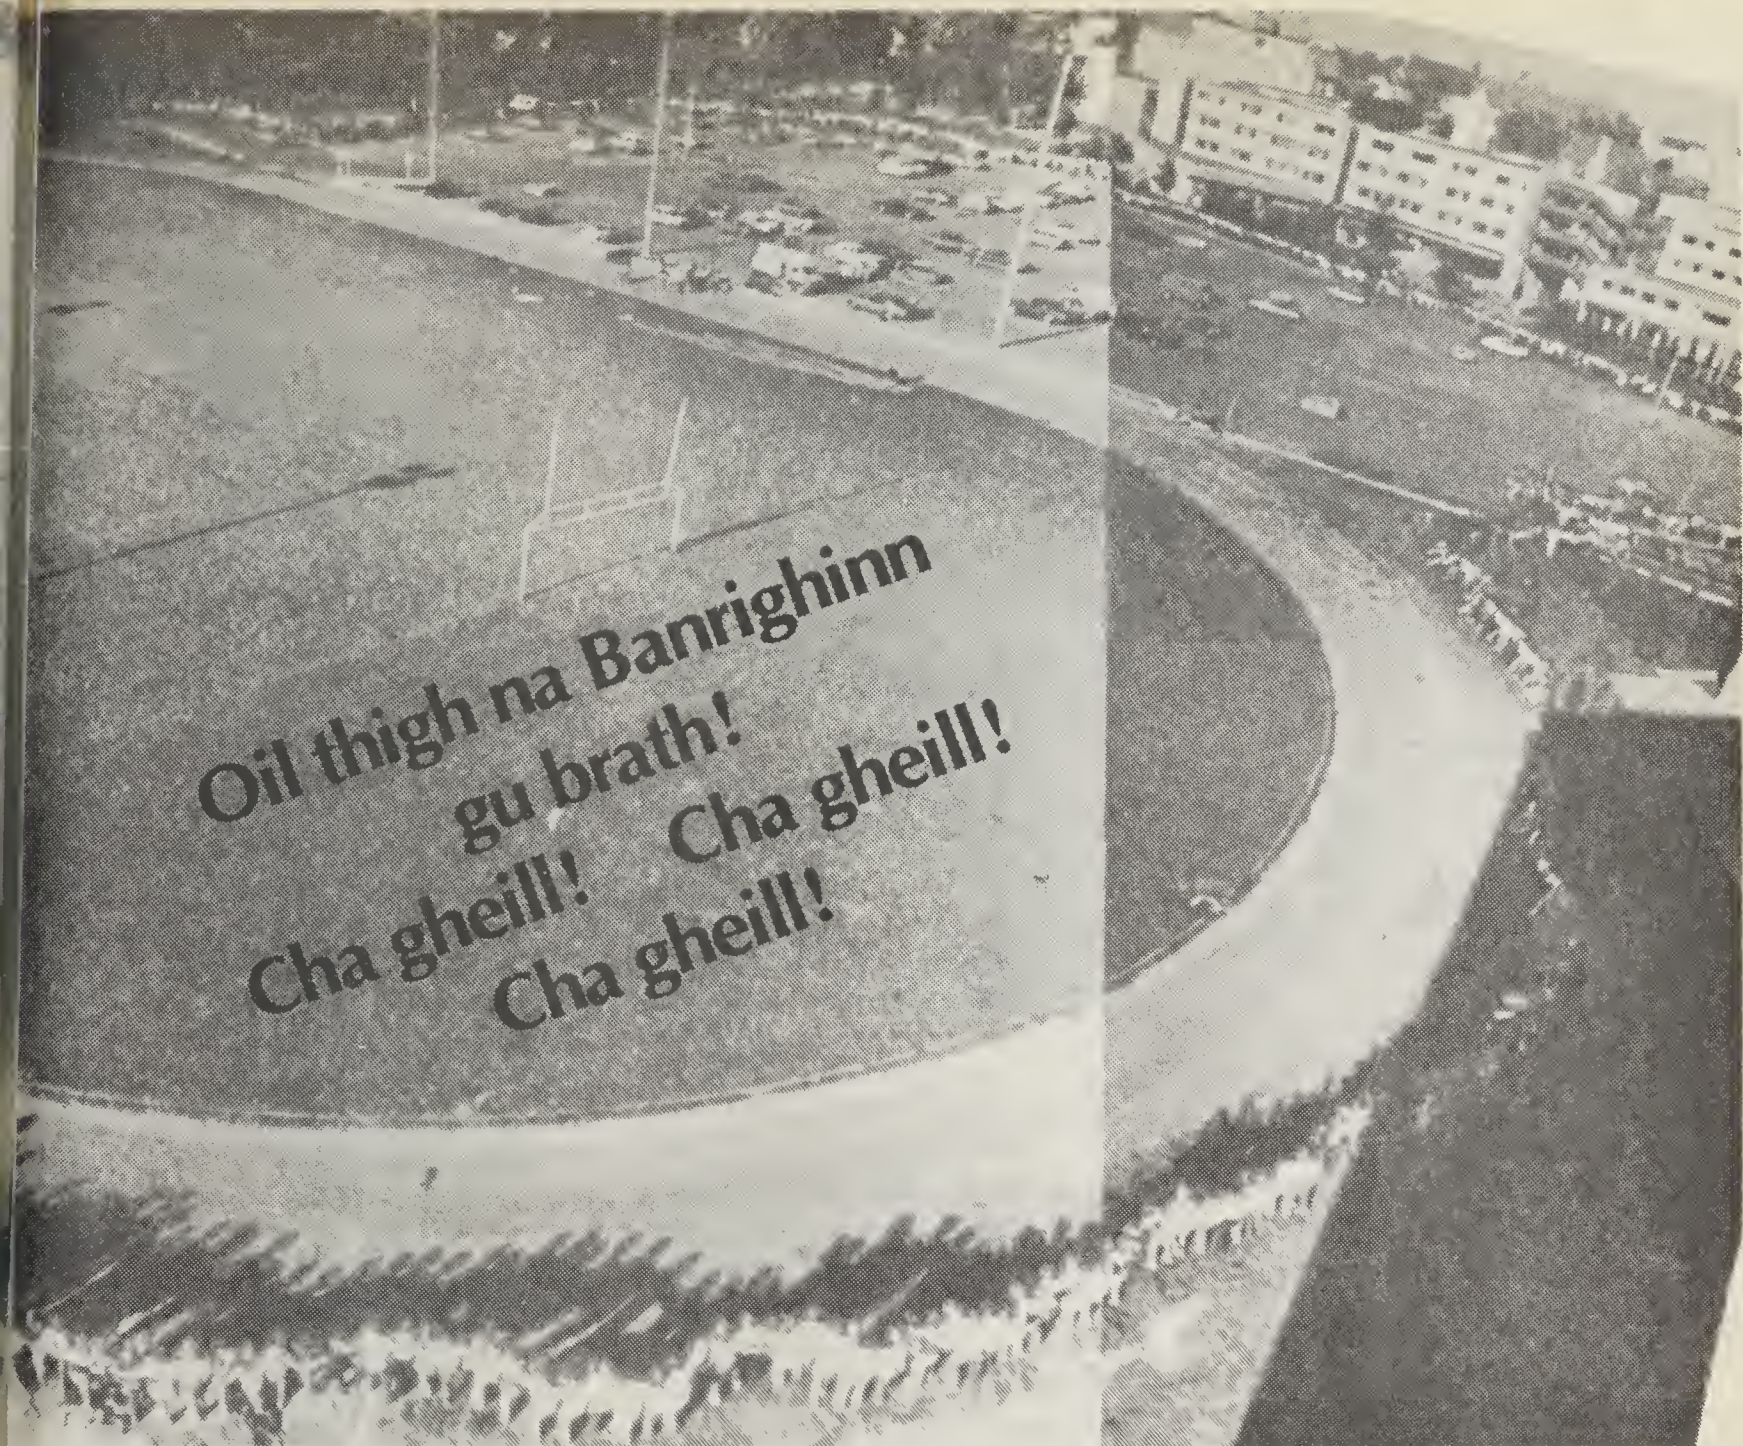

Although the Boosters claim it never rains on a Queen's home game, they sold brightly coloured plastic raincapes. Fans were also able to sport Boosters' hats in the Queen's colours.

Once again there were exciting half-time shows on the field. At the season opener, Queen's marching band was joined by leading Ontario trampolinist Dave Ross and members of the Kingston trampoline club. Guest performers on Oct. 13, which was officially designated 'Kingston Day', were RMC's Drum and Bugle Corps. At the McGill-Queen's Reunion game, members of Queen's Sky Diving Club again made their daring parachute jump onto the field.

No wonder interest in home games is percolating again!

Rossignol poster: 'Queen's Through the Years'

Larry Rossignol, Arts'75, Law'80, a Tricolour Award winner well known to alumni of the mid-70s for his Teddy Tin Can Graphics, has designed, written and drawn a poster illustrating Queen's history since 1841. Called "Queen's Through the Years", the two-colour poster contains 43 separate items about people and events.

Alumni will recognize such Queen's characters as Frank 'Pep' Leadlay, Alfie Pierce, Miss Austin, Frank Tindall, Padre Laverty, Casey Waugh and Lorne Greene. Other figures are shown against the buildings of their times — Sir Sandford Fleming, for example, James Douglas, and 12 of Queen's 15 Principals.

Larry was inspired by Herb Hamilton's 1976 book Queen's! Queen's! and tried to capture graphically the same balanced spirit of history and human interest. "My goal," he says, "was to make it appealing to Queen's people both past and present, and even to entice future students. It's my personal tribute to my alma mater — although, of course, I hope other alumni will buy it for one another or for their kids."

(The poster, 34 by 20 ins., sells for $4 — or three for $10 — including postage, and is mailed in a sturdy tube. Orders may be sent to Larry Rossignol in care of The Alumni Office, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont. K7L 3N6. Please make cheques payable to "Poster Offer".)

Oakville-Mississauga

The Oakville-Mississauga Branch held its second annual Casino Night on Saturday, September 15. The affair was even more of a success than last year's, thanks largely to the organization of convenor David Clarke.

The Executive Committee would like to thank the membership for their growing support in the second year of operation. They look forward to seeing everyone at the Wine and Cheese Party on Saturday, November 17.

Sarnia

A gratifying number of grads — about 40 — turned out to hear Principal Watts address the young Branch's second annual banquet, held at the Sarnia Riding Club on October 3.

The Branch elected a new executive. Dr. David B. Wilson, Sc.'71, Ph.D.'79, is president, succeeding Joanne (Fraba) Petrie, Arts'64. Marsha Lampman, Arts'74, is vice-president, and Catherine (Anderson) Ashikawa, Arts'74, is secretary.

Ross Brown, Com.'77, will be looking after finances, and Al C. Cameron, Arts'42, will be the group's PR man.

Kingston

Local branch activities give the lie to the old saw that "familiarity breeds contempt". Kingston alumni, on campus and off, support students in several ways.

For example, the Campus Garage Sale was a great success again this fall. Proceeds of $560 were added to scholarship funds, and donations of furniture, dishes, decorations, etc., helped students set up housekeeping at bargain prices. President Helen Coffey notes that a surprising number of large items — beds, stoves, washing machines — were given this year, and that many volunteer hours were given in picking them up (in Kingston's September rains), pricing, and selling.

In early November, when Queen's Debating Union hosted its third annual High School Debating Tournament, alumni volunteers pitched in again — some as judges of the stimulating and amusing parliamentary debates, others as billetters of visiting teenagers.

Newfoundland

During the summer the Newfoundland Branch lost its Secretary, Alyce (Casselman) Sutherland, who has moved with husband Al to St. Catharines, Ont. On July 4 the Executive (which included Bill and Zib Wegenast, Megan and Bob Nutbeem, Hope and Steve Papezik, Sally and Bruce LeMessurier and Dr. Sid Breckon) met at the Wegenasts for an evening of good cheer and good-bye.

On the day of the St. John's Regatta (North America's oldest sporting event), Hope and Steve Papezik generously hosted a Garden Party for Queen's alumni. August 1 was a beautiful day, and the tables on the lawn were laden with refreshments while grads and guests gathered to watch the races go up and down Quidi Vidi Lake (which, on the authority of Megan Nutbeem, is pronounced Kitty Vitty).

what the Toronto Branch has to offer this year!" says publicity co-ordinator Debra Sigler.

A King Tut Dinner at the Rosedale Golf Club on Nov. 6 featured a speaker from the Art Gallery of Ontario, our own Queen's expert Egyptologist, Dean David McLay, and a slide presentation -- not to mention a hot buffet supper. If you've missed this, you've missed something special.

Then there's the annual Mixed Curling Bonspiel in early February. The date has not been finalized, but information may be obtained from Judy Riggin (481-2955) or George Cooke (960-3820). Members should soon receive details of the revised luncheon speakers series, too.

"Would you be interested in getting together with others who attended Queen's when you did?" asks Debra. "We thought you might! We are trying to find representatives from each five-year period to help organize events of interest to their specific group." Groups would be organized as follows: 1976-79, 1970-75, 1966-69, 1960-65, etc. Please contact Cindi Hall (535-2929).

The new Toronto Branch executive is as follows:
Past-President, Rosemary Helmer (488-3867);
President, George Cooke (960-3820)
Vice-President, Cindi Hall (535-2929);
Secretary, Lyn Aird (294-4667);
and Treasurer, Paul Mahaffy (923-5399);
They want to hear from you. Please do not hesitate to contact any of the above if you have questions, ideas, comments, criticisms, or just to say "hi".

ALUMNAE AND ENERGY. *At the annual meeting in Ottawa of Queen's Alumnae Association (women graduates), luncheon was highlighted by a brilliant and entertaining speech by Dr. Ian Stewart (second from right), Deputy Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources. Dr. Stewart, Arts'54, M.A.'55(Ph.D. Cornell) addressed the energy situation in Canada and the world, concluding with a challenge to the university community and the alumnae in particular to take a leading role in the shaping of public policy. He called on Queen's people to provide opportunities for "conversations" on where we're heading, where we want to go, and to offer examples of leadership in the non-governmental sector. ## "Sarge" Plumb Known to thousands of alumni as "Sarge", A.H.W. Plumb, who was in charge of the caretaking staff at the Students' Memorial Union for 39 years, died at Kingston, Ont., Sept. 6, in his 80th year.

His first name was Alfred, but it was as Sarge that he was known to successive generations of students. The sobriquet arose out of his service with the armed forces (in which he served for four years before he was 20) at the Dardanelles and in the Palestine campaign.

Outspoken and forthright, Sarge took a personal pride in the maintenance and appearance of the Union, and woe betide the thoughtless student who might be tempted to take liberties with decorum or property. He was equally quick to come to the assistance of those in need. He possessed a keen memory, and was able to recall the names of most grads who looked him up in after years. He retired in January, 1968.

Survivors include his son and daughter, five grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. — H.J.H.

Ottawa and Vice-President of the National Research Council. He retired in 1969, but remained an Honorary Professor at Ottawa. Mrs. Marion predeceased him in 1974.

Taylor: The Rev. Canon Kenneth Elder Taylor, OBE, ED, member of Arts'17, B.A.'20 (M.A., Oxford, D.D., Western), pastor, professor and Theologian, died in London, Ont., Aug. 6, in his 85th year. He played hockey for Queen's and later, as a Rhodes Scholar, played for Oxford, with Lester Pearson and Roland Michener. He served in WWI (21st Battalion, CEF), was ordained an Anglican priest in 1924, served in several pastorates, and enlisted again in WWII, this time as Assistant Principal Chaplain of the Army overseas (1940-45). King George decorated him (OBE), as did the Dutch government (Order of Orange-Nassau). After a period as Principal of the Anglican Theological College of British Columbia (which later gave him an honorary doctorate), he returned to his "home" diocese of Huron, became a Canon of the Cathedral and a governor of Huron College. He retired in 1969, and was able to attend his 60th Class Reunion in 1977. Among Canon Taylor's three surviving children is Mrs. O. Geier (Elspeth Taylor), Arts'52.

Dr. J. Edward Gibson

Medical Director of St. Mary's of the Lake Hospital, Kingston, and a pioneer in geriatric medicine, Dr. James Edward Gibson, B.A.'37, M.D., C.M.'40, FRCP(C), FACP, FCCP, FAGS, died at his home on September 3 at the age of 64.

Dr. Gibson was a native of Kingston, a son of the late Dr. William Gibson, MED.'04. After graduating from Queen's, he served as a medical officer with the RCAF in Canada and Britain. For many years afterwards he was senior treatment officer with the Department of Veteran Affairs in Kingston.

He took postgraduate training in internal medicine at St. Lawrence Hospital in Bronxville, N.Y., and at Kingston General Hospital. He was on the medical staff of KGH, Hotel Dieu (Chief of Staff), Ongwanada and St. Mary's of the Lake hospitals. He was considered an authority in the field of geriatrics, in which he pioneered.

In his younger days, Dr. Gibson was an athlete of note. He played hockey at Queen's, softball for the City, was the Cataraqui Golf Club Champion in 1947, and was an original member and builder of the Steerhurst Golf Club on Howe Island.

Ebert Henderson, Sc.'05, marks 100th birthday

One of Queen's oldest living graduates, Ebert W. Henderson of St. Catharines, Ont., received a special tribute from his younger colleagues in the Niagara Alumni Branch when he celebrated his 100th birthday on Sept. 16. Mr. Henderson, an Electrical Engineering grad of Sc.'05 and one-time Queen's lecturer, was presented with a copy of Queen's official history, volume one, And Not to Yield, with a personal dedication from Principal Watts.

He was also feted twice — first with a surprise party at Linwell Hall, his home for the past seven years, and again with a special service and dinner at his church, surrounded by 50 members of the Henderson family. He reflected that he was just two years old when Thomas Edison built the world's first power plant, in New York City, and that the greatest change in his lifetime has been in the field of electricity.

Two other Queen's alumni also reached the century mark in 1979: Dr. George W. Runnells, Med.'19, of Hudson, Que., and Dr. Walter Pannell, Med.'03, of East Orange, N.J. Mrs. James Mitchell (Eva Miller), Arts'02, of Midland, Mich., was 102 in July.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

All members of the Alumni Association are eligible to nominate anyone who, in their opinion, merits the University Council's Distinguished Service Award.

This award, a prestigious honour, is granted normally to not more than four persons per year. Potential recipients include anyone in the "entire Queen's family". The inscription will read: "Awarded to . . . by Queen's University Council for Distinguished Service to Queen's University." Recipients also become honorary Life Members of the University Council.

Nominations should be made to the Secretary of the University Council, Queen's University, by February 28. They must be in writing and signed by at least five members of the Council or the Alumni Association. Winners are chosen by the Executive of the Council, and awards are presented normally at the time of the Council's annual Spring meeting.

Please do not nominate the following people, who already hold the Distinguished Service Award: Agnes Benidickson, Cliff Brown, H.G. Conn, R.L. Dunsmore, Dr. Norman Garand, Lawrence Greenwood, George Harrower, Jean Hill, Russell J. Kennedy, Padre Laverty, A. Hazlett Lemmon, Ian MacLachlan, Harvey Marshall, John Matheson, Jean McBratney, the late Jean McCaughey, Kay Rousehorn, Jean I. Royce, H.R. Stuart Ryan, Frank Tindall, and James E. Wright.

This Love of Theirs

When alumnus Rick Fondell, Arts'69, took a second look at his first album, he realized there were seven Queen's people involved in its production. The unfirilly, uncampy recording, called This Love of Mine, includes 12 favourite songs of the 1920s and 30s, one of them ("Sweet Georgia Brown") complete with a tap-dance solo recorded on Toronto's Dufferin St., outside the studio.

Besides singer-pianist Fondell, the other alumni featured are all-round musician Kirk Elliott, Mus.'74, Toronto, and singers Sharon Keates, Mus.'75, Toronto, and Phil Beesley, Fine Arts '78, of Kingston, formerly with the group "Sorry We're Closed". Doug McClement, Com.'75, who engineered the album, is the owner of Comfort Sound Recording Studios in Toronto. The photo on the cover, of Rick Fondell in top hat and tails at Kingston's City Hall park, was taken by Chuck Tindall, son of the Old Coach.

The album is available through the Campus Bookstore at Queen's for $6.00 plus tax.

Lightstone Scholarship

The memory of Prof. A.H. Lightstone, who taught in the Department of Mathematics from 1965 until his death in 1976, is being perpetuated at Queen's through a new scholarship. Funded by Mrs. Lightstone and his former colleagues and friends, the award will go to the fourth-year honours student with the second highest standing in mathematics or statistics.

"Queen's University is one of the most prestigious educational institutions in North America — and, some say, the world. A partial list of its alumni reads like a 'Who's Who' of corporate, educational and cultural fame.

"In his book The Canadian Establishment, Peter C. Newman lists having graduated from or having taught at Queen's as a prerequisite for entry into the exclusive club described in its title, to the exclusion of other Canadian universities."

(From an editorial in the publication Kingston This Week, Sept. 12)

He was your classmate — for 14 years!

Scene: A classroom — the first day of classes — any fall since '65. Students are sizing up their classmates — some familiar, others not. Suspicion is cast upon one gentleman in particular. Is he a visiting prof? A student? Osborne Studd has faced this suspicion as a mature student at Queen's, but after the initial curiosity, he has "never felt anything but acceptance."

A retired army captain, Ossie came to Kingston in 1965 as Business Manager for Queen's Physical Plant. Spurred on by his wife Ruth, who was taking courses leading to her B.A. and M.Div., Osborne took advantage of a Queen's policy allowing employees to take one course per year during the day. One year he took two courses, but as a father of five and the breadwinner he found it was too much. "I nearly killed myself." From this harrowing experience grew a great admiration for students who cram for five or six courses and actually remember something at the end of the year.

Ossie has been reading history since he was a boy. Unfortunately, classwork has restricted his pleasure reading to the summer months when he can put away all his text books.

The efforts of the past 14 years resulted in a B.A. in History this year.

Future plans include completing his Masters on retirement. As for next year: "I am going to do nothing."

(With thanks to Tricolour 79)

$1,000 REWARD to an outstanding teacher

Nominations are solicited for candidates for
THE ALUMNI AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING
consisting of a Certificate of Merit and a cash prize of $1,000

Nominations must be in writing, signed by five students, alumni and/or faculty and submitted to the Director of Alumni Affairs, Queen's University, by January 18, 1980. The nomination should include the candidate's name in full; his/her faculty and subject; a brief biographical outline, including education and experience; and reasons for recommending him/her for the Excellence in Teaching Award.

Candidates must be full-time members of Queen's faculty who have completed three years of full-time teaching at Queen's. Nominators should strive to choose professors who have enthusiasm for their subject and the capacity to arouse interest in it among students. Candidates should have a comprehensive knowledge of their subjects and be habitually well prepared for teaching sessions, whether lectures, laboratories or seminars. They should be able to communicate effectively with students, encourage student participation in the teaching-learning process, be accessible to students outside of class hours, and have a reputation for superior teaching among students and colleagues alike.

All nominations will be reviewed by a Teaching Awards Committee consisting of three students, two faculty members and two alumni. The recipient will be announced in April and will receive the Award at an appropriate Spring Convocation.

Please do not nominate previous winners: Professors W.D. Gilbert (Mechanical Engineering); H.R. Stuart Ryan (Law); A.R.C. Duncan (Philosophy); Catherine Harland (English); or William C. Reeve (German).

For additional information contact Murray Gill, Director of Alumni Affairs, (613) 547-6560.

Young Alumni Memorialized

Two popular graduates of the 1970s, both killed in accidents last January — Larry Lavigne, B.Sc.'71, and Val (Hanbidge) Keast, B.A.'76 — have been memorialized at Queen's by their families and their friends.

Terms of the Larry J. Lavigne Memorial Bursary were recently approved by Senate and Board, in consultation with his widow. It is open to Applied Science students and awarded on the basis of proficiency and need on the recommendation of the head of the Department of Metallurgical Engineering and the Dean. To date, 45 donors have given $2,250 to fund the annual award.

Val Keast's husband Michael, Sc.'76, and others in the Keast, Hanbidge and Vallentyne families initiated a fund in memory of Val, which continues to be supported by her Queen's classmates and other friends. The bursary is intended to assist with the travel costs of the St. Andrews Exchange Scholar from Queen's.

GRADUATE ENGINEERS

Schlumberger, the world leader in electronic well logging with sales in excess of 2.5 billion dollars in 1978 is inviting applications from highly motivated engineering graduates with 0-5 years industrial experience to be trained for assignments as Field Engineers in Western Canada. Preference will be given to graduates in the Mechanical, Electrical, Geophysical and Petroleum disciplines, however other engineering graduates with an electronics background will be considered.

Career oriented individuals who have a desire to work in a non-routine atmosphere within the petroleum industry will find these positions challenging. The work will primarily consist of measuring and studying subsurface formations with the use of complex testing equipment. This testing will normally be done in remote locations on a 24 hour call basis.

Initially the incumbents will be intensively trained to perform specialized engineering services in the oil and gas industry. Future opportunities exist for aggressive and ambitious individuals within the management structure of the company.

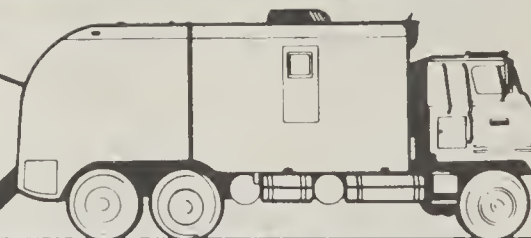

Schlumberger offers an excellent starting salary, job incentive bonus, company car, and a comprehensive benefits programme. The job incentive bonus and company car are available after successful completion of the six month training program. The benefits package includes a dental plan, life insurance, supplementary health care, salary continuance, and a pension and profit sharing plan.

Successful applicants will be reimbursed location expenses.

If you feel you have the necessary skills and desire to handle this very demanding position, call collect (403) 261-2920 or (403) 269-7331 Local 48 weekdays between 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. (Calgary time) and mail your resume special delivery to

Queen's News team on the move

Lois E. Miller has been named news manager in Queen's Department of Development and Information. For the past two years she had been development officer with the department, taking an active part in the Queen's Quest campaign. As news manager she will combine her fund-raising responsibilities with information duties.

A graduate of the University of King's College (B.A.), Dalhousie (B.Ed.) and Queen's (M.A.'71), Ms Miller has held a variety of professional positions: teacher at Kingston's QECVI, reporter for The Whig-Standard, secretary in Queen's School of Urban and Regional Planning and, most recently, development officer. She is currently in her third term as a Kingston Alderman, representing historic Sydenham Ward.

For the past three years the News Department had been managed by Carol Franks, Arts'72, who is now at Boston University studying for a Master of Science degree in broadcast journalism. After graduation from Queen's, Ms Franks studied at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto, was a reporter for The Peterborough Examiner and The Whig-Standard, spent two years as a cuso volunteer in Thailand and a subsequent year travelling in Australia, Asia and the Middle East.

Brenda Large, former Queen's Park reporter for the Globe and Mail, has also joined the Queen's news team, part-time. A veteran journalist, she spent last year in Queen's Faculty of Law as one of the first two winners of Louis St. Laurent Fellowships. The award is sponsored by the Canadian Bar Association to allow an experienced journalist to study special legal topics for a year.

CARS PEOPLE SWEAR BY. NOT AT.

“Wow!!!”

If that's what you have to say about the last new car you bought, you're not alone. More and more people today are thinking less and less of the way new cars are made.

But there's one group of people who can still talk about their cars without using X-rated words. Volvo owners.

In fact, statistics show that 9 out of 10 people who buy new Volvos are happy.

And this year happiness comes in more forms than ever before. From Volvo's affordably priced DL sedans and wagons to the luxury class GLEs that afford every comfort and convenience feature anyone could want.

There's also the Volvo GT which gives many performance cars costing thousands more a run for their money. As well as two new models that don't run on gas: the Volvo diesels.

And finally, the Bertone Coupe. A personal luxury car created for the individual seeking the ultimate mark of quality in an automobile; hand craftsmanship.

Whichever model you select, you'll be getting the quality, comfort and safety that make Volvo something quite uncommon in this day and age. A car VOLVO that's a blessing instead of a curse. A car you can believe in.

A gift that reflects on the giver.

Carrington.

A whisky that's an outstanding reflection of quality.
